FOUR BISHOPS WIN APPROVAL IN COMMITTEE

Denny, Candler, Moore, Mouzon Get Votes of Confidence.

LATTER TWO FACED FORMAL CHARGES

Episcopacy Group Will Continue Balloting on Prelates.

PUBLICITY ACCORDED COMPLAINTS IS HIT

Statement of Disapproval Now Being Drafted for Newspapers.

Dallas, Tex., May 12 (A.P.).—Four of the thirteen bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in general conference here, had their character "passed" by the Episcopacy committee today, meaning that complaints brought against them had not been substantiated. The bishops exonerated of any wrong doing reflecting on their offices or the church were Bishop W. A. Candler, of Atlanta, Ga.; Bishop Collins Denny, of Richmond, Va.; Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon, of Charlotte, N. C., and Bishop John Moore, of Dallas.

Bishops Mouzon and Moore had been accused by the Rev. Mr. Rembert G. Smith, of Washington, Ga., of "unwarranted political activities" in the 1928 presidential election. Others named in Dr. Smith's complaint were Bishop James Cannon, jr., of Washington, D. C., and Bishop H. M. Dubose, of Nashville, Tenn.

Vote in Each Case Unanimous.

J. H. Therrell, of Ocala, Fla., secretary of the committee, said the vote of confidence in each case was unanimous.

The nature of the complaints, if any, against Bishops Candler and Denny were not divulged. F. P. Culver, of Cisco, chairman of the committee, said there were complaints, in most instances minor, against virtually all the bishops at every conference.

Bishop Moore was before the committee for more than an hour and after he emerged from the room said he had made a statement with reference to stock market activities, although he said he did not know if he had been accused of buying and selling stocks. Secretary Therrell said later that the Rev. Mr. George Slover, of Amarillo, had made an oral statement to the committee with reference to Bishop Moore's activities on the market.

Defends Buying Stocks.

"I can not see why one should not deal legitimately in stocks as a business proposition," Bishop Moore told the Associated Press. "Of course, participating in activities of bucket shops is a different proposition. But why shouldn't one buy stocks from dependable brokers? When one buys stock in a railroad he owns a part of that railroad."

Therrell announced the committee had made it a rule to consider the character of the bishops in the order of their seniority.

During the long executive session, Capt. G. T. Fitzhugh, of Memphis, Tenn., waited outside the door with a large envelope said to contain photographs of ledger sheets from New York bearing upon alleged activities of Bishop Cannon on the stock markets. He would not confirm the report that he would file a formal complaint against Bishop Cannon.

Several others were waiting to be called, including the Rev. Mr. J. S. Henley, of Hodge, La., who said he had a complaint of maladministration to bring against Bishop William F. McMurray, of Fayette, Mo.

Committee Takes Recess.

The committee recessed until tomorrow night when it will continue consideration of complaints.

Publicity given complaints filed by individual members of the church against bishops was assailed by Dr. G. C. French, of Denton, Tex. This attack brought a statement from Josephus Daniels, delegate from Raleigh, N. C., deploring the criticism and declaring he did not believe it reflected the true opinion of the conference.

Dr. French said the newspaper reports of the complaints, especially those filed by the Rev. Mr. Rembert Smith, of Washington, Ga., were "disgustingly unfair," and requested the passage of a motion to appoint a committee to draw up a formal statement of disapproval, which the newspapers will be asked to display as prominently as the complaint reports were displayed.

The motion was passed by a large majority and amid cheers. In the minority was Mr. Daniels, who said privately thereafter that he considered the true attitude of the con-

The Earl of Derby, left, en route to Louisville, Ky., for the running of the turf classic bearing his name, is accompanied by Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador, to call on President Hoover.

Cheery Earl, on Way to Race, Learns What Mint Julep Is.

British?

Substitute sidewhiskers for the rollicking sandy mustache and there you have John Bull in the flesh.

That is Edward George Villiers Stanley, the seventeenth Earl of Derby, international sportsman, English statesman and all-around man of the world, who, visiting President Hoover here yesterday, also found time to give some of his impressions about America and his forthcoming part in the Kentucky Derby.

Never a man looked the part more than the seventeenth earl. Ample of paunch, rubicund and round with a chuckle that betrays good will toward his fellow man, Lord Derby betokens Merrie England at its best.

Today he wore formal raiment, but he looked as much in character as if he had just stepped from an old English hunt print, clad in scarlet coat and cap and patent leather riding boots. Or in a pearl gray topper, mingling with the throngs at Epsom Downs. Not exactly the sort one might encounter riding atop a bus in Piccadilly and eating periwinkles with a pin, but a figure from the pages of Punch, nevertheless; a coun-

WASHINGTON LEADS IN MOTOR CAR GAINS

Auto Ownership in Capital Shows 19.7 Per Cent Jump for Year.

SAFETY RECORD IS GOOD

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

To the estimate of Washington as "first in war, first in peace" can now be added "first in motordom," leaving out of consideration where the National Capital stands in the American League.

Competing with 48 States, all of which are geographically larger than its 62 square miles, Washington last year walked away with motordom's championship in so far as increased car ownership is concerned. Running up a gain of 19.7 per cent over 1928, the District had competition only from faraway New Mexico. In the meantime, th ethickly populated, wealthy States of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois finished nineteenth, forty-fifth, thirtieth and twenty-eighth, respectively.

Apart from winning the championship, the District's increase in motor car registration was more than twice the national average which was only 8.2 per cent. Since the United States leads the world and the National Capital leads the United States in an automotive way, the city's title claim is indisputable.

These figures, while the most interesting, comprise only a small part

AVIATOR OVER OCEAN BUFFETED BY STORM

700 MILES FROM GOAL

Rio Janeiro, May 12 (A.P.).—The French aviator, Jules Mermoz, flying the South Atlantic to open the first all-air mail service from Paris to South America, reported at 9 p. m. today (8 p. m., Eastern standard time) that he was in longitude 25.20 west and latitude 4.50 north.

The aviator reported that the cabin of his airplane was flooded by heavy rainstorms through which he had passed. Visibility was poor, but he had gotten out of the rainy area into better weather.

He said he was flying under low clouds and that the seas beneath him were heavy. He is heading for Port Natal, Brazil. The position he gave was roughly 700 miles northeast of his goal, on the Brazilian mainland.

Apparently, judging by his previous position, he is following the shipping route taken by steamers from Bahia to Lisbon.

If Mermoz maintains the speed he expected to, and is not held up by adverse winds, he should reach the Brazilian coast about 5 o'clock Tuesday morning (about 4 a. m. Eastern standard time).

Wilkins Plans Polar Dash With Old U. S. Submarine

Petition to Navy Department for Charter Outlines Plans Which Would Virtually Rebuild Old and Battered O-12 for Undersea Journey.

(Associated Press.)

The Sir Hubert Wilkins expedition, which would said beneath the ice across the top of the world—from Spitzbergen, via the North Pole, to the Behring Sea—has chosen the old and battered United States submarine O-12 for its craft, and yesterday made written request to the Navy Department for a charter.

The plans disclosed that the submersible, if made available, would be virtually rebuilt; fitted with machinery for boring through ice 50 feet thick; equipped with a balloon for air observation, and provided both with television and radio.

The letter was submitted to Assistant Secretary Jahncke of the Navy by Sloan Danenhower, a former Naval Reserve lieutenant commander.

It stated that no great unbroken ice floes had been observed in the Arctic regions, and that there were no icebergs there of great size. Over 25 per cent of the distance from Spitzbergen to the Bering Sea, it said, could be sailed in open water.

On much of the remainder of the route, the letter added, estimates placed the ice depth at 10 feet, due the breaking of the floes in summer.

"A submarine should be able to rise within 10 miles of any given spot in the Arctic Ocean," it was said.

The submarine would be equipped with "a telescopic conning tower for the purpose of drilling ice," and in this matter it was estimated that ice of 10-foot thickness could be opened

SENATE VOTES DISTRICT SUM OF $44,420,455

Farmers' Market Funds Included in 1931 Bill on Appropriations.

JOINT CONFERENCE NEXT FOR MEASURE

Federal Contribution to Capital Increased to $12,000,000.

HOUSE FIGHT LOOMS ON $3,000,000 RISE

Total Nearly Three Millions Above That Designated for Current Year.

After settling once and for all the long fight over the Farmers Produce Market, the Senate passed the 1931 District of Columbia appropriation bill yesterday afternoon. It now goes to a Senate and House conference.

To run the municipal government for the fiscal year beginning July 1, the bill appropriates a total of $44,420,455, which is $912,662 less than the sum provided by the House, but $2,932,840 more than was appropriated for the current fiscal year.

The item of $300,000 for the construction of the Farmers Produce Market in Southwest Washington was approved by a vote of 44 to 22, a ratio of 2 to 1.

Capper, Frazier Dissenters.

Inasmuch as the House also voted to retain the item in the bill, the $300,000 appropriation for the market now is assured.

The fight on the market appropriation was made by Chairman Capper, of the Senate District committee, and Senator Frazier (Republican), of North Dakota. The two men declared that both the farmers who bring their produce here and the rank and file of citizens are opposed to locating the market in the Southwest section. To back up this assertion, Chairman Capper introduced a letter from the Maryland and Virginia Farmers Market Association, and cited the fact that the Federation of Citizens Associations has gone on record against the expenditure.

Senator Frazier declared that the $300,000 might better be used for schools.

Plea by Glass Fulfilled.

"We have some of the poorest school buildings in the United States," he declared. "The portable buildings are a disgrace, would be a disgrace to any city."

Chairman Capper urged that action on the farmers' market be delayed until it has been decided what is to be done about a new Center Market. The present one must give way to the new Archives Building.

Senator Glass (Democrat), of Virginia, declared that the farmers' market question had been thrashed out and settled in the last Congress, when a bill authorizing the project

SENATE GROUP WIDENS SCOPE IN PACT INQUIRY

Committee on Foreign Relations Questions Col. Stimson.

RESENTMENT FELT AT PRIMER METHOD

Move to Broaden Quiz Seen as Portending Thorough Analysis of Problem.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

After hearing preliminary testimony by Secretary Stimson yesterday the Senate foreign relations committee decided to broaden the scope of its inquiry into the various features of the London naval treaty. The committee's action came as a surprise and forecasts a painstaking and thorough analysis of all controversial problems in the pact before the treaty is reported back to the Senate.

Besides Secretary Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Adams and Admiral Pratt, chief naval adviser to the delegation, the committee will now hear Admiral Hilary Jones and members of the general board of the Navy. What effect this action will have on hearings contemplated by the Senate naval affairs committee is problematical, but it is clear that Senators Borah, Hiram Johnson, La Follette, Shipstead and others on the foreign relations committee do not propose to judge the pact without hearing testimony both for and against it.

Borah Adjourns Session.

Secretary Stimson's first session with the committee was not altogether satisfactory to committee members though Mr. Stimson obviously went to great pains to prepare the sort of data which, he believed, the committee would wish to have presented. But much of the data was too elementary to impress those senators who resent the idea of being instructed in matters which they claim to understand and, unfortunately, Mr. Stimson did not get far beyond the primer stage in his explanations before Senator Borah interrupted the proceedings at 11:50 and adjourned the committee until today.

Like Slow-Motion Picture.

When the Secretary resumes this morning at 10:30 it is expected that explanations and discussions will proceed along more advanced lines. Yesterday's session was too much like a slow-motion picture to satisfy impatient senators, who are anxious to have Mr. Stimson's testimony respecting specific features of the pact.

In the course of his explanation yesterday Mr. Stimson was interrupt-

Four Drown in Canal Two Little Girls Say

Police will today renew their efforts to locate the bodies of a "fat" man, a woman and two children, all of whom perished in the muddy waters of the canal, just west of the abandoned Aqueduct Bridge early last night when a rowboat in which they were drifting capsized.

Dragging of the canal was temporarily stopped when darkness overtook the workers last night. It will be resumed shortly after daybreak today, police said.

Two small girls, Helen McDaniels, of 3733 N street northwest, and Margaret Crampton, of 3713 Canal road, gave the alarm that the four had drowned. They said they were walking along the canal when the rowboat capsized, and the four were plunged into the water.

Reserves from the Seventh Precinct, the ambulance from Emergency Hospital and the fire rescue squad were summoned when Mrs. McDaniels, mother of one of the girls, told police of her daughter's story.

Will Reynolds, veteran river man; Policeman Charles Birkight, and members of the fire rescue squad dragged the canal for two hours. They stopped when darkness made further work dangerous.

W. M. Jawish, proprietor of a gasoline filling station near the scene of the drowning, told police of the Seventh Precinct that he saw a body floating in the canal shortly after the two girls reported their version of the affair.

A water-logged rowboat, found in the canal near Potomac street, and at first thought to have been the boat in which the four were drifting, later turned out to be so full of holes that it was not possible for it to have floated.

So far, police have only the stories told by the two girls and Mr. Jawish upon which to base their attempt to locate the four bodies. Both banks of the canal were searched thoroughly, but nothing tending to show that any boat had overturned was found. It was pointed out that had the boat capsized, it would have remained afloat, but no boat, except the water-logged one, has been found.

No persons answernig the general description of the four reported drowned have been reported missing, police records show.

Poetess Takes Post of Rebel Leader When Salt Raids Are Halted.

London, May 12 (A.P.).—The Daily Mail tonight received a dispatch from its correspondent at Bombay saying that the entire city of Scholapur had fallen into the hands of rioters, and that traders refuse to open their shops, fearing wholesale looting.

The dispatch said that in response to the urgent appeal of the district magistrate, a battalion of the Ulster Rifles was dispatched from Poona. A. W. Mackie, commissioner of the central division, also hurriedly left Poona for Sholapur. The mill city, which was the scene of rioting on Wednesday and Thursday last week, will probably be put under martial law and be handed over entirely to military control shortly.

The British arm in India has used airplanes in a bombing raid for the first time in the disorders that have followed upon the civil disobedience campaign. Wedgwood Benn, secretary of state for India, told the House of Commons today that Haji of Turangzai, a chieftain of the northwest frontier who has been within 20 miles of the key city of Peshawar within the last few days, was bombed after he refused an order to leave.

Felled Trees in Road.

After receiving an ultimatum to move out with his followers, the haji answered by felling trees to block a highway. The British replied with airplanes, but the results were not yet known here tonight.

Other news from India contained little that was comforting to the British.

Nationalist followers of Mahatma Gandhi raided the salt deposits at Shiroda, but were halted by police, who arrested about 100. Abbas Tyabji, who succeeded Mahatma Gandhi when the latter was interned, assembled his followers for a march to the salt works at Dharasana, but the police stopped that before it started by arresting the leader and a number of his followers.

Tyabji in turn was succeeded by Mrs Sarojini Naidu, poetess, who was educated in England. The trial of Tyabji and 59 volunteers was started almost immediately after the arrest, but later was adjourned until tomorrow.

Government Attitude Firm.

The break-up of the two salt raids and the arrest of the second raid leader of the civil disobedience movement showed that the government was tightening up to halt the campaign.

Mr. Benn said that the first section of the long-awaited Simon report on India would appear June 10 and the second section, containing recommendations, on June 24. He also announced that the commander in chief of British troops in India, Sir William Birdwood, was entirely convinced the native troops were loyal to the British.

Proceedings to libel a large quantity of utensils, machines, preparations, tablets and substances which it is claimed are designed for use in the unlawful manufacture of intoxicating liquors were instituted yesterday in District Supreme Court by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover and Assistant United States Attorney Harold W. Orcutt. The proceedings are the first launched locally since the recent ruling of the United States Supreme Court holding that such articles when intended for such use, are contraband.

Justice Jennings Bailey immediately signed a warrant authorizing United States Marshal Edgar C. Snyder to arrest everything described in the libel proceedings and hold it pending a court hearing on June 5.

Malt, malt extract, malt syrup, corks, bottles, caps, bottle openers, filters, jugs, mugs, kegs, funnels, bungs, bottle cappers, bottle rinsers, hops, rubber hose, syphons, strainers, crocks, charcoal purifiers and whisky flavoring extracts are described in the information of libel filed with the court's order and the arrest warrant.

Baltimore Home of Woman Suicide Yields $100,000

Jewels, Cash and Bonds Found Cached in Crannies of Palatial Dwelling After Body of Recluse Is Discovered in Inches of Water.

Baltimore, Md., May 12 (A.P.).—The body of Mrs. Mary Textor today was found lying in several inches of water in the basement of a palatial home she occupied alone. Several hours later police had unearthed $100,000 in jewels, cash and bonds from various hiding places about the dwelling.

Mrs. Textor's body was found lying in the water, a strand of heavy wire noose wound tightly about her neck and water still gushing from a broken overhead pipe which the woman apparently had used as a gallows upon which to hang herself.

All doors and windows of the house were locked, and the blinds drawn over the windows, when Frank Bouchat, a friend of the 68-year-old woman, called today, to obtain no response to his repeated knocks. He heard the running of the water in the basement and called police who broke in a door.

After the body had been removed, police started a search which resulted in finding of the treasure. In a talking machine box was a handful of jewels, which added to others found in other hiding places, totaled $25,000 in value. Other cracks and crannies yielded Liberty bonds, other securities and cash to bring the whole total to $100,000, the police said.

Mrs. Textor had lived alone in the big home, with only a dog for companionship, since the death of her husband, a wealthy lumberman, four years ago. A suicide verdict was returned in her death.

VICEROY CENSURES GANDHI FOR REVOLT

Spurned Chance to Play Constructive Part in Progress, He Says.

LAW BREAKING HELD SURE BAR TO LIBERTY

Ruler Asserts He Wants to See Political Advance but Will Be Firm.

Simla, India, May 12 (A.P.).—In a statement summarizing present conditions in India, Lord Irwin, viceroy of India, head of Indian government, today announced that the long-discussed round-table conference to consider India's attainment of dominion status will open in London October 20.

Mahatma Gandhi and the other leaders of the civil disobedience movement were censured in the viceroy's statement for not awaiting the holding of this conference. Lord Irwin said they had "spurned an opportunity unprecedented in India's history and rejected an unique chance of playing a constructive part in the evolution of India's future."

Lamenting "ominous tales of mob violence and armed and murderous raids" from Peshawar, Madras, Bombay, Calcutta, Chittagong, Karachi, Delhi and Sholapur, the viceroy declared that the government had been compelled to arm itself against the growing menace.

Calm Judgment Asked.

He appealed to Indians to consider the facts dispassionately and recognized that the desire for real political advance was widespread throughout India, but he warned that the civil disobedience leaders would be postponing its fruition if they broke the law.

"At this juncture in India's history," the statement began, "I desire to recall the attention of her people to the main fact out of which the present situation has developed.

"On November 1 last I made an announcement on behalf of his majesty's government that in their judgment it was implicit in the declaration of 1917 that the natural issue of India's constitutional progress as there contemplated was the attainment of dominion status.

Conference Was Proposed.

"I further stated that when the statutory commission and the Indian central committee had submitted their reports, and these had been published, and when his majesty's government had been able in consultation with the government of India to consider these matters in the light of all material then available, they would propose to inviet representatives of different parties and interests in British India and representatives of Indian states to meet them separately or together, as circumstances might demand, for the purpose of conference and discussion in regard both to British India and the all-India problems."

Lord Irwin continued that when he met Gandhi and Pandit Motilal Nehru, arrested leadeer of the congress meeting, on December 23, 1929, "they made t plan they were not prepared to participate in the conference except upon new conditions which had found no place in my announcement, and consequent upon this, the congress at Lahore, under the guidance of Gandhi, proclaimed its creed to be that of complete independence.

Sees Offer Spurned by Some.

"It is a matter for great regret that any body of Indian opinion should have rejected the offer of his majesty's government. I have said upon previous occasions those who have so acted have spurned an opportunity unprecedented in India's history, and have rejected an unique chance of playing a constructive part in the evolution of India's future.

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States Appears On Pages 5 and 20 Today

"In order to defeat the proposal of his majesty's government, they have sought to proceed not by constitutional means, as might have been expected to appeal to reasonable men, but have deliberately embarked upon a course of civil disobedience fraught with dangers to which it is impossible to suppose its authors can any longer be blind."

The viceroy then referred to the letter in which Gandhi announced his intention of starting the civil disobedience campaign and to his own reply expressing regret that the public peace was to be endangered.

Firm Is Holding Authority.

Recalling his prediction in the legislative assembly on January 25 that the Gandhi movement would involve such danger, Lord Irwin made it clear that while it was his desire to do everything possible for conciliation, he would none the less effectively maintain the authority of the law.

"The events of the past few weeks," he said, "have been a melancholy fulfillment of the anticipation expressed in my reply to Gandhi's letter. From quarters as far distant as Peshawar, Madras, Bombay, Calcutta, Chittagong, Karachi, Delhi and Sholapur have come ominous tales of mob violence and armed and murderous raids, and general defiance of the lawful authority.

"With regret, but inevitably, my government have been compelled, in the face of this growing menace to the well-being and security of the Indian public, to arm themselves and the provincial governments with such further weapons as we judge necessary and expedient to restore in the eyes of the world the good name of India for sanity and respect of constituted authority.

Still Steadast in Purpose.

"Driven as I and my government have been by the force of circumstances and by the action of others to take these steps (and I hope wiser counsels may soon prevail which may render unnecessary the continuance of measures designed to meet an emergency) I desire to make it plain that our purpose remains unchanged.

"Neither my government nor his majesty's will be deflected by these unhappy events from our firm determination to abide by the policy I was privileged to announce on behalf of his majesty last January.

"Steps are being actively taken to arrange for assembling in London the representatives at the conference there contemplated on October 20 next. Though this date is later than in some respects I could have wished, it will offer the advantage to delegates from India of establishing personal relations with the Dominion representatives, who will then be present in London in connection with the imperial conference already arranged to meet at the end of September.

Has Great Hope for Parley.

"The actual opening of the Indian conference would follow immediately the conclusion of the imperial conference. If I may sound a more personal note, I would say that those who know my mind best will realize how great is the store which I set upon the outcome of this policy.

"But constructive work such as that we are eager to begin is only predjudiced and obstructed by disorder. I would accordingly appeal to all persons throughout India calmly and dispassionately to consider these facts for themselves."

After recognizing that "at the present time there is a widespread desire throughout India to see real political advance," Lord Irwin said, "I have learned to love India too well to relax my effort to assist what I hold to be the natural true development of her political life."

Minorities Must Be Cared For.

He declared, however, that such development depended upon the solution of "real problems," including that of the future position of racial minorities. He said any settlement must have the consent of the minorities who would live under a new constitution.

He ended with a warning to Gandhi and his associates:

"But so long as those responsible for the civil disobedience movement refuse to recognize realities and proceed as if all that were necessary was to break the law regardless of the consequences, so long will they be postponing the very things that they profess to desire for India and that others, who do not share their reluctance to see the facts as they are, might by this have gone far to achieve.

"No more severe condemnation was ever passed upon any person than that in which it was said of some, that they entered not in themselves and them that were entering in they hindered."

Church to Hold Exhibition.

An exhibition of work for poor churches will be staged next Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday at the Convent of Perpetual Adoration, 1419 V street northwest, it was announced yesterday. The Right Rev. James H. Ryan, rector of Catholic University, will solemnly bless the vestments and make an address at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. ....

SENATE CHIEFS SEE ROBERTS' APPROVAL

Supreme Court Nomination Steered Into Channel of Routine Inquiry.

DRYS APPEAR SATISFIED

(Associated Press.)

The nomination of Owen J. Roberts, of Philadelphia, to be associate justice of the Supreme Court was steered into the channel of routine Senate inquiry yesterday while leaders, both in and out of the regular Republican fold, freely predicted confirmation.

The Senate judiciary committee referred the nomination to a subcommittee composed of Senator Borah, of Idaho, chairman, and Senators Hebert (Republican), Rhode Island, and Overmann (Democrat), North Carolina.

Senator Borah called a meeting of the subcommittee for today. He said he saw no occasion for hearings. He found it "significant," he added, that no opposition has been voiced. Chairman Norris of the judiciary committee—one of the leaders of the fight that ended in rejection of Judge John J. Parker, of North Carolina—forecast "immediate" action on the subcommittee's recommendatiog, probably next Monday. Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, said he saw no reason why confirmation should not be given promptly.

Justice Department Has No Data.

The Justice Department was asked for information for the Senate study yesterday and responded that it had "nothing." This was said to be unusual in the history of nominations for high positions in the judiciary.

After voicing approval of the nomination, Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, said the subcommittee might report its recommendation to the full committee at a special meeting on Thursday. Senator Norris said he would oppose action at that time, however, to avoid criticism of "rushing the appointment through." Commenting on Mr. Robert's legal activities on behalf of large corporations, he declared that the nominee had demonstrated his independence.

"It is natural for a man to get the corporation viewpoint when he is surrounded by the influences of big business," Senator Norris said, "but Roberts has demonstrated his independence in his activities in connection with the oil prosecutions."

Sheppard Wants Facts.

Senator Sheppard (Democrat), Texas, who had served notice he might oppose Mr. Roberts on the prohibition issue, said he "wanted the fact," and would not enter a fight on the nomination "unless investigation shows a definite prejudice against the law." Senator Sheppard said that he was satisfied with an explanation by Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, that a speech Mr. Roberts made in 1923 was a discussion of legal considerations.

The two North Carolina Democrats, Senators Simmons and Overman, reserved judgment on the nominee, Overman declaring, however, that he could "see no reason for opposition."

A telegram from Dr. Homer T. Tope, State superintnedent of the Pennsylvania Antisaloon League, endorsing Mr. Roberts, was made public by Senator Reed, who said in a statement that he had received "informal assurance" that the nomination was "entirely satisfactory to the Pennsylvania prohibitionists." Senator Walsh, of Montana, assistant Democratic leader and a leading dry, said he saw no reason why the nomination should not be promptly confirmed.

Tyabji Calls for Rebellion.

Tyabji, it was reported, made a brief statement and expressed appreciation for his treatment under arrest and then declared that the whole country was rising against the present system of government.

"I trust that the whole of India," he said, "will now rise like one man to break the salt law and refuse the payment of land revenue, thus bringing to an end this accursed system." The 59 on trial with him stated their belief in sedition and their desire to destroy the government.

A telegram from the government of India, made public tonight, said there were "definite signs of unrest" among the tribesmen of Tochi agency, on the northwest frontier, but did not elucidate further. It added that the salt campaign was languishing in many places, and "the general situation at present is well under control and the resources of the government are fully organized to resist the forces of lawlessness and disorder."

Civil War General Goes Under Knife

Adelbert Ames Reported Recuperating After Operation.

Boston, Mass., May 12 (A.P.).—Gen. Adelbert Ames, the last surviving general of the Civil War, was believed to be recuperating today after an operation a few days ago for an ailment attributable to advanced age. At the hospital it was said he had spent a very comfortable day. He is 94 years old.

Gen. Ames served after the war as reconstruction governor of Mississippi. He was born at Rockland, Me., and was graduated at West Point in 1861. He was several times cited for conspicuous services during the Civil War. He received the Congressional Medal of Honor "for remaining upon the field at Bull Run after being severely wounded." During the Spanish-American War he served as a brigadier general.

Gen. Ames and Mrs. Ames, the daughter of the later Gen. Benjamin F. Butler, live at Tewksbury, Mass. Their son, Butler Ames, who also had a military career, now lives on Lake Como, Italy.

PEACE PLAN SOUGHT ON FLEXIBLE CLAUSE

Conferees Will Meet Today in Effort to Effect Compromise.

WATSON FLAYS ENEMIES

(Associated Press.)

Republican efforts to save the tariff bill by working out a compromise flexible provision continued yesterday, but no definite proposition came out of the many conferences held on both sides of the Capitol.

The conferees will meet late today for the first time since Saturday, when they broke up in disagreement over procedure. The House conferees then insisted that the Senate group seek permission from the Senate to work out an adjustment of the flexible controversy free of any ties binding them to the Senate provision withdrawing presidential rate-changing power.

The House itself voted down the Senate amendment and in this it is supported by President Hoover. To avoid a possible Senate vote insisting on the Senate's original modified flexible clause and endangering the final passage of the bill, Republican leaders are hopeful that a satisfactory compromise can be agreed upon in conference and approved by both Houses.

With this dispute settled, the majority chieftains say the remainder of the provisions in controversy can be disposed of with little difficulty.

Coincident with the conferences yesterday Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, issued a statement through the Republican national committee, asserting, "New evidence of the duplicity of many of the Senate Democrats on tariff matters is furnished by the record of the printed amendments to the pending tariff bill offered by the minority."

These totaled 270, Senator Watson added, or nearly twice as many as emanated from the Republican protectionists.

"Having obtained most of the rates which they sought," he said, "many of these same Democrats assumed an attitude of piety which ill became them and condemned the bill in its entirety, apparently under the delusion that the country was unacquainted with their own protection efforts."

The tariff came up on the floor of the House during the day with a speech by Representative Korell (Republican), Oregon, in favor of protection for the lumber industry.

Senators Jones, Washington, and Steiwer, Oregon, both Republicans, placed telegrams in the record from Gov. Hartley, of Washington, and the American wage earners' protective conference advocating a lumber levy.

Miss Gunner was chosen with her fourteen classmates as "village juniors" to supervise activities of the 400 or more freshmen students who will enter the school next year. The choice is made by the fifteen present "village juniors" from members of the sophomore class on the basis of personality, strength of character and other traits.

Irene Castle Jails Man Who Deserted Collie

Chicago, May 12 (A.P.).—Irene Castle McLaughlin, who danced her way to fame, got her man today. For three months she relentlessly sought the man who deserted a three-legged collie dog in a vacant flat one day last January when the temperature hovered around 14 below zero.

An officer of the Anti-Cruelty Society arrested the man, whose name was given as Henry Prenshaffer. He was fined $25 and costs by Municipal Judge Alfred O. Erickson, and is to work out the fine in the House of Correction.

Mrs. McLaughlin, who had a home for friendless dogs, which was destroyed by fire some time ago, testified against him.

REPEAL IS DEMANDED OF TOWER MEASURE

SUPPORTED BY GARNER

A bill to repeal the act of April 29, 1930, authorizing the construction of a huge Masonic tower on the Dean tract, off Connecticut avenue and Florida avenue, was introduced in the House late yesterday by Representative Louis Cramton (Republican), of Michigan.

In a speech in the House earlier in the day Mr. Cramton declared that he and other members had been given incorrect information about the project.

Whereas he was told that the land surrounding the Masonic tower would be converted into a park, Mr. Cramton said, it now develops that it will be dotted with apartment houses. Thus, he said, the whole project is a semicommercial one.

Moreover, Mr. Cramton said, he now understands that the Masonic tower is to be almost a replica of the Lincoln Memorial. This, he said, would be a "desecration."

Minority Leader Garner and Representative Arentz (Republican), of Nevada, urged Mr. Cramton to introduce a bill for the repeal of the law authorzing the tower, and this the Michigan member did as soon as he could draft one.

It was necessary to introduce a bill for the tower's construction because, under the building regulations, the tower could not be more than 90 feet high. The bill authorized one 180 feet high.

Parker Visits Hoover; Genial Despite Defeat

(Associated Press.)

Judge John J. Parker, of North Carolina, called at the White House yesterday and left smiling.

Rejected by the Senate by the narrowest of Margins as a Supreme Court justice, he visited the Executive Mansion to express his appreciation to President Hoover for his nomination. Good-humored and genial as he left, he nevertheless declined to pose for photographers and would not discuss the struggle that ended in his rejection.

FRANCE, ITALY SEEK NAVY AIMS ACCORD

Briand and Grandi at Geneva Accept Henderson Offer of Good Offices.

LEAGUE COUNCIL MEETS

Geneva, May 12 (A.P.).—France and Italy, resuming negotiations left pending since the close of the London naval conference, have decided to utilize the fifty-ninth session of the League of Nations council, which opened today, to seek a settlement of their conflicting naval policies and fleet parity dispute.

This became known tonight when Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary, announced he had offered his good offices toward this end to Aristride Briand, French foreign minister, and Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister. M. Briand and Signor Grandi, who headed their respective delegations in the closing days of the conference, sat side by side today in the council.

Both received favorably Mr. Henderson's offer, according to a British official, who added that Mr. Henderson probably would take up the naval discussions with the two continental statesmen during the present week.

M. Briand tonight invited Signor Grandi and Mr. Henderson to lunch with him tomorrow. This is expected to serve as the occasion for actually resuming negotiations.

Holds Disarmament Greatest Task.

The British offer to cooperate in efforts to settle harmoniously the differences between the Latin neighbors that defied solution at the London conference was made to M. Briand in Paris on Friday, and to Signor Grandi here today. Mr. Henderson and Signor Grandi lunched together.

Mr. Henderson, speaking at a press conference tonight, referred to the Italian foreign minister's speech on Italian naval policy to the Chamber at Rome on Thursday. He said he fully agreed with Signor Grandi's declaration that disarmament was the greatest task before the nations and that only the League of Nations could bring it to a successful conclusion.

Toward disarmament, Mr Henderson continued, the London Naval Conference had contributed "a fair measure of success, the progress of disarmament and international conciliation is naturally a slow one, but we feel real progress is being made."

Mr. Hughes' Resigantion Accepted.

The first important act of the council, after assembling, was to accept the resignation of Charles Evans Hughes, now Chief Justice of the United States, from the Permanent Court for International Justice, at The Hague.

Voyislav Marinkovitch, president of the council, and foreign minister of Jugoslavia, instructed the secretary general of the League of Nations to convey to Mr. Hughes the council's gratitude for the services he had rendered while serving at the court. Mr. Hughes resigned after being appointed Chief Justice of the United States.

A special election will be held at the September assembly session to select a successor to Mr. Hughes.

SENATE NAVAL PACT INQUIRY BROADENED

ACTION CAUSES SURPRISE

ed once by Senator Johnson. The Secretary asked leave to first finish his explanation of the pact as a whole but added that he would then be willing to answer any questions. The so-called cross-examination of Mr. Stimson will probably be a feature of the proceedings today.

The committee room selected for the hearings is the minority conference room on the third floor of the Senate Office Building. Of the spectators privileged to occupy the available seats the majority were women. Mrs. Stimson, Mrs. Reed, Mrs. Longworth and Mrs. Laura Puffer Morgan; the last named representing organized pacifists, were among those who followed every word of the testimony.

Borah Opens Proceedings.

Senator Borah opened proceedings by suggesting that Secretary Stimson proceed in his own way and the Secretary then began his informative narration, refreshing his memory with notes and manuscripts.

President Hoover gave the American delegation no instructions, written or oral, prior to the conference or during the negotiations, Secretary Stimson said.

"We knew his general views," he added, "but there was no time when he intervened."

Expressing profound gratitude for the President's course of action, Mr. Stimson contrasted the absence of instructions from Mr. Hoover, who had the right to instruct, with efforts made by outsiders to tell the delegation what to do or not to do. As certain of the senators present had made suggestions as to what they thought the delegation should or should not do, the Secretary's statement included them in the good-natured rebuke administered early in Mr. Stimson's narrative.

Washington Parley Recalled.

Emphasizing the difficulty of getting agreement at London, Mr. Stimson stated that the Washington conference of 1921-22 had a comparatively easy task in at least one respect because America had partially completed battleships which gave the United States a marked superiority in that type of vessel. America obtained a general reduction in the type of vessel of which she had marked superiority but was unable, Mr. Stimson said, to bring about reduction in any other type of ship. America sacrificed her battleship superiority "on the altar of disarmament," according to Secretary Stimson.

Great Britain is not now building against the United States, Mr. Stimson told the committee, after stating that the London conference had improved international relations by removing naval competition. The American delegation played the leading role in preventing the break-up of the London conference, said Mr. Stimson. "In my opinion, no more valuable service was rendered by the American delegation," he added.

It was twenty minutes before noon when Secretary Stimson gave the committee his definition of parity as applied to Great Britain and the United States.

Definition of Parity.

"We figured that parity meant equal naval strength between the two fleets," he said. "In our opinion that is the only practical way to arrive at parity.

"Some people have argued that this is not sufficient, that Great Britain has more naval bases and a greater merchant tonnage. The answer is that if we are going into these questions, Great Britain would turn around and say to us that Great Britain is an insular power dependent upon things that America is not dependent upon."

To bring these elements in would make it impossible to reach a parity formula, Mr. Stimson contended.

Actual Results Outlined.

As an example of actual results achieved, Mr. Stimson cited the fact that Great Britain has now agreed to permit America to modernize her battleships and raise the gun elevation, which permssion Great Britain denied to us after the Washington conference. America, the Secretary said, is not concerned about building programs of France and Italy except as they affect British plans.

The British Labor government's decision to be satisfied with 50 instead of 70 cruisers was an indication of British friendship for America and British desire to meet the wishes of the United States in limiting armaments.

But disarmament can not be brought about by a single step, but must be achieved by a process of successive steps, Mr. Stimson explained, adding that the calling of another conference after 1935 would prove an important feature of the conference just concluded.

CHURCH DRIVE ENDS WITH $145,200 SUM

GOAL SET AT $100,000

At the completion last night of a campaign to raise funds to complete St. Gabriel's Catholic Church at Grant Circle, John A. McKeown, director of the Builders' Society, in charge of the drive announced that the total collected had reached the sum of $145,200.

The campaign, which has been under way for a week, with more than 100 workers soliciting funds throughout the parish of St. Gabriel's Church, was organized to finance the completion of the new edifice which will mark the tenth anniversary of the founding of the church by The Right Rev. John M. McNamara, Auxiliary Bishop of Baltimore, and pastor of the church. The sum of $100,000, originally set as the minimum goal of the drive, was raised in the first three days of the campaign.

Preliminary gifts of more than $40,000 were announced at a dinner given by the laymen of the parish in nhonor of Bishop McNamara at the Mayflower Hotel on April 29, and at that time the Builders Society was organized. It was decided to raise the necessary funds to have the new church ready for occupancy by Christmas. The church is to be o fclassic design, in accordance with the plans of the National Fine Arts Commission for the architectural development of the Capital.

Bishop McNamara last night expressed gratification at the success of the campaign.

"This is a remarkable anniversary and thanksgiving offering that marks the tenth year of the parish," he said. "It is a high tribute to the people of this church."

Michael A. Rattigan served as chairman of the campaign committee with Walter D. Beller as vice chairman. The Rev. Joseph M. Nelligan and the Rev. William J. Sweeney, assistants to Bishop McNamara, served as honorary vice chairmen.

MIMIC AERIAL WAR EVEN AT NIGHTFALL

Half of Ten Attacks Made on Aberdeen Repulsed by Defenders.

BATTLE GOES ON TODAY

Odds were about even between the Red and Blue forces when night fell yesterday over the narrow strip of contested soil in the aerial warfare being conducted between here and Aberdeen, Md. Ten attacks by Red planes based at Bolling Field were made during the day, about half of them resulting in defeat of the air forces and the other half in the complete "destruction" of the Aberdeen Proving Grounds.

The mimic war is being carried on by the Army Air Corps and the Coast Artillery to determine the efficiency of a recently devised protective network of observation posts thrown around a threatened point. The attacking airplanes, operating in flights of three, left Bolling Field at intervals and flew predeterminied courses to Aberdeen. The observation posts endeavored to spot them and communicate with the net ahead, thus tracing the course of the planes. It was hoped to notify Aberdeen in time to permit a force of defending planes to take the air.

A total of 38 planes is being used. These include a squadron of nine bombardment planes from Langley Field, and a squadron of nine attack planes from Fort Crockett, Galveston, Tex., comprising the Red Forces, and 20 pursuit planes from Selfridge Field, Mich., forming the defensive force at Aberdeen. An antiaircraft artillery regiment also is being used by the defending Blues. Communication among posts is both by telephone and radio.

Today the war will continue unabated, despite the early disasters to both sides. However, as the week progresses, the problem of the defenders will become more difficult, since in yesterday's warfare, the Red planes flew straight courses and gradually will make these more irregular and harder to follow.

Man Granted Divorce; Corespondent Named

Justice Jennings Bailey in District Supreme Court yesterday granted Henry L. Posey, of Maryland avenue northeast near Fourteenth street, an interlocutory decree of absolute divorce from Mrs. Esther A. Posey. A corespondent was named and proof was produced at the hearing to show that the wife and the other man were arrested May 5, last, on statutory charges.

The Poseys were married August 17, 1919, at Alexandria, Va., and were separated on August 25, 1927, when the husband alleged his wife deserted him and their one child, now 8 years old. Mr. Posey charged that after she left him the wife lived with the other man. Attorneys Raymond Neudecker and William C. Ashford appeared for the husband.

DISTRICT APPROPRIATION BILL PASSED AFTER MARKET FIGHT

was passed by the two houses. He asked for a decision on the $300,000 item, and the vote of 44 to 22 to keep it in the bill followed.

District Workers Get Sum.

The principal changes made in the appropriation bill by the Senate follow:

Increased the Federal contribution toward the upkeep of the city from $9,000,000 to $12,000,000.

Provided for a new schedule of water rates, midway between the House rates and the present rates.

Reduced from $3,000,000, the House figure, to $1,000,000 the sum to be spent for the acquistion of property in the municipal center area.

Provided $100,000 to give District employes the salary increases their efficiency ratings entitle them to, a sum denied by the House.

Tindall Retains Position.

Tacked on an amendment authorizing what, in effect, will be the lifetime job for Dr. William Tindall, chief of the city's information bureau, who, under the retirement law, would have to quit in August.

Struck out a House provision to reduce the number of kindergarten teachers.

Adopted an amendment authorizing the construction of a subway to eliminate the Chestnut street grade crossing.

Adopted an amendment to authorize the Welfare and Recreation Association of the Bureau of Public Buildings and Grounds to operate the municipal bathing pools.

Street Repair Funds.

Added an item of $60,000 for a war on mosquitoes.

Provided for the repair of these streets: Oglethorpe street, Seventh to Eighth streets, $5,500; Sixteenth street, Columbia road to Tiger bridge, $136,000; Nevada avenue, Rittenhouse street to Runnymede place, $3,000; Bancroft place, Twenty-third street to Twenty-fourth street, $6,400; H street, Massachusetts avenue to Seventh street, $30,000. It also added $200,000 for the general surfacing and resurfacing of streets.

Added these schools items: Congress Heights School, assembly hall and gymnasium, $40,000; treatment of site for a new platoon school and junior high school for colored pupils, $50,000; Douglas-Simmons School, eight-room addition, $140,000; Deanwood School, assembly hall and gymnasium, $50,000; for a school site west of Connecticut avenue and north of Jenifer street, and a site adjoining the Harrison School, $97,500.

Fiscal Relations Fight.

In addition to the money provided by the House for sixteen additional police lieutenants, the Senate provided $45,000 for 25 additional privates, and also inserted an $8,000 item for the rent of a building for the House of Detention. The House had directed that this institution be housed in one of the buildings in the Municipal Center area.

The principal fight in the Senate and House conference will come over the fiscal relations provision. In boosting the Federal contribution from $9,000,000 to $12,000,000, the Senate took the position that it has always taken, namely, that the $9,000,000 lump sum does not represent a fair contribution toward the city's expenses on the part of the Federal Government.

The statutory law requires the Federal Government to contribute 40 per cent of the cost, but $9,000,000 is nearer to 20 per cent. The House conferees, however, will make a last ditch fight against increasing this sum.

Trio in Hospital Held as Robbers

Warrants Cite Men Whose Auto Crashed Into Bus at Berwyn.

Warrants charging highway robbery and the theft of an auto were formally lodged last night against three Alexandria youths who are in Casualty Hospital, one in critical condition, from injuries received when a stolen auto in which they were riding crashed into a bus at Berwyn, Md., Saturday night.

Lawrence Minnix, 22 years old, of Alexandria, may never answer the charges, as his death is expected momentarily by hospital authorities. He is suffering from a skull fracture and internal hemorrhages. The other youths, Kenneth Poole, 20 years old, and William Gator, 19 years old, are recovering from body bruises.

James J. Hill, 27 years old, of Cherrydale, Va., identified two of the men as being the bandits who ordered him to drive to Colesville, Md., and after robbing him, tied him to a tree. The stolen car in which the men were riding when the accident occurred was allegedly stolen from Frank L. Ferron, of 1324 Euclid street.

of the host of interesting data with regard to Washington's position in world motordom as revealed by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. "Facts and Figures," its presentation of the state of motordom throughout the world, is just off the presses.

There is not very much that one could want to know about Washington from an automotive standpoint that can not be learned from the data presented. Starting out with the fact that the city had 151,450 motor vehicles registered on December 31, 1929, as against 126,556 on December 31, 1928, one is rushed through a host of information such as the fact that 15 per cent of the drivers here are women and that this 15 per cent is responsible for only 7.3 per cent of the total number of accidents.

Trucks registered here last year numbered 15,995 as against 14,051 on December 31, 1928.

Washington motorists made the national honor roll with only four other cities of over 500,000 population with regard to its safety record. The survey shows that its record of only 76 deaths for 1929 was identical with that of 1928 inspite of the far greater number of cars registered.

Authoress Sues District Writer

Uthai V. Wilcox Faces Suit of $1,000 for Alleged Plagiarism.

Alma Chestnut, a young authoress of Pittsburgh, Pa., filed suit yesterday in Municipal Court seeking to recover $1,000 from Uthai V. Wilcox, a Washington author, for alleged plagiarism.

The woman tells the court that on April 30, 1928, Mr. Wilcox agreed to act as her literary agent. She alleges that she sent Mr. Wilcox an unpublished article entitled "Is Civilized Man Losing His Sense of Smell?" and that the defendant used it as his own and sold it to the magazine, Science and Invention. The article, she set out, appeared in the issue of November, 1928, but not under her name.

Miss Chestnut states that she was just starting out as a free lance writer and that Mr. Wilcox's alleged actions deprived her of the opportunity of having her name brought to the attention of publishers and the reading public in addition of depriving her of the profits which she says she was entitled to as the authoress of the article.

CANNON TELEGRAM LIVENS LOBBY QUIZ

Discrepancy Seen as Bishop Says He Disbursed Funds in Anti-Smith Drive.

SESSION DELAYS VISIT

(Associated Press.)

The controversy over the political activities of Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, in the 1928 Virginia anti-Smith campaign was renewed yesterday with receipt of a telegram by the Senate lobby committee from Mr. Cannon which said he personally received and disbursed practically all the funds of the anti-Smith Democrats in that State.

After receiving the telegram from Bishop Cannon, who is in Dallas, Tex., Chairman Caraway of the lobby committee said it was "difficult to interpret" in the light of previous testimony received by the committee. He added that the committee would be "interested in receiving his explanation."

Senator Caraway said that E. C. Jameson, New York capitalist, had testified that he had contributed $65,300 to Bishop Cannon for the anti-Smith campaign. The lobby committee chairman also recalled that a telegram from Cannon to Jameson had been placed in the record which suggested that the report to Congress show that $17,000 went to the headquarters committee of anti-Smith Democrats and $48,300 to the Virginia committee of anti-Smith Democrats.

"Bishop Cannon's statement in his telegram," Senator Caraway told newspapermen, "is difficult to interpret in the light of the one to Jameson asking him to make a report that $65,300 had been given, $17,000 to him and $48,300 to the committee.

"Now, his statement is that the money was all handled by him and not by the committee. When the committee does report having received $17,000 we will be interested in receiving his explanation."

Bishop Cannon's telegram to Senator Caraway said, in part:

"Virginia advices indicate you are inquiring concerning the treasurer of the Virginia anti-Smith Democrats. I personally received and disbursed practically all the funds of the virginia anti-Smith Democrats in 1928, but made no report of such receipts and disbursements, as none were required by law."

In an effort to obtain the records of receipts and expenditures, Senator Caraway announced that Miss Ada L. Burroughs, of Richmond, treasurer of the anti-Smith committee, had been directed to appear before the committee tomorrow. She was ordered to bring any records in her possession.

Bishop Cannon's telegram added that his appearance before the lobby committee would be delayed until after the meeting of the general conference of the Methodit Church now in session at Dallas. Charges concerning his political activity have been brought against the bishop at the conference, and he said he would have to remain to meet the charges ference was to invite the press to print all details, both favorable and unfavorable to the church.

Two of the four bishops named in the complaints—both of whom previously had refused definitely to discuss Smith's charges of undue political activities during their administrations—talked to newspapermen afterwards They called attention to what they termed errors in interpretation, saying every conference sees large numbers of such complaints filed and that they are not rightly charges until they reach the floor

When it was called to their attention that all four named had been invited to reply through the press and that the only reply, made by one of their number, had been printed in full, they said they had not cared to answer Smith's complaints. Even now they asked that their names not be used.

W. R. Odell, of Concord, N. C., was named chairman of the committee to draw up the statement for the press, and he held a secret session of his committee this afternoon, promising to distribute the statement or reprimand, tomorrow, if the committee was in agreement at that time.

THREE DIE AS POLICE FOIL EXTORTIONISTS

Intended Victim of Chicago Gang Killed in Bed as Guns Blaze.

TWO SUSPECTS SEIZED

Chicago, May 12 (A.P.).—A police trap laid to catch a gang of extortionists early today resulted in a close-range pistol fight in which three men were killed in a North Clark street flat.

Jack Hayes, proprietor of the establishment, was shot dead as he lay sick in bed. Two of the alleged extortionists were killed and one police officer was seriously wounded.

Chief Investigator Pat Roche for the State's attorney, said Hayes informed the State's attorney recently that he was operating a beer flat and that he expected to be the target of an extortion gang.

Police secreted themselves in the apartment last night. Mrs. Hayes was instructed to admit the extortionists if they came. At about 2 a. m. there was a knock at the front door. Two men there declared they were police officers and they demanded admittance. As they entered, the back door flew open and two others came in.

"Some police officers are already here," Mrs. Hayes told them.

At that, one of the men ran into the bedroom and shot Hayes. He was himself shot down by police officers. Two of the men fled down the rear stairs and the fourth man ran into police fire in another room and was killed.

The two alleged extortionists killed were identified as Harry White and John Vittocco.

Later in the day police raided a West Side apartment and arrested Valentine McGuire and John Slattery as suspects.

After questioning their prisoners police said they did not believe McGuire and Slattery had any knowledge of the plans of the others and they broadcast an order for the arrest of Henry Slattery, alias Mike Slatter, on a charge of murder, charging that he was the leader of the gang. White, it was revealed, had been wanted on a murder charge.

WILKINS ASKS U. S. FOR OLD SUBMARINE

for sufficient distance to permit the submarine to emerge.

Other Devices Planned.

Another device would be provided, however, capable of drilling through ice up to 50 feet thick, opening a hole of sufficient size to enable air to be renewed, engine exhausts discharged and batteries recharged.

An observation chamber would be built into the prow, and finely focused lights provided, which would penetrate the water for some distance ahead. In addition, a compression chamber would be added, in order that men in diving suits could move in and out of the submerged craft.

With this equipment it was estimated that a submarine could move under the ice at an average speed of 4 knots an hour, with little danger of damage by collision. Navigation would be managed entirely by magnetic compasses.

Danehower to Command Craft.

Mr. Danenhower, in his letter, said that if the Navy granted the request for a charter on the O-12, he would command the craft, while Capt. Wilkins would lead the expedition. He said Dr. H. Sverdrup, chief scientist of the Fram expedition, had also been enlisted and that he would apply to the Norweigian Geophysical Institute for permission to serve as chief of the scientific staff of the expedition.

Mr Danenhower answered an objection previously voiced by Assistant Secretary Jahncke that the chartering of such a submarine might run afoul of the provisions of the London naval treaty, which specifically mentions experimental submarines. Mr. Danenhower sugegsted that provision be made for the craft, upon completion of its voyage, to be scrapped or returned to the Government for scrapping.

GIRL, 9, DISCOVERED ASSAULTED, KILLED

Des Moines Bloodhounds Put on Trail of Two Men Thought Involved.

BODY FOUND IN BUSHES

Des Moines, Iowa, May 12 (A.P.).—The body of 9-year-old Evelyn Lee, who had been assaulted and slain, was found this afternoon in a wooded glade at the edge of Des Moines. The child, missing since late Saturday, had been chocked to death, police said, and started an extensive search.

State agents and Polk County officials joined in the manhunt. Sheriff Park A. Findley put his two bloodhounds, Block and Tackle, on the trail.

An autopsy showed that the child was killed Saturday night. Police were working on the possibility that two men may have been involved. Two nieces of Henry Alber, chief of police, said they had seen a car containing two men and a struggling child in South Des Moines Saturday evening. The girl tried to wave, they said, but the men jerked her arms down.

W. W. Wessell and his son, Harold, 4 years old, were picking violets when they found the body. It had been placed at the foot of a large tree in a tangled clump of bushes. Officers discovered impressions of automobile tracks which stopped 25 yards from the spot. The main road is a half mile away, but apparently the car had been driven through two fields along a narrow path.

A. R. Decker, of Indianola, said he saw a car driving through that town, 15 miles south of Des Moines, with two men holding a small girl against her will.

FRENCH MAIL PILOT WINGING OVER SEA

lar all-air mail service from Paris to Buenos Aires was started this morning by Jean Mermoz, veteran French aviator.

With two companions Mermoz took off for Port Natal, Brazil, at 11 a. m., local time, and expected to cover the 1,700 miles in less than 20 hours, although he had fuel enough for 26 or 27 hours. His crew is composed of M. D'Abry, navigator, and M. Guimie, radio operator.

Winging his way westward over the South Atlantic, Mermoz at 7:15 p. m. (2:15 p. m. Eastern standard time), got in touch with the wireless station at Dakar.

His message simply said, "Just had first meal of bananas and port wine. All well." His position was not given.

The plane, carrying 700 gallons of gasoline, weighed 11,000 pounds at the start and can average from 100 to 110 miles an hour, although it probably will do 120 late in the flight when the ship is lightened by the use of fuel.

Mermoz carries mail which was shipped from Paris Saturday night and reached St. Louis at 9 o'clock this morning, 36 hours in all.

Heretofore mail between the two cities has been transported between the African and South American coasts in fast destroyers.

A dispatch from Rio Janeiro this afternoon indicated that Mermoz was making good time. When 7 hours off Senegal he radioed that he was 1 hour ahead of schedule and had passed the destroyer Phocee at 22.06 west longitude and 9.35 north latitude, or about 700 miles southwest of Dakar. He reported that the flight was going smoothly.

Baby Severely Hurt While Riding in Auto

Earl Wiggs, 18 months old, of 412 Third street northwest, suffered a probable fracture to the skull and nose yesterday afternoon when he was thrown from the seat against the dashboard of an auto when his father, Rae Riggs, suddenly applied the brakes to avert an accident with another machine.

The baby was removed to Casualty Hospital. After receiving treatment he was taken to his home, where he is under the care of a family physician. The accident happened at Seventh and A streets northeast.

Coroner's Jury Called As Trolley Kills Man

Coroner J. Ramsey Nevitt will impanel a jury today to delve into the circumstances surrounding the death of John D. Wilson, 79 years old, of 1882 Columbia road, who was struck by a trolley car Saturday afternoon. Mr. Wilson died from the injuries Sunday night at Garfield Hospital.

Wilson, police say, was struck by a Washington Railway & Electric Co. trolley car in the 1700 block of Columbia road. The car was in charge of Motorman J. Augustine and Conductor W. F. Simms.

Suits for $12,000 Filed Against Movie Theater

Benjamin C. Kuehling, headquarters detective of the Washington Police Department, living at 11 R street northeast, filed two suits yesterday in District Supreme Court seeking to recover $12,500 damages for injuries alleged to have been suffered by his 7-year-old son, Robert C. Kuehling, in October, 1928.

Both suits are filed against the Circle Amusement Co., proprietor of a motion picture theater, at 2105 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. The detective seeks $10,000 for alleged personal injuries to his son and $2,500 for loss of his son's services and companionship. Attorneys Wilton J. Lambert and R. H. Yeatman appear for the plaintiffs. Allegation is made that a swinging door through which the lad was entering the theater, broke and cut his arm.

Prosecution Refused As Man Admits Theft

Assistant United States Attorney John R. Fitzpatrick yesterday refused to issue papers against Thomas H. Stokes, colored, of Third street northeast near G street, who is alleged to have gone to the Ninth Precinct station house and told police that he had stolen an automobile. Police investigated and discovered, they said, that the automobile which Stokes claimed he had stolen belonged to C. T. Lacey, of 493 G street southeast.

The police immediately decided that something was wrong with Stokes' mind and sent him to Gallinger Hospital for mental observation. Yesterday Stokes was sent to court by the hospital with an affidavit signed by physicians that he was perfectly sane. That was as far as the case got, however, the assistant United States attorney refusing to prosecute the man.

14 BOYS AND GIRLS FLEE INSTITUTIONS

Two of Six Boys Who Left National School are Recaptured.

SHACKLED YOUTH SOUGH

Two of the six boys who escaped from the National Tranining School early yesterday were recaptured by authorities last night at Lanham, Md.

Howard Riggs was taken in custody while walking in the main street of the town and the other, Charles Shelby, gave himself up to a storekeeper and later was turned over to officials of the institution.

Authorities continued to search Otto Garrell Vik, recently placed in iron leg shackles at the institution, who is believed to have led the band of boys in the escape. Authorities think the three other boys are with Vik.

While six were escaping from this institution, five boys and three girls eluded guards at the District Training School, at Annapolis Junction, a Washington institution.

Vik and another youth, Ausutin Herield, are alleged to have been kept in shackles for 38 days. When Francis H. Duehay, president of the board of directors of the institution, heard of the punishment meted out to the boys, he ordered an investigation. A hearing is scheduled for Thursday.

No explanation as to how Vik and his companions eluded the guards was given by the authorities.

Authorities of the Annapolis institution believe that five boys who escaped from that institution returned several hours later and succeeded in freeing the three girls.

WAR ON RUM MAKING AIDS ARE LAUNCHED

tion James Hunter, William M. Hunter and Walter H. Hunter are alleged to have owned the various articles unlawfully. Since the raid it has been held at the liquor warehouse.

Padlock proceedings are now pending against the property at 919 D street northwest and at 913 D northwest, which the Government alleges were used interchangeably for liquor law violations. The petitions for the padlock injunctions, which were filed April 21, last, prior to the Supreme Court ruling, alleged many violations of the prohibition law. Affidavits of many police and prohibition agents as to alleged purchases of whisky at the two places and raids and seizures accompany the petitions.

Both Mr. Rover and Mr. Orcutt believe that due to the circumstances recited in the padlock proceedings they will be able to show that the paraphernalia described in the libel proceedings is contraband. They expect to show both design and intent, they state.

The libel petition alleges that sections 25 and 18 of the national prohibition act have been violated. Section 25 prohibits display and sale of property designed for use in making intoxicating liquors and intended to be used for that purpose, while section 18 covers utensils, contrivances, preparations, compounds, tablets and substances designed for use in liquor manufacture.

Chicago, May 12 (A.P.).—Clarence Darrow, internationally known lawyer, has weakened in his determination never to take another criminal case. He announced today that he will defend Joseph Grein, president of the Chicago Malt Products Association, whose Madison street store was raided by prohibition agents last week.

The raid, ordered by Prohibition Administrator Yellowly, was made on the theory that the Supreme Court decision permitting the seizure of articles used in the manufacture of intoxicants would apply to the stock of malt syrup, bottles, bottle caps and the like in the Grein store. It was the first raid conducted here under the decision.

"I am taking this case because Grein is a friend," said Mr. Darrow. "I believe he is innocent. In addition, I am interested in this latest piece of fanaticism in the attempt to enforce prohibition."

MEMORIAL PLANNED FOR CHIEF JOSEPH

Congress May Place Monument on Bear Paw Mountain to Honor Indian.

WAS BRILLIANT WARRIOR

Spokane, Wash., May 12 (A.P.).—More than half a century after United States soldiers pursued him on one of the most brilliant retreats in the history of Indian warfare, the Government is considering erection of a monument to Chief Joseph, of the Nez Perces.

The Senate committee on Indian affairs has reported favorably upon a proposal to place a monument at Bear Paw Mountain in north central Montana, where Gen. O. O. Howard and then Col. Nelson A. Miles, after a chase of 1,300 miles over parts of Washington, Idaho, Wyoming and Montana, forced Joseph and the remnants of his once powerful band to surrender on October 4, 1877.

Joseph, whose brilliant military strategy won him the compliment of the description, "The Napoleon of the Indians," took up arms against the United States after his tribe had been ordered from their lands in Washington and Idaho to live on reservations.

The opening battle was fought in the Whitebird Canyon in June, 1877, and it was the beginning of the great retreat. In a dazzling series of rapid strategic movements, Joseph many times outwitted some of the greatest Indian fighters in the army.

Historians deseribe Joseph's surrender as one of the most dramatic in history. His speech at that time is a masterpiece of pathetic and picturesque oratory. To Col. Miles, designated by Gen. Howard to accept the surrender, Chief Joseph said: "Tell Gen. Howard I know his heart. What he told me before—I have it in my heart. I am tired of fighting. Our chiefs are killed. Looking Glass is dead. Too-Hul-Hul-Suit is dead. The old men are all dead. It is the young men now who say 'yes' or 'no.' He who led the young men (Ollicut, Joseph's brother) is dead.

"It is cold and we have no blankets. The little children are freezing to death. My people—some of them—have run away to the hills, and have no blankets, no food. No one knows where they are—perhaps freezing to death. I want to have time to look for my children, and see how many of them I can find; maybe I shall find them among the dead. Hear me, my chiefs: my heart is sick and sad. From where the sun now stands, I will fight no more forever."

STORES WILL SEEK TRAFFIC DATA TODAY

Survey Planned to Provide Insight Into Use of Cars by Shopping Public.

GRANT ASKS FOR CLEWS

Every person who makes a purchase in one of the large department or specialty stores today will be asked by the clerk who serves him to state how he came to town—by automobile, in his own car or a friend's, by street car, bus or by foot.

This will be an important part of a traffic survey now being conducted in Washington by Dr. Miller McClintock, of Harvard University, the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and a special citizens' committee. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, issued a statement yesterday asking the shopping public to cooperate in the movement.

Col. Grant pointed out that the information will be sought in order to obtain a picture of the entire traffic situation in relation to shopping and stressed the fact that no information of a personal character will enter into the tally. The stores are merely cooperating in the survey and they will reap no benefit from the information received, Col. Grant pointed out.

With the National Capital on the threshold of a new development, planners of the Washington of the future are anxious to know what provisions to make for traffic. The parking problem is one of the outstanding difficulties to be tackled through the survey.

The information obtained will be compared with similar data obtained last week in the various Government departments, when more than 65,000 Government clerks furnished replies.

The survey may result in construction of subterranean parking lots in the city or abolition of a great many parking facilities, depending on the outcome of the tally.

While manager at Alexandria, Mr. Clarkson had charge of the northern Virginia territory of the Chesapeake & Potomac Co., which in addition to Alexandria, included Bluemont, Clarendon, Hamilton, Hillsboro, Leesburg, Lovettsville, Marshall, Middleburg, The Plains, Warrenton, Waterford, Arlington, Fairfax, Falls Church and Herndon and Vienna.

India's Victoria Dies at 72 Years

Bhopal Mourns Passing of Woman Who Enriched Her Territory.

Bombay, India, May 12 (A.P.).—The Dowager Begum of Bhopal, known as "the Queen Victoria of India," died today at the age of 72, and tonight the whole of her Indian state was in official mourning. At her bedside was her son, the Nawab Zada Hamidulla, for whom she abdicated in 1926. As she died she gave him this blessing:

"I am now departing this world, I intrust you to the keeping of Allah."

The dowager was weakened by an operation yesterday. She knew the end was near and died quietly. Her title of "Queen Victoria of India" came from the fact that she developed a backward, rural Moslem state with small income into a thriving modern territory with annual income or 5,000,000 rupees.

OLDEST CITY CHURCH TO RECEIVE MARKER

D. A. R. to Unveil Tablet at Edifice Built More Than 100 Years Ago.

LOT DONATED IN 1806

The oldest church in Washington, the historic Christ Protestant Episcopal Church, at 622 G street southeast, will be marked by a bronze tablet at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon by the Marcia Burns Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Descendants of Presidents Jefferson and Monroe, who attended services at the church, and of Bishop Thomas J. Claggett, the first bishop to be consecrated on American soil, will unveil the marker. They are Miss Margaret Sumner, who traces her ancestry to Thomas Jefferson; James Monroe Clark and Green Clay Goodlow, jr., descendants of James Monroe, and Edward Cox, whose ancestor was Bishop Claggett.

The Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, will make the principal address, and the Marine Band, under the direction of Arthur S. Whitcomb, will furnish the music. The Rev. Edward Clark, pastor of the Chevy Chase Baptist Church, will pronounce the invocation, and the Rev. Edward Gabler, pastor of Christ Church, will receive the tablet.

The committee in charge of the ceremony includes Mrs. Frederick K. Sparrow, chairman; Mrs. Eugene A. Barr, regent; Mrs. W. L. Gutelius; Mrs. Lida V. Thorn, Mrs. George L. Palmer, Mrs. Elizabeth Hesse and Miss Margaret B. Fields.

The building of Christ Church followed the establishment of the Washington parish while part of the District was still in Maryland. The lot for the building of the edifice was donated by William Prout at a vestry meeting on May 11, 1806, and the first service was held in it on August 9, 1807. It was named Christ Church, a name formerly applied to an old New Jersey avenue mission.

All of the pews, save three, were ordered sold, according to the records. One of these was assigned to Mr. Prout, another to the President the rector. The church was not dedicated until 1809 and then by Bishop Claggett.

While George Washington did not attend the church as President, it is believed he may have worshiped there as a private citizen.

RELIC OF BUDDHA REPORTED FOUND

Excavations in Presidency of Madras Yield Magnificent Panels.

WAS INCLOSED IN CUPOLA

Special to The Washington Post.

Delhi, May 12.—Buddhists everywhere will be interested in the discovery of A. H. Longhurst, superintendent of the Southern Circle of the Indian Archeological Survey, of what the department regards as an authentic relic of Buddha.

The relic was found in excavations which have extended over two years at Nagarjunikonda (Nagarjuna's Hill), an ancient Buddhist site on the right bank of the Krishna River in the Palnad Taluq of the Guntur District of the Madras Presidency, where many examples of the Amravati school of sculpture and important inscriptions in the Brahmi script of the third century have been found.

The inscriptions, mainly on the shafts of the stone pillars of a large ruined stupa (relic shrine), show that the monument was founded by Princess Chantisiri, of the Ikkhaku Dynasty, which reigned in the Andhra country in the Lower Krishna District during the second and third centuries, and was called Mahachaitya or the great stupa.

It was consecrated by the deposit of a relic (dhatu) of the Buddha himself. Dr. Hirananda Sastri, government epigraphist, says that the exact wording of most of the inscriptions is sanctified by the sacred dhatu of the perfectly Enlightened One.

Was Massive Cupola.

Mr. Longhurst found remains showing that the stupa was originally a massive brick and plaster cupola, resting on a drum plinth 5 feet high and 102 feet in diameter. It was surrounded by a gated wall inclosing a procession path, and in the plan it takes the form of a wheel, the spokes being represented by the brick walls radiating from the center of the structure, while two inner circular walls divide it into 40 little chambers filled with earth.

Mr. Longhurst found in one of these chambers on the north side a broken earthenware pot filled with hard, red earth, in which were embedded a few white crystal beads near the surface. The earth was then sifted and a tiny round box three-fourths of an inch in diameter was discovered. The box contained a fragment of bone about the size of a pea. This box, with a few gold flowers, pearls and garnets, was originally inclosed in a silver casket shaped like a miniature stupa two and a half inches high.

The casket was corroded and broken, but members of the Archeological Survey say that as this relic is the only one recovered from this stupa it is, in all probability, the very relic of Buddha himself mentioned in the inscription.

Buddhist Monasteries.

Other important discoveries at Nagarjunikonda include four Buddhist monasteries, six temples and several smaller stupas, some of the latter faced with sculptured limestone slabs, similar in style to the beautiful Amravati reliefs in the British and Madras Museums. Over 100 magnificent panels, illustrating scenes from the life of Buddha and other subjects, have been recovered. Much more is expected from continued researches on this site.

Nagarjuna, who flourished in the latter half of the second century, was important as the founder of the Mahayana sect of Buddhism. The earlier sect (Hinayana, or "Lesser Vehicle") aimed at the benefit of the individual only, whereas the "Greater Vehicle" had as its chief goal the attainment of Buddhahood with a view to saving all living creatures through all the ages to come.

DERBY STEPS OUT OF DICKENS TO PAY CAPITAL SOCIAL CALL

try gentleman that Charles Dickens would know and the sort any cockney would address as "Guvnor." One would never think of tendering him anything but the soundest of port, the best ale in the tavern or the choicest of British roast beef.

After a few days in the United States—his first visit since a flying honeymoon trip many years ago—he has formed some very illuminating estimates of affairs in these former British colonies.

One bears on the "noble experiment."

"You have a great many advantages I should like to copy for England," said the earl today. "A great many things we would do well to adapt over there. But prohibition is not one of them."

And Lord Derby turned to Joseph E. Widener, his host for his American visit, and to Hugh C. Wallace, former Ambassador to France, with whom he stopped today, and loosed another one of his infectious chuckles, remarking that he believed that was about as "fair" a comment as he could make on that subject.

He didn't whisper this comment, with a sidelong cautious look about him. It was just his opinion and he expressed it. The early is apparently not one of those Englishmen who are in mortal fear of "pressmen" and newspapers.

Mr. Wallace did not quite catch the earl's dictum on prohibition, and, moving nearer, asked him to repeat.

"I say," said Lord Derby, with a sly twinkle in his eye, "that when you visit me again we hope to have prohibition in England."

The earl is now exploring the mystery of why Kentuckians have acquired the habit of pronouncing the name of the race as if it were that of a bowler, which is a hat.

You see, the English racing classic after which the Kentucky Derby was named was inaugurated by an Earl of Derby in the time of George III, and it was named after the family. A group of Derbyshire sportsmen in 1779 got up what they called a dinner race and out of that grew the English Oaks. Then, in the following year, Lord Derby hung up a prize for what was designated as the Derby, and it been going annually ever since. The Kentucky version was not started until 1875, when Aristides came down the stretch at Churchill Downs before a crowd that even then had begun to say Derby instead of "Darby."

"Really, you see," said the early today, "I'm not prepared to change it—the pronunciation. My house was started in 1483. The race was named after the family; not the family after the race. So I do not feel justified after three or four centuries in advising a change."

There is one more mystery for the earl to explore—that of the mint julep.

"What is a mint julep?" he asked his hosts today.

Messrs. Widener and Wallace looked at their distinguished guest with stark amazement.

"Is it a cocktail?" pursued the earl innocently.

Patiently, the subject was explained, down to the most vital details, such as that of not bruising the mint in the bottom of the glass. The seventeenth Earl of Derby was made aware that the mint julep is "an old Kentucky custom" and that it is the twin brother of that other traditional Kentucky habit, "a mawnin' mawnin'."

Eye to Volstead Act.

The earl looked interested. He was interested. It thereupon was suggested that at the earliest opportunity, if the matter could be arranged without collision with Mr. Volstead's law, Lord Derby would be introduced to this Kentucky product. The earl will visit the Pendennis Club in Louisville; that club is a famous home of the julep; but a congressional investigating committee not long ago was told that even there one no longer heard the tinkle of ice in the glass.

But the earl said he should like to try one—"providing," he cautioned, "that it can be done legally."

Lord Derby is "looking for a tip" on the Kentucky Derby. But his hopes are lined up with the East against the West. He wants to see Gallant Fox come first past the special stand erected for him at the finish line at Churchill Downs and hand to Owner Woodward the golden trophy.

Friendly With Borah.

"I'd like to see the winner of the Preakness equal Sir Barton's record by also winning the Derby. A good sportsman, you know, likes to see a good horse continue his winning."

Lord Derby knows the thrill of winning a Derby. His Sancovino captured the English Derby in 1924. It was the first triumph for his family since Sir Peter Teazell sped home with the Derby colors in 1787.

That's about all, except that Senator William E. Borah is expected to have a session with the earl during his visit. Lord Derby is the man who almost prevailed upon the senator to make a trip to England. The idea was that Mr. Borah should visit his lordship and learn that the British people were a pretty good sort after all, in spite of senatorial twisting of the lion's tail. Mr. Borah was much impressed by the cordiality of the invitation, and he and the earl have kept up a pretty regular correspondence.

ROADHOUSE HOLDUP FAILS; FOUR JAILED

Villa Roma Scene of Battle as Police Frustrate Alleged Attempt.

BONDS PLACED AT $3,500

Two charges of robbery and one of assault with intent to rob were placed against each of the four men who were arrested early yesterday while allegedly in the act of holding up the proprietor and patrons of the Roman Gardens roadhouse, formerly known as the Villa Roma, on the Rockville pike.

The four, who are being held in Rockville jail in default of $3,500 bond, identified themselves as James W. Callan, 23 years old, of Brooklyn; Michael P. Parella, 28 years old, of K street near Eighth street; Francis Hardin, 24 years old, of New York avenue near First street, and Harry Atchison, 25 years old, of Thirteenth street near Monroe, all of Washington.

Montgomery County and Rockville police arrived when the alleged robbers and some of the patrons were engaged in a fight. The proprietor of the roadhouse, Frank Abbo, had called police when one of the four men had appeared previous to the holdup and acted suspiciously.

Francis Hilleary, an employe of the Congressional Country Club, was badly beaten in the encounter. He claimed to have lost $27 and a $100 check. The latter was recovered.

The robbers are alleged to have broken through the front door and then to have threatened the patrons. One of the men kept his hand in his pocket as though he had a gun, though a later search by police uncovered only a blackjack.

Parella is said to have been a pugilist, well known in local sports circles at one time. He fought under the name of Boyan.

Alleged Wife Slayer Ordered Held.

William Carter, colored, 40 years old, was ordered held on a murder charge by a coroner's jury yesterday in connection with the fatal shooting of his wife, Marion Carter, colored, 34 years old, during an altercation Friday night at her home, in Tenth street, between Q and R streets, northwest.

FUR FAIR TO SHOW TROPHIES OF KINGS

Many Royal Families Are to Be Represented at Leipzig Grounds.

AMERICA TO HAVE PART

Leipzig, May 12 (A.P.).—Most of the royal families in Europe will show trophies of the chase at the International Fur and Hunting Exposition which will be held here May 31 to September 30.

Many a "royal" stag's head will bear silent witness to the prowess in the hunting field of the Hohenzollerns of Prussia, the Wittelsbachs of Bavaria and the Wettins of Saxony; all of whom are nimrods by tradition and upbringing.

Other keen hunters are the grand dukes of Mecklenburg and of Hesse; King Boris of Bulgaria and Henry, prince consort of the Netherlands, who are displaying collections that are otherwise never seen by the public.

The site of the show will be the Leipzig Fair Grounds with its huge exhibition halls. Where machinery clanked six weeks ago, there will be arrayed rare pelts and hunting trophies from all over the world. Entire villages have been transplanted from China and Siberia, so that the gathering of furs may be realistically depicted, one of the exhibits will be a fac-simile of a Russian caravan and trading center of the Middle Ages.

A number of fur specialists of the United States have contributed to the American section, for which Congress voted a subsidy of $30,000. Elk and moose antlers of prodigious size here evoke memories of American hunting grounds.

The Danish section will show polar bears and blue foxes from Greenland against a background of an Arctic winter. Live caracul sheep from Roumania will be alongside of chinchillas and other South American furry beasts from Argentina.

How humans in every clime have hunted; what weapons they have used and what trophies they have captured will be exhibited. Some of the trophies date from the remote past, including prehistoric finds of hunting weapons, traps and snares.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"Hospitality."

THOSE of us who remember the good old days when visitors came half a dozen at a time and stayed sometimes for weeks, always for days, will sympathize with poor old Ralph whose wife assures him that hotels and restaurants are the places to entertain visiting "pests." Gone are the days.

"How can people expect to enjoy life if they exclude the world, or what part of the world that comprises their friends? I am a man of 45 and my wife is 32. We have plenty of money, a fine home and two servants and could have more.

"I was reared in a home where the latch string was always out; in other words where welcome was on the mat. One of a large family, I enjoy the procession of cousins, uncles, aunts and school friends who came to laugh or cry according to what mission caused their visit. Whole summers some of them stayed. It was part of civilized existence.

Four years ago I married a cultured girl, but an only child of divorced parents. We have a 14-room house in a beautiful suburb. I want others to enjoy it, and to enjoy the presence of old friends on leisurely visits, with late breakfasts, talks and walks.

My wife will not even consider half a dozen friends for dinner. That she assures me is what restaurants are for. Now what is a home for? It has always been my idea that hotels were for folks who had no homes, or who were temporarily unable to offer them. I feel like insisting upon the right to have environment I crave, people going and coming. I have supplied the furnishings my wife desired, why can I not now have some measure of enjoyment from it all? It is not timidity but indifference that impels her stand. She loves to entertain at a hotel.

It costs me thousands of dollars every year just to keep up our place. I can not see that it is worth it for two. And certainly I for one will become bored by the society of just one person. I am already bored, in fact. What do you suggest? I have almost decided to press the point, yet prefer an outside view. RALPH.

Gone are the days! Those luscious days of new cousins, and excursions to the barn, and picnics, and a dozen for supper. Yes, gone. Now there are restaurants and hotels. No good-night chats. No all-night confidences. No hospitality. The young folks of today when grown will probably not even entertain their friends at hotels. What does it all mean, this segregation? This self-sufficiency? A game of bridge, a few rounds of Jones law drinks, and hospitality has been fittingly dispensed.

Well, we sympathize with Ralph, and we believe folks miss a lot who never know the coziness of home-brewed hospitality. Indeed, if all folks were like us, there would soon be no hotel hospitality, for we never attend the stereotype functions that leave so much to be desired. For us the long evening before a fire, the plans for tomorrow that are never carried through, the lazy day, the new book, the children and their friends.

Ralph, we offer our sympathy, and we hope you press the point. We believe that hospitality is one of the necessary refinements. Carry on.

THE TARIFF DEADLOCK.

An impasse has been reached by the tariff conference committee on the flexible provision. The Senate conferees are pledged not to yield on the amendment taking away the authority of the President to make limited adjustment of tariff rates to meet emergency conditions. Yet they refuse to report to the Senate their failure to agree and to ask for further instructions.

By a decisive vote the House refused to accept the Senate amendment. It is ridiculous to expect the House conferees to compromise before the Senate has had another chance to vote on the flexible provision. The Senate adopted its nondescript amendment by a slight majority on a single roll call. In view of the position taken by the House, a second roll call in the Senate may reveal a majority against the amendment. At any rate, it is imperative that the Senate again express its will on this amendment before any effort is made to compromise.

Talk of compromising this point is ridiculous anyway. Either the President will be authorized to save American industries that are being crushed by new and unforeseen foreign competition, or he will not be. The scheme to divide this power between Congress and the President would defeat the purpose of the flexible provision. There is no such thing as flexibility in the tariff enactments of Congress. A legislature can not successfully handle tariff questions, except when one schedule is balanced against another and a general compromise reached. Adjustment of specific duties to meet emergencies is purely an administrative function which should be left to the Tariff Commission and the Chief Executive.

Senator Connally gives notice that the coalition will "fight it out on this line (the flexible provision) if it takes all summer." This is rather a bold statement from one representing so small a portion of the voting strength in Congress. The House is in a far better position to stand by its guns, and standing with the House is the President and a great majority of the American people. The Senate can only indefinitely prolong enactment of the tariff bill, and thereby bring further disrepute upon its own head.

A MODEL CRIMINAL CODE.

The promulgation of a new code of criminal procedure, such as that drafted by the American Law Institute, is an event of signal importance in judicial circles. It embodies the best thought of the legal profession. These proposed changes in the accepted method of determining the guilt or innocence of an accused person have been refined from hundreds of suggestions by judges and lawyers whose business is to know and apply the law. Defects in the present system of administering justice are frequently apparent to the layman, but only legally trained minds are competent to prescribe remedies. Coming from the law institute, which includes in its membership the leading lawyers and jurists of the country, this model code should make a profound impression on American judicial procedure.

Many of the recommended changes concern trial by jury. The most important of these would permit conviction without unanimous agreement of juries, except where a verdict of guilty means death. Defendants would be allowed to forego trial by jury in all but capital cases. Judges would be allowed to choose juries, instead of having them selected in the course of a battle between opposing counsel. This would give some hope of having jurors chosen for their intelligence and unbiased minds instead of for ignorance and gullibility. Extra jurors might be chosen to avoid the necessity of a retrial in case of illness or death of a juror.

One important provision would eliminate the necessity of grand jury indictments and substitute prosecution on information to avoid delay and red tape. Where the indictment process is retained it would be simplified. Bail for those accused of serious crimes would be left to the discretion of the judge. Minor actions would be initiated by summons rather than warrants of arrest. The process of handling a case appealed to a higher court would be simplified, and more scientific treatment would be given cases in which mental condition is involved.

As it stands, this new code is merely a model. It must be fashioned to the needs of the various States and written into the statutes—in some instances into the constitutions—before it will be of practical value. Some of its provisions are already in use in a few States, but it will be many years before this advanced code is universally accepted. Several of its provisions, including that for verdicts by less than the whole jury, will meet stubborn opposition. The people are extremely cautious about relinquishing any of their rights to trial by jury, as they should be.

As a whole, however, the code marks a long step forward. Today justice is frequently thwarted by delay and red tape. Unscrupulous lawyers take advantage of technicalities to immunize guilty persons against the law. Court congestion itself defeats the ends of justice. In so far as this code relieves these conditions without sacrificing any fundamental rights of the people it commends itself to the legislatures.

TO LEASE MUSCLE SHOALS.

What appears to be the most satisfactory bill ever drafted for disposition of Muscle Shoals has emerged from the House military affairs committee. The committee threw overboard the Norris resolution passed by the Senate, and acted with dispatch in drafting a new measure that conforms to American policy and tradition. Having been twice discarded, the Norris resolution, which aims at putting the Government into the power business, is dead beyond recall. Let Congress proceed with the leasing measure and end the ten-year controversy over this project.

The Reece plan adopted by the committee conforms to the recommendation of President Hoover in his annual message to Congress. It would authorize the President to appoint a board of three to lease the Muscle Shoals plants for 50 years for the manufacture of fertilizer and development of power. Since the board would hold office only until December 1, 1931, the lease would have to be negotiated before that date. Attempts will be made to have this bill provide for Government operation in case no responsible bid is made, but the majority in the House will no doubt be on guard against this scheme to make them sanction a plan of which they do not approve. If Congress should make the terms of the lease too rigid and no responsible lessee should be found, the mistake can be ratified without putting the Government in competition with its own citizens.

Instead of dipping into the Treasury for $37,000,000 more to pour into this idle project, as Senator Norris tried to do, the House committee proposes to let the lessee construct Cove Creek Dam in Tennessee. Instead of an experiment in socialism the project would become a business enterprise. The lessee would be required to manufacture fertilizer, but the enterprise would be on a basis of competition with other concerns in the same business. Surplus power would be sold to States within transmission distance, but not in such a way as to ruin the private power industry and drive the first wedge toward Government ownership of all power. In time of war the plants would be turned over to the Government for the manufacture of munitions.

Congress has dawdled with this problem far too long. It is time for action. With socialist remedies out of the way, the time is ripe for dealing with Muscle Shoals in a businesslike manner.

AIDING THE TALENTED BLIND.

Through its action in establishing a fund of scholarship awards the American Foundation for the Blind enlarges the scope of its service to the blind. Scholarship awards, in number proportionate to public support of the foundation, are not only to be made available to talented blind persons, but surveys are to be made of positions that it would be possible for them to fill in fields where intelligence and judgment are more important than eyesight.

With all his senses, the task of acquiring adequate training, and then of marketing his talents, is not an easy one for the artist or musician. To a young man or woman handicapped by blindness the struggle of following a course of study and then of finding a niche is often prolonged and discouraging. Yet many talented blind persons have pursued their studies in spite of great disadvantages and are now gainfully employed. They do not sit around bemoaning their fate, but are eager and ambitious.

The long list of sightless people who have succeeded in intellectual pursuits is a challenge to the seeing; it must certainly be inspiring to the blind. It includes Joseph Bartlett, bachelor of arts and doctor of divinity, professor of Latin, Greek, French and English in Antioch College; B. Frank Irvine, editor of the Portland (Oreg.) Journal; Martin Bergen, who nevertheless graduated at the head of a class of 20 physiotherapist students, employed as masseur and lecturer by two large hospitals; Mary Ruth Bierman (M. A., Columbia University), a speech-correction expert, accomplished dancer and actress; Leland Logan, opera tenor and concert performer; Dr. Claire Owens, who has taken a ranking position among women osteopaths; Edwin Grasse, organist, violinist and composer, master organist to the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences; Abrasha Haltowitsch, graduated from the Imperial Conservatory of Music of Petrograd, violinist on the concert stages of his native country and of America, and now playing to radio audiences.

Any effort on the part of individuals or groups to help the blind is to be commended. This is especially true where such efforts, as in the present instance, are of the organized, responsible kind and extend financial or other aid to promising blind young men and women students who are following courses of training which will lead naturally to gainful employment.

WHO IS MARINKOVITCH?

A dispatch from Geneva reports that the council of the League of Nations has accepted the resignation of Charles E. Hughes as a judge of the world court. One Voyislav Marinkovitch is presiding over the council.

Who is this man Marinkovitch, and by what right does he presume to deal with the resignations of judges of the world court? Is he a Cossack, a Kalmuck, an Uzbeg, or what? One rumor has it that he hails from Jugoslavia, but this means nothing to the average American in Kalamazoo or Kankakee. Jugoslavia may be a state of mind, for all he knows.

Just as soon as the denizens of Kalamazoo and Kankakee have become convinced by Nick Butler and Tom Shotwell that "the League of Nations has nothing to do with the court, or the court with the league," this man Marinkovitch comes along and spills the beans. Of course, Marinkovitch must be acting under some color of authority. No man with that name can run around loose in Europe without risking arrest and examination. In America he might be a distinguished southpaw, and nothing would be thought of it; but Europe is suspicious.

Can it be possible that Marinkovitch, in spite of his uncertain identity, is actually president of the council of the league, and that the council has some legal right to dispose of the judges of the world court? Is it possible that Judge Hughes transmitted his resignation to the council, and thereby recognized its authority over the court If he did so, what have Nick Butler and Tom Shotwell to say about it?

This world court business is becoming complicated. Is it under the League of Nations or is it not? Perhaps Voyislav Marinkovitch could explain; but even if he should, nobody in Kankakee or Kalamazoo could understand a word he might say.

The safest course to follow by all who believe that the world court is independent of the League of Nations is to stamp this man Marinkovitch as an impostor, a kind of Zvengali "out of the mysterious East." The dispatch from Geneva can be explained as an incoherent jumble sent out by a correspondent who is not under the inhibition of prohibition. Evidently he mixed something more than a cocktail when he reported that Marinkovitch had taken part in accepting the resignation of a world court judge. It's all a stupid mistake. The world court has nothing to do with the League of Nations. Nick Butler and Tom Shotwell have said so.

It is understood that the drys have decided not to oppose the appointment of John Masefield as poet laureate of England, merely because he was once a saloon porter in New York.

Snakes and lizards were found in jugs of liquor seized in a raid in the Chinese section. But in these days it's not only the Chinese who find snakes and lizards in their liquor.

Eighteen were injured in a student riot at Yale. Looks as if they were trying to create a Spanish atmosphere.

POLITICS AND THE CENSUS

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The early census reports continue to emphasize the drift of the population from the farms and towns to the cities, which has been so marked since the turn of the century. This situation contains many implications, of which the political bearing is not the least interesting.

It is sometimes forgotten that the main purpose of the decennial census is to provide a basis for apportioning the representatives in Congress according to population. The reapportionment to follow this census will involve many more changes than usual, because the indifference of Congress to its duty delayed the procedure so long. The rural districts are now overrepresented in proportion to population. So are many States. In the process of reapportionment, some States will "lose" and others will "gain," according to the popular parlance. Actually, all that will be done will be to redress the balance and give each the representation to which it is entitled.

From the Middle West, "the heart of America," come reports of declines of from 30 to 80 per cent in the population of the smaller towns. The States in this region have, of course, all increased. Of 161 small towns, 92 show a reduction. Their people have gone not to the farms but to the larger cities. Against this showing may be cited the losses reported by such cities as Fall River, Mass., and Manchester, N. H., and the decline in the population of the New York East Side. But they merely emphasize the increasing industrial activity of the South and West, which is crowding the cities and larger towns of those sections.

The 1920 census was the first to show a larger urban than rural population. The urban was 51.4 per cent. In 1900 the figure was 40 and in 1910 it was 45.8. These percentages do not mean that "city" dwellers are actually in the majority, for the reason that the Census Bureau classes as "urban" every community of more than 2,500 persons. Consequently, the really rural districts may still contain the majority of the population for some censuses to come. But this fact does not affect the significance of the steadily increasing political power of the cities, which will shortly be demonstrated more strikingly than ever.

For the information of Congress, the Census Bureau made an estimate of the population of the States, from which it has been deduced that the cities will gain about 23 representatives at the expense of the rural districts. This would mean a net change of 46 votes. The effect on legislation provides a subject for interesting speculation. Prohibition inevitably comes first to mind. The cities are wet. The rural districts are dry. If reapportionment had been effected years ago, when it was due, would the unprecedented measures for farm relief have gone through quite so smoothly?

Presidential nominations and elections will also appreciably be affected by the shift in population which will be reflected in the reapportionment of representatives and the consequent reassignment of presidential electors to the States and delegates to the national political conventions. The cities will have a greater voice in the naming of presidential candidates. The farm States will have less to say about elections. As for legislation, the strength of the Farm Bloc can not be affected in the Senate directly, since each State, regardless of population, must have its two senators. But the increasing influence of the city members in the House will furnish an additional check on such radical proposals as the debenture scheme.

The center of power in the national Government is steadily shifting cityward. With the city point of view inevitably reflected in legislation and elections, who can foretell what sweeping changes may not come over the national scene before the time comes for taking another census?

JUST FOLKS

DEATH OF COLD.

I thought it strange when I was told:
"My boy, you'll catch your death of cold!"
For young and strong I'd scamper out
Not knowing danger lurked about.
With boyish courage I'd disdain
The threat of winter snow or rain.

How oft I've heard my mother say:
"My boy, you can't go out that way;
Put on your rubbers, wear your coat!
And wrap a muffler round your throat."
For always at the door she'd be
To cast her watchful eye on me.

And now another mother stands
With little garments in her hands;
And now the same old struggle starts
Before a litte girl departs.
Now once again a child is told:
"My dear, you'll catch your death of cold!

"Put on your rubbers! Wear your coat,
And button it about your throat!"
Wherever there is girl or boy,
These phrases mothers all employ;
These children, too, when they are old
Will cry, "You'll catch your death of cold!"

Are We Great Musicians Because We Can Wind a Phonograph?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WE Americans are fond of comparing ourselves with the people who lived several hundred or several thousand years ago, and assuring ourselves that the human race has made great progress.

We do ourselves too much honor.

The philosophers, poets, dramatists, architects and sculptors of ancient Greece were masters from whom the modern world still is learning.

The Egyptians, the Cretans at their best, the Arabians in their brief glory, the Romans—all of these equaled or surpassed the modern world in wisdom, in appreciation of beauty, in thirst for knowledge, in all of the qualities that combine to make a cultured civilization.

While Europeans were yet barbarians, the Chinese learned to glaze pottery in a manner no modern can equal.

Before America was "discovered," the natives of this hemisphere knew more of mathematics than any college graduate knows now.

"Yes," you say, "these facts are known to every schoolboy. But we moderns have made the common man free and prosperous. We have mastered sciences unknown to any of the ancients. We have perfected the telephone, the radio, the automobile, the talking picture."

There never was a boast more absurd.

True, the lot of the common man has improved.

Machines have increased production, and this abundance is distributed rapidly by new means of transportation.

The poor have luxuries undreamed of by the rich of other days.

But it was man's selfish ambition and greed that made the machines and provided abundance—not his compassion or benevolence or justice.

And our boasted superiority in scientific knowledge is not a possession of the people, but is limited to the few.

We are able to utilize intricate machines because they are made "fool proof" and operate at the turning of a switch.

A savage without acquaintance with science could learn to operate them as well.

The truth is, not one man in 100,000 could build a telephone, an automobile, a radio set, a phonograph and the other contrivances that serve as evidence of our racial superiority.

Our "knowledge" is mere familiarity with mysteries.

And this familiarity, which prompts our complacent sense of superiority, threatens to make our culture more superficial than it now is.

For the most hopeless ignorance is the ignorance that thinks itself learned, and there is no progress without discontent.

People do not acquire wisdom and knowledge by learning to push buttons.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

WORRIES OF SIR THOMAS LIPTON.

No American cup defender has been launched in the last two or three hours. That's news.

• • • •

We have so many yachts overboard already to meet the Lipton challenge that in England they think America has misunderstood the nature of the contest and thinks she is launching an eleven.

• • • •

The public has lost track of the American candidates already. Names mean nothing. We have to number them.

• • • •

Sir Thomas Lipton appears to be at a disadvantage from the start. Or maybe it's an advantage. He has only one yacht to worry over. That may prove plenty.

• • • •

There has been some criticism of American sportsmanship in resorting to quantity production of cup defenders. If we launch one more boat, the public will go over to Lipton in a body out of sheer sympathy.

• • • •

The big tea and canvas man is already in a quandry. He can't figure out whether America plans to race the Shamrock or surround it.

• • • •

American yachtsmen defend the building of so many yachts by the explanation that they represent different schools of yachting thought. Various groups of yachtsmen had different ideas how a defender should look, and since they were willing to try them out at their own expense it seemed fair enough. This is all right if you overlook the fact that a mass attack is a mass attack, no matter who pays for it.

• • • •

What America is doing is building every type of yacht she can think of, in the belief that she is bound to get something out of the pack that will keep Sir Thomas always a sportsman . . . and never a cup-winner.

• • • •

We are taking no chances, and it begins to look as if Mr. Lipton could get the cup only by suing for it.

• • • •

If America had ever had much trouble defeating a Lipton yacht it would be different. But in the past one boat has been plenty. In fact, it has even seemed that she could have won with less.

• • • •

Meanwhile, the preparations ought to do a lot to restore confidence in American prosperity. The fact that the country is wealthy enough to build one yacht is reassuring.

ANYTHING BUT THAT.

I understand (you make it very plain)
Just this you do not love me any more;
Don't be distressed; I shall be calm and sane.
Only two favors you need grant before
The end. No, do not start nor look afraid
Of me. Go quickly, lest my halting mind
Too soon inform my heart it is betrayed,
And, since you loved me once . . . do not be KIND!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Basement Garages in Town Planning Schemes of San Francisco and Other Western Cities.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A practical solution of the car-parking problem of the City of Washington might be the application of practices in some of the more populous Western cities. For example, San Francisco, with a very large percentage of automobiles, has no all-night parking on any street, not even in dwelling-crowded Chinatown, with its 12,000 Orientals living within approximately seven blocks. During the last half-dozen years there, all new private dwellings and apartment buildings have been provided with fireproofed basement garages, entered across the front sidewalk.

Approximately 45,000 of Washington's 180,000 cars are habitually left at the curbside every night, because there is no other provision for their storage. Cars so parked can be aligned at the rate of 6 to 100 feet, or only 600 to the mile, when using both sides of the street. To occupy the public thoroughfare habitually with 45,000 private cars so parked implies the use of about half the driveway width of 75 miles of this city's streets.

Congested streets can not be properly cleaned at night or freely traversed by motorists, who have a right to find public roadways unblocked by private property. Some provision for the regular removal of these idle cars must be made.

ARCHIE RICE.

Observations on the Sherman Act and "Yellow Dog" Contracts.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Let me make these observations upon the subject of Federal injunctions:

1. The Sherman act is the exercise of the power of Congress to protect interstate commerce. It is primarily a penal statute. The statutory injunction authorized is a supplementary process to enforce the act. Sherman act injunctions, therefore, should issue only at the suit of the Government. Congress should make this plain by specific legislation.

2. The "due process of law" clause of the fourteenth amendment runs specifically against the States. The functions of the State governments should not be impeded or arrested by injunctions issued out of Federal courts. Fourteenth amendment cases should come to the Supreme Court of the United States by appeal from the Supreme Court of the States and by no other channel. Congress should accordingly prescribe that no injunction should issue from the Federal courts under the "due process of law" clause of the fourteenth amendment.

3. In the Hitchman case the Federal court sat as a general court of law and equity in and for the State of West Virginia to adjudicate a controversy between a West Virginia corporation and defendants who were not citizens of that State. The case as affecting the "yellow dog" contract was ruled by the law and equity of West Virginia. It was not ruled by any act of Congress. Congress is not competent to change substantive law or equity affecting the "yellow dog" contract. Congress may withhold from the United States district courts, the exercise of Federal judicial power in controversies between citizens of different States, but if the Federal court is authorized to exercise this power, it must perforce have all the power invested in the State court of general law and equity jurisdiction in order to make a complete adjudication of the controversy between the parties. Upon no rational basis can Congress control the exercise of the judicial power conferred, curtail the remedy or change the substance of the law and equity which rules these controversies between citizens of different States. And Congress will get into very deep water if any such thing is attempted.

Film Fan Suspects Something Wrong With Gorilla Picture.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: From a film I learned recently that "gorillas" have been photographed in Africa which are so like the orang-outangs of Borneo that nobody could tell the difference. One of them looked and walked so like a man dressed up in a skin, and so unlike the gorillas already known, that I feel sure zoologists would pay good money for a chance to examine its skeleton. The creature was fortunately killed after it had carried off a placid-looking black lady "exposed by the tribe" for the purpose. It is alleged to have weighed far more than any gorilla hitherto captured. A highly decorated tortoise, if my eyes are not giving way, was described as being a new reptile, unknown to science, and so poisonous that the intrepid discoverer could not bring it home alive or dead. Which is, one suspects, considerably poisonous!

For my part I prefer to see a lion tear a man in pieces until the sawdust runs right out of his veins! I want to hear his bones pop like firecrackers before I will believe; so that film was wasted on me. But has the public a right to know if a scene in the movies is real or faked? Is film censorship so concerned with timing the long, long kiss that it has no time for the long-drawn-out lie? Faked nature films will certainly bring discredit upon authentic animal pictures and genuine exploration.

Says High Tariff Will Tend to Reduce Exports.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is being realized more every day that the new tariff about to be passed by Congress will not help our farmers in their troubles, but instead of improving conditions, it will tend to make conditions much worse in this country.

Foreign nations can not buy our surplus products unless we buy from them. Such commodities as raw cotton, wheat, automobiles, machinery, &c., will be exported less by us, with the proposed tariff in effect. Both agriculture and industry here will feel the effects of our reduced exporting in the reduced amount of business that they will do. Although I am a Republican, I believe that it would be more sensible to retain the present tariff, as the proposed tariff will do us more harm than good.

DENVER RENOWNED AS SPATS CENTER

Ships 1,800 Pairs Daily for World Consumption Despite Derision.

GUN SIGHTS ALSO MADE

Denver, May 12.—The fact that Yvette Van Hoozis in her New York mansion nibbles pascal celery, raised in Denver's back yard and raves about it, has been duly noted and ballyhooed.

But the fact that the well-dressed man in Sydney, Australia, or in Buenos Aires, or in Hays, Kans., wears spats made in Danver, and will have no other, has not yet been made a theme song.

Nor has any one written an epic poem over the further fact that a mighty hunter in Saskatchewan is enabled to bring down a caribou, or an ovis poli, if he's in the Andes, because of the fine workmanship of his gun sights, made right here in Denver.

Known Over World.

It's true, though, that spats and gun sights are among the leading industrial articles in Denver. Denver spats and gun sights, it is asserted, are becoming known the world over.

A manufacturing concern in Denver is the third largest spat manufacturing plant in the United States, and the gun-sight plant ranks the same in its respective industry.

As far as spats are concerned the situation is peculiar, and again adds weight to the hoary saying about the prophet being without honor in his own country.

A pair of spats parading down Seventeenth street, not so long ago, was enough impetus to set all the street urchins to crying, "Razzberries!"

Unkind Remarks Made.

Even now to wear 'em causes strange whisperings from otherwise faithful friends behind one's back, and open and vociferous unkind comments to one's face.

Meanwhile the spat industry down on Arapahoe street goes merrily on, unmindful of local witticisms at spats.

So merrily, in fact, that the daily average shipped out of Denver has been more than 1,800 pairs all winter, and now promises to mount to 3,600 pairs by August.

And this industry started in Denver just about eighteen months ago—at a time when there were but six pairs (three pairs in moth balls) on Capitol Hill, another pair in a West Denver ashcan, and another pair at Police Headquarters. These latter were worn by a newspaper reporter with skinny ankles who was deaf to the squawks of other fourth-estaters.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

THE comparative ease with which it appears that Mr. Owen J. Roberts' nomination for the Supreme Court is to get through the Senate would seem to afford an excellent idea for Mr. Hoover as to how he should proceed in dealing with that body in the future.

Mr. Hoover should set up stalking horses in matters of this kind. That is to say, that in future Supreme Court vacancies he should first select some man whom he does not want on the court and let the Senate tear him to pieces. Then while that body is still snorting with the meat in its mouth he should rush up his real candidate.

• • • •

THE logic of this is as old as man. Indeed, it runs back to man's most primitive state. It is true of dumb animals as well as the human ones.

The wildest, most vicious wolf will let a rabbit walk gayly by if it has its mouth full of meat just killed.

There is no suggestion, of course, that this is what Mr. Hoover did in first submitting Judge Parker's name to the Senate. The desperate fight which he made for that man's nomination would preclude any such thought. But the quickness with which he produced Mr. Roberts after Judge Parker's rejection would indicate that he had them both in the same bag.

IT would seem, too, that Mr. Hoover might carry this stalking horse idea further than Supreme Court vacancies. He might apply it to legislation in which he is interested.

For example, it would not seem to be bad judgment now for him to come out as a warm proponent of the change in the flexible provisions of the tariff bill. At heart he is most sternly against this change but the Senate is bent upon bringing about some alteration of the present system by which Congress will have a hand in the flexible workings.

It is not at all unlikely that were Mr. Hoover to say that this was just the way he felt that the Senate would reverse its sentiment, that it would say that Mr. Hoover was a high binder for wanting to make any change at all.

• • • •

ONE used to get the impression that this was the way Mr. Coolidge handled Capitol Hill. He used to ask for certain legislation and be denied it and then one of the unexplainable things about him was that he seemed to be entirely satisfied.

Similarly, his quaint New England face would reflect a satisfied glow when the Congress would pass certain legislation which he had taken a stand against.

There were frequent headlines during Mr. Coolidge's administration that Congress had kicked him in the pants but the man went away from here without a single patch.

SCALES OF FISHES STUDIED FOR AGE

Wisconsin Is to Ascertain When They Become Game for Catching.

SPORTSMEN LENDING AID

Special to The Washington Post.

Madison, Wis., May 12.—Studying the scales of game fish, the Wisconsin Geological and Natural History Survey, aided by Wisconsin sportsmen, is determining at just what ages fish in the State reach the legal size.

Present results have been obtained from a microscopic study of the scales of 500 fish. An effort will be made this summer, it was said, to study the scales of one or two thousand of each species.

Results obtained in the study of last summer are as follows:

Wall-eyed pike and great northern pike reach the legal size of thirteen inches either in the fifth or sixth year.

The pickerel reaches a length of sixteen inches either in the fifth or sixth year.

The muscalonge rarely reaches the legal size of 30 inches before the ninth or tenth year.

Length of Bass.

The large mouth and small black bass rarely reaches a length of ten inches before the fifth year and only 25 to 50 per cent of them attain that size in the fifth year. Even some of the 6-year-old specimens had not reached that length.

White bass reach a length of seven inches in the fourth year.

The various species of trout reach a length of seven inches in the second and third year.

"From the viewpoint of fish culture, this small number of game fish indicates that quicker returns are obtained from waters that are stocked with the various species of trout," states a report of the study.

The investigation is being conducted in connection with a comprehensive study of life in Wisconsin lakes, in which Dr. E. A. Birge, of the State University, has been interested for more than 30 years. The game fish caught by anglers represent streams and lakes in southeastern, northeastern and northwestern Wisconsin.

Paves Way for Program.

When the age and weight of fish caught in various natural environments are known, then the rate of growth and the kind of fish best adapted to each lake or stream can be determined. The lake study, which is intended to lay a foundation of scientific facts for a comprehensive conservation program, includes also a thorough study of fish foods in the various bodies of water.

The aim of the project is to make each lake produce its maximum amount of game fish. Wisconsin sportsmen are expected to aid in the investigation this summer by obtaining from the office of the survey at the State University complete kits and directions for sending sample of fish scales and other data on fishing trips to the investigators.

The ages of the fish are determined by counting groups of rings which are formed annually on the scales. This new method is being used for the first time on a comprehensive scale in the Wisconsin investigation. Study of the fish scales also reveals the rate of growth of the fish in the various lakes during each year. The United States Bureau of Fisheries has been cooperating with the Wisconsin officials in the investigation.

Father, Son Held In Bank Shortage

$93,500 Theft Is Charged to Two in Indictments Returned.

Canton, Ohio, May 12 (A.P.).—William A. Thompson, 73, cashier, and his son, A. D. Thompson, vice president of the People's Bank at Alliance, were indicted late today by a Stark County grand jury on charges of embezzling $93,500 of the bank's funds.

The bank examiners charged that the two men covered the shortages through forged notes. They said the defalcations started November 1, 1929. Five counts of forgery were returned against the son and the father was charged on one count. Joint embezzling charges were made against the couple in two counts.

County authorities said the men admitted the shortages and explained that they were caught short on the stock market and used the money in attempts to retrieve their losses. They were freed under bonds of $10,000 each. Immediately after the shortages were discovered recently, State bank officials took charge of the institution, which still is closed.

THIRD WAGNER BILL FOR JOBLESS VOTED

Senate Measure Authorizes $4,000,000 Annually for Next Four Years.

LABOR BUREAUS PLANNED

(Associated Press.)

By a vote of 34 to 27, the Senate yesterday passed the third measure introduced by Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, to help solve the unemployment problem.

The bill, which now goes to the House, would broaden the scope of activities of the United States Labor Department to create a national system of employment offices and to assist the States in setting up similar bureaus.

For the latter purpose, the bill authorizes annually $4,000,000 for the next four years, 75 per cent of which would be apportioned to the States which match Federal funds for the work. The balance of the money would be expended for administrative purposes.

Federal Council Proposed.

The director general of the service would establish a Federal advisory council composed of an equal number of employers and employes "for the purpose of formulating policies and discussing problems relating to unemployment, and insuring impartiality, neutrality, and freedom from political influence in solution of such problems."

Similar advisory councils would be set up in the States.

Little debate preceded passage of the bill which followed closely upon Senate approval of the two other Wagner proposals to set up a Federal employment stabilization board to plan a long range program of employment and to provide for more adequate means of collecting unemployment data.

Hoover Approves, Wagner Says.

Senator Wagner, in urging adoption of his bill, said President Hoover only a week ago indorsed the principle of the legislation.

Opposing the measure, Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, termed it a "Federal aid proposition" in which "there is an element of coercion."

He said 26 States had seen fit not to create employment agencies, and the measure "offers them a bribe to do something they don't want to do."

Havana Hears Capone Plans Residence There

Havana, May 12 (A.P.).—Reports were received here today that Al Capone intends to come to Havana within the next ten days and will establish a temporary residence here.

The inconvenience of being arrested frequently by the Florida authorities is said to be irksome to Capone, and, remembering the relatively warm welcome extended him by Cuban authorities on the occasion of his recent visit here, he is said to have decided to move over for a month or so.

Sister on Stand Defends Governor at Ouster Trial

Marie Kohler Tells Court of Free Luncheon Served 1,900 Women Visitors to Model Mill Village, Regarded as Life Work by Family.

Sheboygan, Wis., May 12 (A.P.).—Marie Kohler, sister of Gov. Walter J. Kohler, defended him from charges of violating the State corrupt practices act at his ouster trial today. Several times her testimony brought tears to the millionaire executive's eyes and stilled the crowded courtroom.

How a governor, a conservative Republican, and his family regard their "model" factory village near here as a life work was described in Miss Kohler's testimony. She had paid for a free luncheon given 1,900 women visitors during the 1928 primary campaign.

"I thought," she explained, "that maybe it was a new day in politics. I thought politics would be clean. I thought that educated women could be brought to see the finer things in Kohler Village.

"I wanted the women to see just what kind of a man my brother was. I wanted them to see what kind of work he carried on."

Under the contention of the State, prosecuting the case upon complaint of the progressive Republican faction, Miss Kohler is classified as one of the "agents" the chief executive is charged with authorizing to spend more than the $4,000 allowed a candidate in Wisconsin.

She told how the governor's mother, now dead; her sisters and brother, Herbert, had agreed to divide the cost of the meals.

"Suppose they hadn't been interested in doing that?" asked Harry Thomas, defense attorney.

"I would have paid for them myself," she replied, then turned to Prosecutor Harold M. Wilkie, who had objected, and said: "And that's the truth."

As far as the value of the meals, she remarked: "I wouldn't insult the intelligence of the voters of Wisconsin by supposing they could be influenced by a meal."

In any event, she said, the food was provided in observance of the old German custom of always feeding visitors.

Leaning forward intently in the witness chair, she said to Prosecutor Wilkie, "You've got to understand our family traditions to appreciate the reason for those meals, Mr. Wilkie."

She traced the history of the Kohler manufacturing plant and said of the governor's part of it:

"He put his hand, head and heart in it. I hope the jury realizes this; they'll be better able to understand."

DEAREST GENEVIEVE: What a wonderful ball that was last evening. The Pasternak fashion showing especially was simply divine. You have never seen smarter clothes in your life, that's certain. This week is very "fashion," isn't it, with Hickson's having a showing today, and the Horse Show at Bradley Farms, sure to bring out a lovely array of spectator costumes and swanky riding togs. At the Hunt Ball on Saturday night many will wear riding things undoubtedly, but last year most women wore their newest gowns, as being more comfortable for dancing than boots and coats.

Harris & Ewing.

MISS GERTRUDE LAMONT, daughter of Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Robert Lamont, is an enthusiastic member of the group featured in plans for the annual Hunt Ball and Breakfast to be given at the Mayflower on May 17.

Spectator Costumes at Madame Ash

—include all the most charming frocks you could possibly want.

Do go in today and see the lovely knitted things which have just arrived, cross knit three-piece suits with plain white or colored tuck-in jerseys with short sleeves. The jerseys have little turn-over collars and ties . . . and, listen to this now . . . a purse and beret to match each suit. Talk about swank! One which took my eye is in brown and yellow and white with a white jersey and yellow tie, the beret and purse of the figured knit.

In crepe suits, there are delightful models in great variety. You will want a finely plaited white crepe skirt, with a sweater of hand-worked lace wool in greens and yellow and white. You will not see this repeated.

A sleeveless frock of blue has a lace wool coat in the same shade. You will like a cool green crepe dotted in white with a frilled blouse of pure white. A pink crepe with a white blouse has a flared skirt and unusual coat.

This collection at Mme. Ash has more distinction and variety than you would suppose possible in sport clothes which have been more or less regulation for a long time.

If you are taking on some new evening gowns you may as well attend it at once, and initiate them at the many events this week. The evening models shown at Mme. Ash, Connecticut avenue and M street, include at this writing, copies of the most important designs brought out this month as well as many original importations.

Apropos of Horse Show Week

—you might be interested to see a pair of very fine old hunting boards on exhibit in The Old Virginia Shop, 1711 Eye street, Mr. Van DeVanter is to be congratulated on securing such rare pieces. They are fine mellow old yellow pine on slender delicate legs. They would be perfect in someone's country house.

When you go in to see these hunting boards ask to see a pair of portraits in oval frames, of George and Martha Washington. They are copies after Stuart and are worth seeing.

The Old Virginia Shop offers much of interest always, and you will agree that the collection is unusually superior in every way.

To Those Who Love You

—the way you look now is the way they want to see you. You are never so old but that friends and family want your picture, just as you are today.

When you view the window filled with portraits of matrons and older women displayed at Underwood & Underwood's this week you realize more fully than you ever have, perhaps, that this famous firm of photographers has a genius in doing full justice to the subtle beauty of mature women, without flattery, without robbing them of the character lines and contours which make them dear to loved ones.

Have you ever noticed that women getting on in years seem sometimes loathe to go before the camera? They say, "Oh, you don't want a new picture of me; you like that picture I had made in 1903." "But," you protest, "you are different now. We want a picture of you just as you are today." So she promises to have one made, and then diligently and consistently procrastinates from day to day and from week to week.

Now is a good time to fulfill those promises and make appointments for sittings. Underwood & Underwood have made so many handsome pictures of mothers and matrons this month. The home portraits are quite as popular as the studio sittings, and the charge is the same; no extra cost for having the pictures made in the home.

Doughnuts Dipped in Spiced Sugar

—are more delicious than you have ever dreamed anything could be. Toinette, 1321 New York avenue, has created a sensation since opening her unique bar for the serving of doughnuts de luxe with a little luncheon menu as well. Soups, salads, and sandwiches, with, of course, coffee, tea and milk may be had at all times, but the doughnuts are the chief feature. Patrons are buying them by the dozen to take home, in five assorted kinds, cocoanut coated, dipped in cinnamon, whole wheat, and several others. Try them.

One Hot Evening Last Week

—I strolled into the Hob Nob Tea Room for dinner, all alone by myself. I had had a busy, trying day, and wanted just the quiet atmosphere I knew I could find in this attractive restaurant. Because I happened to be wearing a blue suit that just matched it, I chose the blue room, and felt myself very much in the picture of harmony which it presents.

If you have thought the angle and revolutionary colorings of modernistic art might have an unpleasant effect, try dining in The Hob Nob Tea Room for that calm, restful feeling.

The food is perfectly delicious. The tea-room is open from 11 in the morning until 8 in the evening. There is fountain service, too. The Hob Nob, 1010 F street.

Every Day Is a Sale Day

—at Schwartz, 1325 Connecticut avenue. For the remainder of this month each and every day will present new price reductions in summer merchandise.

Tub silks, printed chiffons, crepe suits with jackets or capes, everything which this summer demands will be found in the extensive exhibits in this splendid little shop, and at such prices as you can believe only when you have seen the models.

Let me whisper a secret to you, too. Schwartz expects hourly a shipment of clever little velvet evening coats. You know, the short, diminutive style you want, to sell at small prices.

Prices, $16.50, $22.50, $27.50

Songs, Dances Prove Feature In Peace Ball

Colorful Pageant Given in Grand Ballroom of Mayflower.

SONGS and legends old and dances of Provence, drifting from a tapestry glittering with jeweled figures, transformed the grand ballroom of the Mayflower last night into a fairyland of color and movement as the long heralded Peace Ball got under way. Into the spotlight moved debutantes and younger members of society; looking on was official Washington with a goodly sprinkling of resident society.

It was a night of glamorous charm. Forgotten melodies recalled the waltzes of the nineties; tap dances and rollicking French tunes set younger feet a-going and legends from the palace of the Doges lent romantic atmosphere to colorful entertainment which preceded the dancing.

In a setting of flowers and palms and flags of all nations a distinguished group received the guests. Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose was at the head of the line. With her were Col. James A. Moss, Senator and Mrs. Walter F. George, Admiral and Mrs. Mark Bristol, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. A. C. Dalton and Mrs. John Allen Dougherty.

Every one began to arrive early, and by 11 o'clock there was a general air of excitement back stage.

For the stage, last night, was the thing.

In a series of fascinating scenes Washington girls unfolded the Legend of the Tapestry with its glittering patterns woven into a tale of Venetian splendor concerning six maids whose wanderings from the palace of the Doge led them to imprisonment in a Florentine castle once occupied by an old weaver. Through the years they occupied their time with his abandoned materials, their shuttles forming the tapestry which, years later, became the symbol of Peace and Reconciliation.

As Miss Jeanette MacKelvie, of New York, read the opening scenes a sextet of girls in moyen age costumes depicted the legend. They were Miss Katherine Davis, Miss Alberta Perley, Miss Nancy James-Adams, Miss Emiscah Davis, Miss Susan Kintner and Miss Betty Bartholomew. A typical costume was that of Miss Betty Vandenberg, also taking part in the act, whose gown was of cloth of gold jeweled in intricate design. The long train was lined with apple green velvet and heavily banded with sable. The sleeves were long, with flowing draperies of chiffon, the draperies repeated in the streamers from the pointed hat of cloth of gold studded with jewels.

Followed the fantasy of nations, with America leading the way to the goal of peace, the first number, the "Peace Ball of 1898," with costumes of the gay nineties, prompting clever dancing, in which Miss Jocelyn Hibberd, Miss Carolyn Widman, Mr. Tommy Tompkins and Mr. Jack Eakin took the leads.

In a gay French dance a quintet of midinettes, tap-tapping from the milliner's shop, shed their drab work-a-day frocks and were magically transformed into grande dames treading the stately rhythm of the dance, their Directoire gowns of turquoise and coral reflecting the charm of the French court.

Sparkling music, striking costumes of gold and black with frills of red, huge combs and swaying fans proclaimed the Spanish maids led by Miss Elizabeth Dunlop as Donna Sol in a captivating dance. In this group, chosen, perhaps, for her dark beauty, was Miss Vittora Catalani, whose home is in Italy, but who came out this winter in Washington and, happily, has elected to remain through the season. In the flamingo scene she wore a dress of black organdie with tight bodice and ruffled skirt edged in red, black velvet wig with a jaunty red rose held by a high Spanish comb of gold and silver, the lace fan and red slippers completing a costume of dash and spirit typical of merry Spain.

In the Bersaglieri Italy found its place in the sun of peace, Miss Mildred Huston and Miss Catherine Huston stepping from the legendary picture to give a bit of syncopated dancing in costumes of green velvet trousers and red velvet coats with frills of lace and tin helmets with coque feathers falling in cascade effect to their feet.

Two entrancing acts, "Hours of Sunlight" and "Hours of Starlight," danced across the screen of legendary fantasy in which Miss Kitty Berry as Starlight wore an engaging costume of black point d'esprit starred in silver and jewels. Dancing with her were Miss Mary Jacobs, Miss Junia Culbertson and Miss Eleanor Stringer. The "Hours of Sunlight" wore gold point d' esprit.

The final number, the "Dove of Peace," featured Miss Jocelyn Hibberd in a costume of white ostrich and elaborate head dress.

The pageant was directed by Mr. Ward Fox and Mrs. Stanley Woodard, of New York, and given under the auspices of the National Motion Picture League, Inc., with the cooperation of the United States Flag Association.

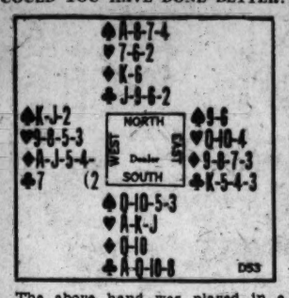
WORK ON BRIDGE

COULD YOU HAVE DONE BETTER?



The above hand was played in a game of Auction. South became the Declarer with a bid of one No Trump. In Contract South would have bid two No Trumps and North three.

In the play West led the Diamond Four, dummy played small, and South won with the Ten. South then led a Spade which dummy won and led the Jack of Clubs. East, with four Clubs, did not cover; South played the Eight, and the Club lead was repeated for a second finesse. When this was won by South and West discarded a Heart, the Declarer knew that the King of Clubs was guarded in the East hand and that the Diamonds were all against him. So all he could do was cash his Ace of Clubs, and his Ace-King of Hearts, just making his Auction contract of one-odd.

Could you have made more?

The Correct Play.

When playing to the first trick Declarer should have realized that, having only four Diamonds in his two hands, one of the adversaries must have at least five and that they would win four Diamond tricks as soon as they obtained the lead. These, with the trick with which they obtained the entry, would save the game; so Declarer must run nine tricks before the adversaries obtain any, if he would win his game. The only possible way of doing this would be to finesse both Hearts and Clubs successfully; and for this two entries in dummy were needed. There was a better chance of getting a Diamond entry in dummy by playing the King on the first trick, than by playing small and hoping that East would play the Ace; it was probable that leader had the Ace, and even if East had it he would be apt to finesse with a lone King left in dummy.

With the King of Diamonds winning the first trick, the Jack of Clubs should be led and South should play the Ten if East did not cover. Then the Nine of Clubs on which South plays the Eight; and then a third Club for a third finesse and a consequent winning of four Club tricks. With five tricks in hand, Declarer should lead the Ace of Hearts and next take his seventh trick by putting dummy in with the Ace of Spades. After that the Heart finesse should be ventured in a try for game.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

THE SUGAR IN SWEETS.

(Department of Agriculture.)

Granulated, lump, pulverized, and brown sugar, though differing in texture or flavor, are practically alike in composition; they contain little or nothing but sugar. A pound of candy may be considered the equivalent in fuel value of a pound of sugar. Water which has no fuel value, is used in making candy, to be sure, but so, too, are chocolate and nuts meats, which have higher fuel values than sugar. The average fuel value per pound of candies of various kinds is, therefore, about the same as that of sugar. The proportion of sugar in thick sirups, such as honey and molasses, is about three-fourths of a pound to the pound, and in jellies, jams, and rich preserves, about one-half of a pound to the pound. This makes it possible to estimate quickly the amount of sugar used, whether in the form of sugar itself or in the fo. n of candy, sirups or preserves.

Egypt to Get Back Valued Bust.

Cairo, Egypt, May 12 (A.P.).—The famous bust of Queen Nefertiti, which recently has reposed in the Berlin State Museum, will journey back to Egypt. By negotiations concluded today Egypt will exchange other objects of antiquity for the highly prized relic.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Front and back views of a light blue crepe afternoon dress. Note the unusual collar and the tucking. (Courtesy of Philippe et Gaston, Paris.)

Paris, May 12.

ALLOW me to quote for you something of interest which has just come into our fashion studio-office.

"Apropos of any one's interest in where skirt lengths will finally terminate, it is of great interest to know that the Maison Heim, famous Parisian furriers, is preparing fur coats for the coming winter to end just at the middle of the calf, covering the length of the dress.

"Unable to predict the success of the longer skirt, fur coats presented an almost unsurmountable problem last winter. But with skirt lengths definitely entablished by women the world over, the fur department of this couture is working to capacity evolving smart new models for Jack Frost's next visit to terra firma.

"Sports coats of fur will necessarily be a fraction shorter than those for dress. Likewise there will be some short coats, or what used to be called 'fur jacquettes,' and a few three-quarter length coats.

"Black will be the favored color for afternoon furs, unrelieved by any touches of color. For daytime wear, dark beige or coffee and silver gray will be featured. In the black coats all of the very flat furs such as broadtail, galljack, very soft pony and Persian lamb will be the most popular, and it is whispered that seal will find its way back to favor after its several seasons' rest.

There was more about fur coats in this report, which I will have to tell you in the future. In case you wonder why one speaks of fur coats for the coming winter in May, the reason is because it is interesting to know that at such an early date it is possible to predict skirt lengths for so many months ahead.

Large loose trousers pleated in such a way that they look exactly like a skirt, and all attached to make a one piece garment out of the smartest house dress you ever saw. Then a really pleated skirt which buttons on in a jiffy over these trousers, when one sits down to luncheon perhaps. And as if that weren't enough, an adorable little capelet which buttons on at the shoulders when you go out to do the morning shopping!

That's Dah-ray's new idea for the modern housewives' chic and practical outfit . . . and if you are a chic modern housewife or ever intend to be, you'll sit down and make out a stamped, self-addressed envelope, send to the Dare Department, Washington Post, for the illustrated leaflet telling you exactly how to make it!

• • • •

I wanted to tell you all about it the minute I saw it at Philippe et Gaston's! 'N I didn't know whether to tell you first about the adorable and unusual neckline and then the incrustation that starts at the neckline and spreads at the waist and hipline in such a flattering way; or about the fine tucking at the waistline and on the sleeves and then about the full skirt . . . oh, well, what could I do but sketch it for you? And when a frock is as lovely as this one from the back as well as in the front, there's nothing but to sketch the back, too, Oh, yes . . . its pale blue.

• • • •

And,Oh yes, again. The weekly Dare fashion letter will appear in the Sunday Washington Post as usual.

Au revoir.

This Goofus Mole, who's quite a sleuth
Is trying to track his long lost youth.

"TAURUS."

IF May 13 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m., and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:15 a. m. and from 1:30 p. m. to 2:30 p. m.

There are no spectacular forecasts for this date, but thought and energy can change your luck. It is the effort of each blade of grass that keeps the meadow green. Fortunate time for travel. Rather special care should be taken of your health.

The children born on this May 13 will have sensitive, jealous dispositions, and they will keenly react to their surroundings and influences. They have an innate sense of harmony, and they should succeed in some of the arts. They make faithful and loyal friends.

You should have been an April person as you have so many characteristics which are true of this wistful, tearful month. You are a creature of ever varying moods—sometimes you are laughing, radiant and cheerful, and sometimes you are sad, tearful and pessimistic. It takes very little to change the barometer of your feelings—a smile lifts you up; a frown spoils the day for you. You are altogether too dependant upon other people and outward conditions for your happiness. The things that make life real are qualitative, and elude all physical record and measurement—love, goodness, beauty and even vitality.

You do not possess great physical endurance, and like most people of your type you are at your best during the p. m. hours of the day, due to your nervous stimulation. You often carry one by sheer will power and nervous energies until your job is done, at which time the reaction of tiredness, mental and physical, sets in.

If a woman, you worship the goddess of beauty, and you try to make yourself as physically charming as possible—you care much more about your looks than you do your brains. You love to be admired, you long for affection and you want some stronger being to protect you. You should make very devoted mother.

Successful people born May 13:

1—Johnson M. Mundy, sculptor.

2—Frank Woolworth, 5 and 10 cent store merchant.

2—Thomas Rees, newspaper publisher.

4—The Rev. Percy Stickney Grant, clergyman.

5—William Boyce Thompson, capitalist.

MOB INQUIRY BEGUN BY MILITARY COURT

Commander Says Data Will Be of Use to Grand Jury Investigation.

28 NOW HELD IN JAIL

Sherman, Tex., May 12 (A.P.).—Assisted by Texas rangers and Grayson County officers, military officials today started an investigation into the rioting here last Friday which resulted in the death of a Negro, the destruction by fire of the courthouse and the burning of several buildings in the Negro section of the city.

The first session of the military court of inquiry was held today. Col. L. S. Davidson, of the Texas National Guard, presiding, explained the workings of the court. District Attorney Joe P. Cox was present, and Col. Davidson said the inquisitorial body undoubtedly would have some information to turn over to the grand jury when it convenes in regular session next Monday.

Col. Lawrence McGee, commanding officer of National Guardsmen, who took charge of Sherman Saturday night under the martial law proclamation of Gov. Dan Moody, declined to express an opinion as to how long the city would remain under military rule.

"We will stay here until we arrest as many of the mob members as possible, particularly leaders, and until the investigation is completed," he explained.

Sherman remained quiet today, citizens and civil officials aiding the military officers every way possible in their duties.

Rangers arrested 12 persons today, bringing to 28 the number held in the county jail in connection with the activities of the mob which attempted to lynch George Hughes, 41-year-old Negro, as he went to trial for criminal assault on a white woman.

The Negro died in a vault in the courthouse where officers had placed him in their efforts to protect him from the angry crowd which stormed the buildings for hours. The mob finally fired the building and later obtained the Negro's body from the ruins of the structure and burned it in the Negro settlement.

A number of those arrested live in nearby towns. Mayor Jess Eubanks, in a statment the day after the riot, declared those responsible for the rioting lived outside of Sherman and and that this city had been the victim of circumstances. He also said the Negro, whose crime incited the rioting, had lived here only a few weeks.

In explaining the procedure of the military court, Col. Davidson, who was appointed provost marshal, said its working were similar to those of a grand jury. He said that names of persons summoned would not be made public because to do so would defeat the court's purpose.

"The best people of Sherman" will be called to idenify members of the mob, the colonel said.

Names of the men arrested today were added to the blotter with the notation "incendiary riot" beside them and then they were held for the court.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

Once in a while an American comedy rings the bell—and when it does there is probably no comedy in the world that runs faster, smoother, or with more wholesome abandon. "Salt Water," started on its local career last night by the National Theater Players, is this sort of comedy; fresh from the playwrighting shops.

On the heels of the all-star cast in "The Rivals," the George C. Tyler production of Sheridan's play that occupied the National Stage for one night only — Sunday — the National Theater Players came through gloriously in what is undoubtedly the best offering of their subscription season. Furthermore, the American drama promised as much enthusiasm as the old English classic.

This is the kind of play material the players fit in admirably. It was penned by Dan Jarrett and the embroideries contributed by John Golden, the exponent of the clean plays. Between the two of them, a playwright new to the cloth and an experienced showman, they turned out an entertainment designed to please all-comers. The very idea of the play is funny.

It has to do with a young man who has ambition to sail the seven seas. His father and grandfather before him sail the seven seas. His father and grandfather before him deep-sea sailormen, here he is a candy butcher on the Albany night boat. How he attempts to annex title to an old waterlogged freighter, with hopes of hitting Port Said, the Straits Settlement, and points South and West, is something to startle the risibilities. In one fast and furious second act the National Players last night sent an audience almost into convulsions.

Walter Gilbert, leading man with the players, has the role to his liking—John Horner, bent on being a captain. Opposite him is Miss Marion Wells as the distraut wife—and she does here her best work. A wise-cracking little sister-in-law is played admirably by Miss Marion Sterly. It remains for Romaine Callender to spring the surprise of the season by appearing as an Eye-talian. As he neither overplays the part nor smears it with impossible dialect, he manages to become, for the moment, the real thing; his make-up, perfect.

As a matter of fact the entire production stands head and shoulders above most of the work previously turned in by the players. At least that seemed to be the consensus of opinion last night—when an enthusiastic audience left the National Theater feeling they had seen something worth wfhile.

A realistic scene—the seaside home of John Horner and his forbears—is enough to bring on nostalgia to all who lived at any time along the coast. Clifford Brooke's direction here reaches the apex.

COSTA RICA HONORS DEAD MEXICAN ACES

Bodies of Sidar and Rovirosa Will Be Sent Home Under Special Guard.

FLIERS CRASHED IN SEA

San Jose, Costa Rica, May 12 (A.P.). This Central American republic tonight prepared to receive with full military honors the shattered bodies of Col. Pablo Sidar and Capt. Carlos Rovirosa, Mexican heroes of the air, who last night plunged to death in a storm which overtook them on their attempted flight to Buenos Aires.

The general staff of the Costa Rican army was directed by the military authorities to meet and take charge of the bodies of the fliers and, accepting them suitable honors, forward them under guard of honor to their own country.

Mexican advices stated that a complete holiday of mourning had been inaugurated today by order of President Ortiz Rubio.

Col. Arturo Robles, of the Costa Rican army, was the first official to reach the wrecked plane. It was he who took Col. Sidar's body from the waves. Col. Robles said there was evidence that an explosion or lightning bolt had shattered the plane in midair. A terrific electrical display occurred at about the minute of the crash.

The plane's unusual weight at first was blamed for the fatal fall. The aviators were trying to hop 5,500 miles, an unprecedented distance. They had traveled 1,000 miles from Cerro Loco, their Mexican starting point, when the accident happened.

Because Col. Sidar shared fame with the late Capt. Emilio Carranza, Mexico's "Lindbergh," the disaster will be commemorated throughout Latin America, and the several republics will send official representatives to his funeral ceremonies at the Mexican capital.

Better School Stages And Libraries Sought

Extension of reference libraries and better stage equipment in District schools are provided for in items in the 1932 school estimates which are now in the hands of the District Commissioners.

School officials are asking for a tripling of the school library fund, bringing it up to total of $10,000. An item of $62,000 is asked for modern stage equipment at the Central and Dunbar Schools. Modern stage equipment was once installed in the schools, but was eliminated when new fire regulations were introduced after the Knickerbocker disaster. School officials are asking for reinstallation of this equipment.

Merchant Asks Bankruptcy.

Daniel De Young, a merchant, operating at 901 G street northwest, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to adjudge him a bankrupt. He lists liabilities of $13,375.55 and assets of $2,714.90. Attorney Maurice Grudd appears for the petitioner.

On the Rules of Traffic

By WILLIAM ULLMAN

Washington's traffic regulations provide not only for the convenience and safety of persons who ride in privately-owned cars but in public vehicles as well. The rule that parking is not allowed in the space set aside for a bus stop is one that has such a purpose.

Frequently motorists will park their cars in these zones, forgetting that they are causing a public inconvenience. The long space allotted the buses may have an inviting look when parking space is at a premium, but the law recognizes it as filling another vital need.

Example—A driver in the downtown section looks in vain for a parking space and draws into the rear of a bus stop zone. It so happens that he is away from his car only for a few minutes and has caused no great inconvenience to bus traffic, but he has violated the law, nevertheless.

Think What Regular Use of This CONOCO Oil Will Mean To Your Motor! . . .

Charts prepared from the Pike's Peak Test records indicate a longer motor life by lubricating it with Germ-Processed oil. Too, you will save substantially on your gasoline cost, and in oil expense, by using this oil. The tenacity with which this oil's film will hold a compression seal in your motor will give you more enjoyment from driving your car. The penetrative lubricity, the fact that Germ-Processed oil penetrates metal surfaces, means that after starting your car on a cold morning you can safely drive at top-speed with less likelihood of damage . . . . for CONOCO'S film is already on the job.

Less Carbon—Less Cost—More Mileage . . . . .

and Less Heating—More Compression. All these things mean a better all-around motor, and a happier use of your car. It is unusual for a motor oil to so excel competition as CONOCO did in the Pike's Peak Tests. Tested out on the Pike's Peak Highway, scene of many famous automobile tests, a memorable struggle for supremacy . . . On the one side, three of America's representative and popular oils—on the other, Germ-Processed oil. And CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil won, by all tests applied.

Seek the sign of the CONOCO Red Triangle . . . . . Only CONOCO can make Germ-Processed oils. CONOCO can give you these new motor oil merits, including penetrative lubricity—CONOCO has an oil which penetrates metal surfaces and stays there! CONOCO Germ-Processed oil can give you more power with less carbon, more mileage with less cost, more compression with less motor wear by 76.4%, as shown in the Pike's Peak Tests! FEDERAL ART GROUP HAS ANNUAL SESSION

400 Directors of Museums and Schools to Gather Here Tomorrow.

MOORE WILL GIVE TALK

In advance of the convention of the American Federation of Arts, the Federal Council on Art Education opened its annual meeting in the Hotel Mayflower last night. Sessions are to continue through today. The American Federation of Arts will commence its meeting tomorrow at 10 a. m.

The council is composed of three representatives from each of the following organizations: The American Federation of Arts, the American Institute of Architects, the Western Arts Association, the Eastern Arts Association, the Association of Art Museum Directors and the College Art Association. The organization was formed for the purpose of making careful studies of various phases of art education, and compiling reports together with recommendations on the subject.

The twenty-first annual convention of the American Federation of Arts tomorrow in the Mayflower will bring together 400 directors of art museums and associations, art teachers in schools, universities and colleges, along with laymen and artists concerned in the advancement of art.

Charles Moore, chairman of the National Commission of Fine Arts, is scheduled to make the opening address at the initial session which will be presided over by Frederic A. Delano, treasurer of the council and a member of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The new president, Frederic Allen Whiting, of Cleveland, will be installed at this time. Other sessions are to be given over to different art subjects, culminating in a banquet on Friday evening, which will be addressed by the Canadian Minister, Mr. E. Vincent Massey, and many authorities from the artistic world.

The delegates are to visit the Corcoran Gallery of Art, the Phillips Memorial Gallery and the National Gallery of Art during the course of their convention program.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

WASHINGTON this week is experiencing a foreign invasion of its downtown, first-run picture houses, in case you hadn't noticed it.

"In Gay Madrid," at the Palace, is completely Spanish in story, atmosphere and treatment, and in Ramon Novarro boasts a star of Spanish blood, who finds his most congenial vehicle in this delightful Castillian comedy-drama.

In its most exciting and most laughable sequences, "The Cuckoos," at the RKO-Keith Theater, is Mexican.

A little of every nationality is to be found in the gorgeous "Melting Pot" finale of "The King of Jazz," in its second week at the Rialto, and John Boles' "In Old Monterey" number is colorfully Mexican.

El Brendel, at the Fox, in "The Golden Calf," represents Sweden among the current stars, and the "Song of the Flame," cofeaturing Bernice Claire and Alexander Gray, at the Earle, is wholly Russian.

Another Russian subject, and the best of them all, "The Rogue Song," starring that magnificent barytone, Lawrence Tibbett, is just now becoming prevalent in the neighborhood houses, having concluded a two-day engagement at the Tivoli last night and being booked for the Ambassador May 21 and 22.

Why join the Navy?

After all, the picture industry must have its favorite juvenile star—or else!

The movies looked for a successor to Wesley "Freckles" Barry and found him in Jackie Coogan; tiny Davy Lee followed in Master Coogan's footsteps, enjoying a short but profitable popularity. There have been many other child actors, but few of them have attained substantial prominence.

Directors and others are always on the lookout for promising youngsters. A child star is a definite asset to a studio; it is easy to build a story around him, usually of the type confidently labeled a "box-office clean-up."

A 13-year-old youth, whose appearance and personality typify the American boy, is a new discovery. In "Courage," soon to be released, he is one of several children. That is, he WAS one of several children. As it turned out, he is THE one, the rest being already forgotten.

When the picture was previewed, the decision of the officials who saw it was unanimous to find the boy who so stood out from the rest of the cast.

He had stolen the picture from seasoned troupers, actors and actresses wise in the ways of the stage. His was a personality that could not be overlooked.

He is Leon Janney, and today his name appears on a contract that will eventually make him a Warner Bros. star. He was born in Ogden, Utah, April 1, 1917, and has curly brown hair and blue eyes.

Whereas, Jackie Coogan had Chaplin as his mentor, and Davey Lee had Jolson, Janney had only himself to call attention to his performance.

I imagine he doesn't take much stock in April Fools' Day!

Mr. Thomas W. Gilmer, one of this column's faithful friends, laments, through the mails, that the new Will H. Hays code of behavior, adopted for the government of motion picture production, does not seem to be quite working and rises to inquire what has become of Louise Brooks, Harrison Ford, John Gilbert, James Kirkwood, May McAvoy, Thomas Meighan, Adolphe Menjou, Jason Robards, Alma Rubens, Milton Sills and Ben Turpin.

I couldn't tell you, at the moment, about the others, but the American microphones do not care for Miss Brooks' voice, although she is kept reasonably active in the studios abroad; John Gilbert is at present concerned with the articulate version of "Redemption;" James Kirkwood and Adolphe Menjou soon will both be seen again; Milton Sills is on the Fox lot and Alma Rubens, after ridding herself of Ricardo Cortez, who stuck to her through all of her recent difficulty, is to attempt a comeback by way of the stage—so I hear.

About that code, it is still a little too early to judge. They haven't had time to put it to any practical demonstration yet—at least on screens this far away from base.

Dave Apollon, master of ceremonies at the Palace this week, is probably not altogether clowning when he says the eight instrumentalists comprising his Royal Filipino Orchestra will make "The Dance of the Hours," from "La Gioconda," sound almost as well on their mandolins and guitars as the Philharmonic can with its vastly more comprehensive instrumentation.

They almost do.

Just one of those things that occasionally happen in the theater with all of the smoothness and spontaneity of an act that has been rehearsed occurred at the Fox last night.

John Philip Sousa, the march king—also the April, May, June, July, August, September, October, November, December, January and February king—accompanied by a small party of friends attended the 9 o'clock performance, and, the crowded condition of the house being what it was, was compelled to take seats in the front row of the center section of the orchestra. The eagle-eyed Mr. Brusiloff, conductor of the symphony, recognizing the distinguished former Washingtonian, introduced him to the audience in a graceful speech and thereby precipitated no less than an ovation for the one-time leader of the United States Marine Band and composer of the "Washington Post" March.

Not content with this gesture, Mr. Brusiloff swung his men at once into the stirring strains of the "Stars and Stripes Forever"—which, happily, they all know backwards by heart—standing the brasses on their feet, after the manner of the master himself, and thereby moved the audience virtually to tear down the house in the frenzy of its enthusiasm.

Just one of those things; to be sure, but a friendly and delightful moment in the theater, just the same.

As far as I am able to judge without the aid of X rays and stethoscopes, the old nervous system was not seriously impaired by yesterday evening's adventure before the class in journalism at Corcoran Hall.

I wouldn't be so sure about the class!

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

I HAVE a forsythia bush which was planted in 1928. Last year it developed nicely and has about 25 blooms on it, this year it has only a few more. I was told to cut it down after it had finish blooming, which I did. The flowers, instead of bursting into bloom, came out a few at a time. As the bush is 3 feet tall and rather spindly, it isn't exactly a thing of beauty. When planted it was watered faithfully. The soil had previously been enriched with manure. MRS. L. W. S.

Perhaps your soil is not nourishing the bush as it should. Better incorporate some well-rooted manure with loam about 1 foot away from the main stems of the plant. The weather may be responsible for the fact that it has been a little slow in unfolding its buds. From your description, the plant hasn't been so very slow, as it takes about two seasons for it to grow very large. Another thing, you say you cut it down after it had finished blooming. If you literally cut it back to the root, of course it would take it almost the entire summer to regain this growth. A forsythia should be cut back, not down, immediately after it has finished flowering.

I am anxious to reseed my lawn. My grass each year has been choked out by course grass which appears quite early. I have tried raking off this coarse variety, but have never succeeded. Then I have tried weed destroyer. Have you any suggestions for getting rid of the pest? A. K. T.

Better plow or dig up your entire lawn and begin all over again. Sow your grass seed very close. When there is a close network of grass roots, there is no room left for weeds.

Please tell me why my grapevines do not bear. They are well pruned each year and I always give them bonemeal and sheep manure. Please tell me of a good spray to use at this time. I am also in want of information regarding a syringa bush. The ends of the branches become covered with tiny black bugs for which I know of no reliable cure. Do you know of any way to prevent their appearance? MISS LUCY D.

It may be lack of sun that is responsible for your grapevines' ceasing to produce fruit. Better spray the vine at this time with Bordeaux mixture. I would suggest that you also spray the syringa with the same material. During the summer any nicotine spray will keep these insects from injuring the ends of the branches; in fact, plain water from the garden hose will usually cause the pests to depart.

My wife read with much interest in our paper of a preparation that is said to prevent mildew from injuring rambler roses. She unfortunately lost the clipping. If you can furnish me with the name of this material and tell me where it can be obtained, the courtesy will be appreciated. J. C. W. L.

Dusting sulphur was the material to which you refer. You can obtain sulphur from any seedsman or any drug store.

AT DAWN I WENT BACK INTO THE SHIP—IN DESPAIR.
THEY DIDN'T SHOW UP! SOMETHING HAS HAPPENED TO THEM!

LAMAR'S LATE RALLY WINS DECISION OVER GALLAGHER; NATS POUND THREE CHICAGO PITCHERS TO TRIUMPH, 13-2

Pegler

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 12.—There are no crazy horses in Col. Edward R. Bradley's barn and the colonel says the vicious horse never is vicious by nature, but is made so by imprisonment, harsh treatment and isolation.

I would not make this an occasion to say that the wardens of Auburn Prison and Ohio State Penitentiary could have averted the trouble in their commands by studying the methods of a horseman, however, because that does not necessarily follow. Some of the chaps in the various big houses around the country must have been pretty ornery by nature or they never would have done the unkind deeds for which they were sent to the big houses in the first place.

On the other hand, Col. Bradley says a horse will return the sort of treatment he has received. Lock him up, shut out the sun, never let him see other horses except on official business, and one day when the groom goes into his stall he will grab him by the arm, throw him down and put the hoofs on him with very serious intent and injurious, if not positively fatal effect, but, give him room and light and a social hour or so a day in the paddock and he will express his pleasure by romping like a dog. Whenever any one goes near him. This strikes me as overdoing things a bit, as dogs, in romping, have a tendency to leap in one's lap, and if a horse should do that it would not make much difference whether his intent were joyous or malicious.

Horse Well Understood In This Region.

This region is a country where nowadays the horse is so well understood that even the little children discuss the biological taboos in mixed company with familiarity and utter innocence, but I have heard of an incident which indicates that the dark ages of horsemanship continued until as recently as 30 years ago. In this case, a rogue horse named Onondaga was found to be unmanageable and the owner of the steed, not wishing to destroy his investment, put out the horse's eyes. After that, the brute became comparatively tame, but the atrocity of the cure seems a reproach to the own home grounds of the thoroughbred horse, the Blue Grass country and, if the same thing were to happen today, peculiar representations would be made to the owner, beyond any doubt.

Col. Bradley had a temperish horse here once. His name was Cunard and he was brought on from California and delivered by an English groom, who warned the colonel and Barry Shannon, his manager, to muzzle him and protect themselves at all times in all their relations with him.

Tries Discipline First.

"I will try discipline first," said Mr. Shannon, who has been handling horses more or less seriously since he was 7 years old. "I will put him in

Browns Halt Red Sox Winning Streak in 10th

Boston, May 12 (A.P.).—It took the St. Louis Browns ten innings to halt the winning streak of the galloping Red Sox today, the Westerners winning the last game of the series, 3 to 2. Heinie Wagner's boys had won five games in a row and Lisenbee seemed bent on making it six until the St. Louis bats began to rattle in the tenth.

The winning run was scored on Blue's single, Manush's double and Kress' sacrifice fly. Previous to this Lisenbee had held the Browns to four hits.

Sweeney collected a homer off Collins in the second with one on.

BURKE HOLDS CHISOX RUNLESS AFTER 1ST IN FINAL OF SERIES

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

ANOTHER young Washington pitcher yesterday gave indications that he has arrived when Bob Burke, flyweight southpaw, turned back the Chicago White Sox with but five scattered hits, none coming in the last five innings. Bob seemed to have everything and was never in trouble except in the first when two dinky hits, a wild pitch and an error gave the visitors a 2-run start.

The Nats soon got their "big berthas" in action, however, and the result was never in doubt after the second round. At the finish, the score-board read: Washington, 13; Chicago, 2, the victory giving the natives a two-game advantage over the Indians, who are due to open a three-game invasion here today.

White Sox Jump Into Lead In First.

As is their 1930 custom, the Nats were away badly. Cissell opened with a single, took second on a wild pitch, and later scored on Reynolds' batchandle double to right. Cronin's error on Watwood's grasser, a bad peg past Judge, let the other run register. Then the Nats settled down and it was simply a case of finishing out the string with them, for they jumped into a lead with a 5-run rally in their second and continually added to their total as the game progressed.

While the three Chicago pitchers, Alphonse Thomas, Southpaw Bob Weiland and Ted Blankenship were proving soft pickings, Burke got better and better. He granted Autry a double in the second, Moore one in the third and Shires a single in the fourth. Two bases on balls, the beneficiary of one being a double-play victim, represented the entire base life enjoyed by the enemy from the fourth on.

Meanwhile, the Nats were enjoying themselves to the utmost, 15 hits bounding from their bludgeons, five of which were doubles. Thomas did not finish the first frame, being yanked after West had opened with a single, Rice had walked and Goslin had hit into a force-play at second which sent West to third. Weiland, relief hurler, later filled the bases by passing Cronin, but pulled out of this hole.

Although they did not start their

INDIANS HERE TODAY FOR SERIES

SECOND place in the league standing will be at stake for both teams, with first a possibility—depending upon how the Mackmen fare against the White Sox—when the Nationals and Cleveland Indians open a three-game series in Griffith Stadium this afternoon. By winning yesterday while the Tribe lost to the Mackmen, the Nationals start the set with a two-game advantage over Peckinpaugh's men.

Lloyd Brown, the young southpaw who has won four games this season, will do the tossing for the Johnsons, while the Cleveland hurler probably will be Walter Miller, also a portsider, who always has been an enigma to the native stick-wielders.

Second Baseman Buddy Myer, out yesterday because of a mild attack of sinus trouble, is expected to be back in the line-up this afternoon, so that the Nats will have their strongest team available.

Sox No Set Up for Macks In 1929.

While a glance at the comparative standings would indicate that neither the Nats nor Indians can look for any help in the way of Philadelphia defeats at the hands of the White Sox, it is an odd fact that the Bushmen are entering this set in the Quaker City with more confidence than they have had on the eve of any of their other Eastern stops. Last year with what was generally admitted as one of the worst teams Chicago has ever had, the White Sox broke even in the first eighteen games played against the Men of Mack, two of these beatings being among the few charged to Lefty Grove. With an improved team this year, the Sox are confident of making a good showing in their three-game set with the A's.

Bush shuffled his Chisox line-up yesterday, Shortstop Ernie Smith being promoted to second place, with The Great Shires dropping from fourth to seventh, hitting just ahead of the battery. What a blow for "Whataman!" Shires was excused after the fifth, Klinger hitting for him in the sixth and covering first.

Goose Goslin slightly misjudged Kamm's liner in the first yesterday, but got a line on it in time to make a nice catch, grabbing the ball almost on the ground.

Catcher Roy Spencer will be out of action for a couple of days as a result of the bad shaking-up he received while blocking Reynolds at the plate in the eighth frame Sunday. He has

Sukeforth's Triple In 9th Beats Phillies

Cincinnati, May 12 (A.P.).—After tying the score in the eighth on a double by Klein and a single by Whitney, Philadelphia lost to the Reds today in the same half of the inning on Sukeforth's triple and Allen's sacrifice, by the score of 6 to 7. Evar Swanson, the Reds' young fleet-footed outfielder, who has been suffering from a sore arm, played his first full game of the year and showed he still was a threat on the bases by stealing second. Meusel and Allen hit home runs over the left field fence. The Reds have won nine of their last twelve games and are above the .500 mark for the first time this season.

Nine Homers Hit by Cubs And Giants

Chicago Ties Record Set in 1894 With 4 in 1 Inning.

Heathcote, Beck Get 2 Each; New York Wins, 14-12.

CHICAGO, May 11 (A.P.).—Baseball record of years' standing trembled today as the New York Giants slugged out a 14-to-12 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs equaled the record made by Pittsburgh in 1894, when they clubbed out four home runs in the seventh inning. Heathcote, Beck, Wilson and Grimm hit for circuit drives during the wild inning, the first two getting their second homers of the game.

Nine Homers in Game Just Short of Record.

The nine home runs collected by the two teams fell one short of the record set by the Cardinals and Phillies in 1923. The Cubs also lacked one home run of equaling the record made by one team in a game when they clubbed out their six circuit drives. Leach, Ott and Benton contributed the Giants' four-base hits.

After collecting six runs in the second and seven more in the third, the Giants had what appeared to be a safe lead. The Cubs came back strong, however, scoring in each of the last five innings and driving Larry Benton from the box with the home run attack in the seventh.

Tigers Held to 3 Hits By Pipgras, of Yanks

New York, May 11 (A.P.).—Timely hitting back of three-hit pitching by George Pipgras gave the New York Yankees a 7-to-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers today. The triumph was the Yankees' third in the current four-game series.

While Pipgras was blanking the Tigers, the Yanks, led by Gehrig, got to Whitehill and Page for eleven safeties. Lou hit his fifth home run of the season in the sixth, while Babe Ruth reached first base for his fifteenth consecutive time only to be stopped by Page on his sixteenth trip to the plate.

The victory and the cracking of the Red Sox five-game winning streak by the Browns shoved the Yankees into fourth position.

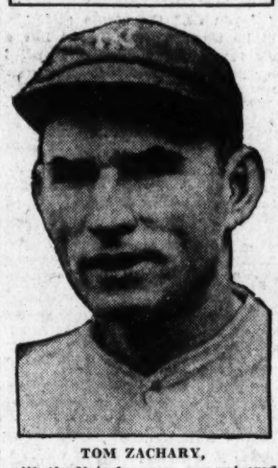
GOES TO BRAVES



TOM ZACHARY,
with the Nats for years, was waivered out of the American League yesterday going to the Braves from the Yankees.

BRAVES GAIN ZACHARY ON WAIVERS

Veteran Released by Yankees; Hoyt Deal Is Rumored.

NEW YORK, May 12 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—That shake-up of the New York Yankee batting order which Manager Bob Shawkey put over on Saturday wasn't the only shaking which the famous baseball machine is to get.

The big Bronx Stadium rocked to its foundations today when the news leaked that Tom Zachary, veteran left-hander and a winning pitcher, had been released on waivers to the Boston Braves, going clear out of the American League. This was after Col. Jacob Ruppert had made an unexpected visit to the ball park. He rarely comes on Monday.

Hoyt to Be Traded Today, Is Rumored.

Then rumor followed fast on rumor. One story is that Waite Hoyt, famous right-hander and for ten years one of the club's mainstays in the box, is involved in a deal to be announced tomorrow. This may be with the Detroit Tigers for an outfielder, said to be Jonathan Stone, or with the St. Louis Browns for George Blaeholder, the hold-out pitcher, for whom several American League clubs have been bidding.

The guessers possibly put Hoyt on the market because he has been passed twice when his turn to pitch came. He last appeared on May 3 when he beat the Chicago White Sox for his best showing of the year. He began in disappointing fashion, losing games in Philadelphia and Washington and being hit hard by the Boston Red Sox in a game here.

Boston is the fifth Major League club to obtain the services of Zachary, who served the Nationals from 1919 to 1925 and then again during portions of the 1927 and 1928 seasons.

Zachary started his major league career with the Athletics, winning his only two starts in 1918. He played that season under the alias, Zach Walton. He came to Washington in 1919 and was traded to the Browns in 1925 along with Win Ballou for Johnny Tobin and Joe Bush. The Nats regained his services July 7, 1927, by the waiver route. The Yanks obtained him on waivers August 23, 1928.

There was no indication by the Yankee management that Zachary is through as a major league pitcher. He won 12 games last season and lost none, but his victims mostly were "picked."

Zachary, who is a graduate of Guilford College, has participated in three world series, two for Washington and one for New York. He has a record with three wins and one loss.

12 American Women Win In Britain

Collett, Hicks, Orcutt, Van Wie Survive in Title Tests.

Miss Gouray Is Given Hard Battle; 9 U. S. Women Bow.

By FRANK H. KING.

FORMBY, England, May 12 (A.P.).—An even dozen American women golfers, including the so-called "big four," Glenna Collett, Helen Hicks, Maureen Orcutt and Virginia Van Wie, today survived the tremulous first day of the British women's championship.

The day's events halved the record field of 179 starters and tomorrow the list will be cut to 32.

In almost ideal weather conditions for this windy Lancashire coast, the pairs trailed over the big sand dunes and through the forest of firs skirting the Irish Sea.

The flags on the pins stood stiffly out in an inshore wind which grew in strength to 25 miles an hour until it calmed later in the day.

The twelve Americans winning today included Misses Collett, Hicks, Orcutt, Van Wie, Mrs. O. S. Hill, Miss Louise Fordyce, Miss Fritzi Stifel, Miss Peggy Wattles, Miss Edith Quier, Mrs. E. F. Lenihan, Mrs. Leo Federman, Mrs. Stewart Hanley.

Nine Americans Defeated.

Nine were defeated—Miss Bernice Wall, Miss Josephine Bender, Miss Marion Bennett, Mrs. H. A. Martelle, Mrs. E. A. Ross, Mrs. I. J. Morris, Miss Rosalie Knapp, Mrs. Lee Mida and Miss Virginia Holzderber.

Miss Collett, the champion of the United States, played the best golf contributed by the Americans, although her opposition from Miss Kitty Beard, who last week won the Dorsetshire championship, was negligible.

Miss Collett won without losing a hole and throughout had her ball under control both from woods and irons, while on the green she displayed a deft putting touch.

One of England's chief hopes, Miss Enid Wilson, won by the same margin established by Miss Collett, eight and six to play, and her score of 86 for the first nine holes was the best of the day. The American title holder's score for the outward journey was 37, the total required by Miss Molly Gourlay, English native champion, for the same distance. If Misses Collett and Gourlay escape tomorrow's pitfalls they will meet Wednesday morning.

Miss Gourlay in Hard Battle.

Miss Gourlay's match was one of three stern battles during the day, the others being the victory of Miss Helen Hicks over Miss Doris Chambers and the defeat of Mrs. Lee Mida by Miss Barbara Millar.

Miss Gourlay met unexpected strength from Miss Anne Mellor, of Denton, known as the "Four Club Queen" of her golf club because she carries only five clubs in her bag and rarely uses one of them. Her golfing armor consists of a driver, spoon, mashie, niblick and putter.

She seldom uses the mashie, but today she wielded the others so efficiently she stuck close to the English champion until the turn and then dropped three holes in a row.

Miss Hicks and Mrs. Mida showed fine fighting spirit, Miss Hicks to win from one of Britain's leading players, Miss Doris Chambers, three and one, after being three down, and Mrs. Mida to launch an equally brave but vain comeback to square her match at the eighteenth, after being four down at the twelfth, only to lose at the extra hole to Miss Millar.

Miss Hicks showed power to conquer the Formby fairways, but lacked control of her heavy artillery. Until after the turn Miss Chambers never gave her a chance and the American was two down at the ninth.

Mrs. Hill Takes Match.

Mrs. Hill added another sturdily-fought match to the American column. With her hands well protected

MACKS ROUT CLEVELAND ROOKIE

PHILADELPHIA, May 12 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics and Cleveland Indians put on an interesting contest today, the champions finally winning by 13 to 7 and taking the series with Cleveland by three games to one.

The Mackmen gave Clint Brown, sensational rookie pitcher, his first beating of the season when they clubbed him for five runs in the second inning and knocked him out of the box. In the next inning they pounded Milt Shoffner for three runs by combining three hits and a couple of passes, while Umpire Owens was calling three balks on the youngster.

George Earnshaw, who started for the Athletics, was knocked out of the box with a five-run attack of the Indians in the sixth. In this inning Umpire Owens called two balks on Earnshaw.

FIELD OF 17 IS EXPECTED TO START IN DERBY

Eastern Aces Are Now on Ground

Arrival of Goneaway Is Surprise to Kentucky Racemen.

Tannery Now Draws Heavy Support of Native Backers.

By J. B. SNODGRASS
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 12.—Four Eastern Derby horses arrived at Churchill Downs today for the $50,000 added Kentucky classic to be run Saturday, May 17. There were other horses in the shipment. The Derby candidates were the Belair Stud's Gallant Fox, winner of the Preakness; T. M. Cassidy's Crack Brigade, second in the Preakness; William Ziegler's Gone Away, and G. W. Foreman's Ned O.

Earl Sande, who will ride Gallant Fox in the Derby, arrived from New York and will breeze the Belair horse in his final preparation. There is no doubt Gallant Fox will rule the choice in the Derby from this time to the race.

The Derby field will be larger than has been expected. From all acceptance obtainable the following horses will start in the fifty-sixth running of the race: Gallant Fox, Tannery, Crack Brigade, Sydney, Gallant Knight, High Foot, Buckeye Poet, Breezing Thru, Uncle Luther, Ned O., Longus, Dark Entry, Broadway Limited, Playtime, Prince Atheling, Busy, Gone Away.

Tannery Popular In West.

The horse the West will rely upon in preference to any other from this section is E. F. Pritchard's Tannery. This horse, by Ballot, added to his popularity by working a mile and a quarter, the Derby distance, this morning, in 2:10. It was impressive throughout, the fractional time being 0:25; 0:49 3-5; 1:15; 1:41 1-5; 2:10. Tannery beat the two Bradley candidates, Breezing Through and Buckeye Poet, decisively in a race at Lexington. The Bradley pair arrived by van from the Idlehour farm this morning.

Gallant Fox came out of the car with Wrattler, his trial horse. James Fitzsimmons, trainer of Gallant Fox, will arrive later this week to saddle the horse in the Derby. Crack Brigade, riding on the same train, made the trip in good condition. Joe Bauer is in charge.

The arrival of William Ziegler jr.'s Gone Away was a surprise here, as it was believed by his absence from the Preakness that he might not come here. The other Ziegler horse, Spinach, will not be a starter, having gone wrong in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica, a race also won by Gallant Fox. Gone Away was a fast 2-year-old and the stable has confidence in the colt. It is unsafe to ignore him.

Ned O. to Be Given Trial Today.

The Maryland gelding, Ned O, will start in the Derby test tomorrow at a mile. Mr. Foreman could not start him in the Preakness because the Maryland candidate is a gelding. He found stabling room in a new barn operated by Boots Darnell just outside of the track, and Kentuckians are reserving decision on his chances until this race. Foreman said today that he had a real chance to win the Derby. That might be taken as almost admission that Ned O's races in Maryland were principally for conditioning.

The track is in excellent condition and the weather has cleared. More out-of-town visitors are arriving all the time and the yearly Derby has already definitely started.

Many improvements have been made at Churchill Downs since last year. More seats have been added in the clubhouse division, a tier encroaching on the blue grass out in front. This has been going on year by year until the long uneven grandstand and clubhouse now reach almost half around the track, and long rows of bleachers have been erected on the back stretch, principally for stablemen and helpers, and pari mutuel accommodations have been arranged there. These will help the congestion on Derby day.

SKINKER NINE DRILLS.

The Skinker Bros. Eagles will drill today at 5 o'clock on the Friendship Field in preparation for Sunday's opening game in the District section of the Capital City League.

MOHAWK PLAYERS SIGN.

Manager Amidon, of the Mohawk A. C. Unlimited Nine, requests that all players communicate with him today to sign Capital City League contracts.

UPRIGHT worked way up fast on outside after reaching main stretch and, racing MARK ANTHONY into defeat, was drawing clear at end. MARK ANTHONY saved ground on both turns while setting the pace, held on determinedly when challenged, but was not good enough. THE WIDOWER slipped through on inside all through stretch and finished stoutly. PORTICODINE closed an immense gap after losing much ground to the main stretch.

SECOND RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start fair. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:34. Off at 2:35. Winner, W. F. Strauss' ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SPORTING LADY, $73.00, $21.48, $13.90; ZOOM, $5.14, $3.94; SUPREME SWEET, $4.22.

SPORTING LADY, away well and restrained, moved up stoutly entering stretch and, getting on even terms with leader a sixteenth out, gradually got to the front. ZOOM, a keen factor entire trip in the racing all through the stretch, closed gamely and was going strongly at the wind-up. SUPREME SWEET was forced wide all through the stretch and, closing gamely, was probably best. NICK CULLOP, outrun first half mile, closed well through stretch, but could not improve position. PERCENTAGE, as usual, had early foot, but weakened in the drive as if short.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:04. Off at 3:10. Winner, H. P. Whitney's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GO TO IT, $6.46, $4.30, $3.94; ROYAL YOEMAN, $7.46, $7.30; FARM HAND, $18.50.

GO TO IT raced well and opening up a commanding lead first quarter and saving ground wherever possible, won as rider pleased. ROYAL YOEMAN, in close quarters to first turn, closed fast on inside when clear and finished strongest of all. FARM HAND was in the air when the break came, raced in close quarters first half mile, then closed well through stretch when finding racing room. MONOPLANE, used up forcing most of the early pace. UPSEDAISY was forced wide while improving position, then weakened.

FOURTH RACE—Four and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,300; allowances. For 2-year olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:38. Off at 3:39½. Winner, C. Van Dusen's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BETTY DERR, $6.92, $3.80, $2.82; PURPLE LADY, $9.00, $5.08; MARY COBB, $3.62.

BETTY DERR was hustled to front right after the start, bore out slightly while under pressure through stretch, but came again when straightened out and held PURPLE LADY safe. Latter raced close to winner on outside throughout, suffered slightly when latter bore out, but faltered right at end. MARY COBB, away slowly, closed an immense gap last three-sixteenths and finished fastest of all. MEXICAN D. tired in the drive, as did BELLE OF BOURBON.

FIFTH RACE—Six furongs. Purse, $2,000. The Kentucky Hotel Handicap. For 3-year-old and upward. Start good. Wo neasily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:06. Off at 4:07. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CAYUGA, $9.94, $6.12, $4.20; CAMP BOSS, $11.70, $5.44; MORSEL, $4.60.

CAYUGA, showing a splendid burst of speed from the start, opened up a winning lead on back stretch and, continuing gamely, was never in danger. CAMP BOSS, well up from start, but racing in close quarters to final eighth, closed resolutely when clear, but could not threaten winner. MORSEL, a hustling and holding on stubborn filly in the final drive, just lasted to outstay SILVERDALE. Latter, outpaced to the final quarter mile, moved up strongly and just failed to get up for third place. AGINCOURT was devoid of usua learly foot. HIGH SCORE bore out badly when tiring on the stretch turn.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,600; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:33. Off at 4:33½. Winner, W. H. Whitehouse's ch. h. Two-dolar mutuels paid—ROYAL JULIAN, $4.74, $3.08, $2.44; DISTURB, $4.66, $2.88; HERRICK, $2.44.

ROYAL JULIAN, much the best, broke well, was taken back and, reserved to the stretch and racing DISTURB into defeat when ready, drew out decisively. DISTURB worked way to the front on outside, held on well when challenged midway of the stretch, but was not good enough. HERRICK held on well under pressure and came again through stretch when seemingly done for. WHISKARM had no mishaps. The others were never contenders.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:03. Off at 5:05. Winner, R. C. Thatcher's b. g. (4), by The Porter—By Play. Trained by W. Sime. Value to winner, $900; second, $227; third, $118. Time, 0:25, 0:50 2-5, 1:15 4-5, 1:42 4-5, 1:55 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PORT O' PLAY, $14.10, $5.66, $3.86; DOLAN, $3.18, $2.54; SOUTHLAND BOY, $2.80.

PORT O' PLAY, stopped through on inside rounding into first turn, raced into lead on the far turn and, saving ground thereafter, just lasted to outstay SOUTHLAND BOY. DOLAN, outrun first half mile, made his usual rush rounding the stretch turn and but for losing ground all through stretch, might have won. SOUTHLAND BOY was forced back on inside first half mile, came out while rounding the stretch turn, loomed up dangerously a sixteenth out, then faltered final strides. FLORHI was allowed to race far back for three-quarters, made a determined bid when straightened in stretch and closed an immense gap last furlong. CONGO II had no mishaps. LITTLE CHIP quit.

COL. BRADLEY HAS TAME HORSES

Reflect Kind of Treatment They Get, Says Turf Sportsman.

the paddock, alone, without any food or water for three days."

"If you do," the groom said, "he will be through those fences like a rock through a window and ravish your mares and kick your other stallions to death."

"Nevertheless," Mr. Shannon said, "if you will just aim him at that paddock gate we will push him in and come back about three days from now to see how things are."

"And," Mr. Shannon related today, "when I came to the gate three days later with a bucket of water, Cunard came up as polite as any horse you ever saw, took his drink and held out his head for the halter.

"John B. Madden tried another way with a horse called Sandringham, which was very ill-tempered and not to be reasoned with. Mr. Madden stuck a pistol through the screen door of the stall and fired five blank cartridges right in his face. After that, whenever a stable boy wished to enter the stall, it was only necessary to aim a finger at Sandringham. He would jump over into a corner and actually put his hoofs over his ears."

Treated Considerately, Horses Are Tame.

"Yes, but," said Col. Bradley, "if a horse is treated considerately as a foal and never abused, there is never any necessity to tame him. Our horses live in stalls 16 feet square with gratings giving onto the other stalls so that they may look through and see their neighbors.' I wouldn't go so far as to say they actually gossip, and if you were to put the stallions together for a social afternoon, you would have to get a new lot of stallions, but it comforts them to know that they are not alone.

"When I visited Dick Croker in Ireland he showed me a bad horse named Clonburn. Clonburn was so vicious that nobody could go near him and they were giving him his food on the end of a long fork. I said, 'You have driven that horse crazy, and the only thing you can do with him is chloroform him.' And Mr. Croker did chloroform him because the horse actually was insane. He had been kept in a box 14 feet square with no windows giving into the adjoining stalls and his paddock was a little square surrounded by a wall 15 feet high. It was solitary confinement. It drives men crazy in time.

"At the same time he had Orby, his horse that had won the English Derby, in the same sort of box and paddock and Orby was going crazy too. I told Croker he ought to turn the horse out and he did and Orby's temper improved."

Country Club for Bubbling Over.

Mr. Shannon took me to the stallion barns. Bubbling Over, the winner of the Kentucky Derby in 1926, was led out, a genial horse from an airy, sunny stall with a glass skylight, and accustomed to daily romp in a paddock of almost 5 acres.

"They are all about like that," said he. "They have nothing to be sore about. A horse gets restless in a stall. You lie in a sick room a few days and you are pretty glad when you get up and let them air out the place."

The English don't seem to understand. They rub their horses with harsh brushes until their skin is tender, they lock them away like prisoners and put muzzles on them so they can't express their resentment.

The thought of those resentful men in Auburn and Ohio State, rubbed with harsh brushes and muzzled so they recurred throughout this conversation, but that had nothing to do with horses.

"Treat a horse as kindly as you would a human being," Mr. Shannon said, "and you will have no trouble."

SAINTS BEAT CATHOLIC, 9 TO 3

Mt. St. Mary's Sews Up Game With Rally in the Ninth.

FOR eight innings yesterday, Catholic University's Nine threatened to snap out of its losing streak, but a four-run rally in the ninth by Mount St. Mary's dissipated the Cardinal hopes, resulting in the home team's fifth successive loss. The score was 9 to 3, the visitors virtually duplicating their victory of last Tuesday at Emmitsburg.

Al Fanjul, Catholic's side-winder, managed to hold the Saints pretty well in check during the first eight innings despite the fact that he was found for eight hits and issued five walks while his mates made four errors.

The Cardinals, although weak at the bat, shoved over three runs to tie the count in th efourth, Masi's sacrifice bunt and some fine base running by Peifer and Kelly accounting for two of their three runs. Blasi previously had scored from third when Catcher J. Ryscavage, of the Saints, threw into left field trying to trap him off third base.

Masi's Blow Scores Two Mates.

Peifer and Kelly moved to third and second, respectively, on this error both tallied when Masi dumped the ball along the third base line.

Fanjul cracked wide open in the ninth, the Saints punching out three doubles and two singles for four earned runs.

Connell and Mulhern led the Emmitsburg crew at bat with three safeties each, the first named making two doubles and a single to drive in four runs and Mulhern hitting a double and two singles to score two markers.

Whitey Peifer, center fielder, and Carl DeMello, second baseman, each made two hits for the Cardinals.

Miss Maddox, Mrs. Lake Lead Dixie Medalists

Sedgefield Country Club, Greensboro, N. C., May 12 (A.P.).—A champion and former champion staged a double-barreled assault on par here today to lead a field of 60 sharpshooters in the qualifying round of the Southern women's golf tournament.

Miss Margaret Maddox, of Atlanta, the defending title holder, and Mrs. Marion Turpie Lake, of New Orleans and New York, who won the championship in 1928, each turned in a sparkling 79 over the sporty Valley Brook course to tie for the medal and make a play-off necessary later in the week.

Both Miss Maddox and Mrs. Lake, who looms as the most serious pretender to the throne, slashed five strokes off women's par. They were the first to finish their rounds today and the mark they hung up for the rest of the field to shoot at successfully withstood the assaults of such stellar performers as Mrs. Dave Gaut, of Memphis, another former title holder; Mrs. Leon Solomon, also of Memphis, the big surprise of the tournament, and Mrs. Clara Woolridge, of Little Rock, who came to Sedgefield fresh from winning the Arkansas State championship.

TWO tennis matches comprise today's program in local college varsity sports, but tomorrow a heavier and varied schedule is due. In today's net matches, George Washington will engage Richmond at Edgemoor Club, starting at 2 p. m., and Maryland will entertain Baltimore U. at College Park, commencing at 3.

Tomorrow there will be three baseball games, a track meet and a tennis match. Georgetown, playing its final home game of the season, will cross bats with Guilford at Washington Barracks; Catholic will take on the Marines on the Brookland diamond, and Maryland will tackle V. M. I. in a return contest at College Park.

The track meet will find Maryland and Johns Hopkins, a pair of traditional rivals, clashing at College Park, while in the tennis battle Catholic will oppose Richmond at Brookland.

Chase Hurls Business To Win Over Woodward

With Spencer Chase, regular first baseman, pitching airtight ball, Business High's Baseball Team had little trouble in downing the Woodward Prep Nine, 11 to 1, in a six-inning game yesterday on the Monument Lot. Chase gave up but four hits, all singles, and was never in trouble.

Business continued the hitting which has carried it to the top of the High School League, thirteen safe blows raining off the bats of the winning team. Schneider led the offense with a triple and two singles, while Singman, Jacobson and Frayden collected two hits apiece.

V. P. I. Plays Virginia Tomorrow for Title

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., May 12.—Again out in front in the Tri-State League title hunt, Virginia Polytechnic Institute Baseball Team can cop the league championship by a win over Virginia in the final game of the season here Tuesday. A triumph for Virginia will make it possible for V. M. I. to end the campaign with a better percentage, although twice defeated by the Tech Team.

Graduate Manager C. P. Mile expects the turnstiles to click tomorrow, for local fandom is eager for a Tri-State title and a final peep at the hard-hitting Gobblers. The Cadet Band will be on hand with a variety of marches and college airs. The smashing win over V. M. I. at Lexington Saturday sent the Keydets into second place after a few hours at the top. Reggie Mapp will face the Cavaliers tomorrow, with eight straight wins to his credit.

CANCEL WITH ST. ELIZABETHS

Both the Northern and Columbia Heights Baseball Teams are forced to cancel their games with the St. Elizabets Nine for today and Thursday, respectively. Most of the Northern players are performing out of town today, while a mix-up in the Heights' schedule has prevented Thursday's game.

MRS. EMGE'S CARD TOPS WOMEN

Beaver Dam Golfer's 78 Net Leads Field for Star Cup.

WHEN the second round in the Star Cup tournament starts this morning on the course of the Indian Spring Club, Mrs. Ora Emge, Beaver Dam, will have a lead of three strokes over the field in a 36-hole, medal play, handicap competition. Her card yesterday totaled 93, but with a 15 handicap she had a net 78.

Mrs. Emge's nearest competitor was Mrs. H. B. Shipley, also a Beaver Dam member, whose card was 99—18—81. One stroke further back were Miss Susan Hacker (Chevy Chase), 88—6—82, and Mrs. Hume Wrong (Chevy Chase), 90—8—82. Others with low net scores were Mrs. Alma von Steinner, 90—7—83, and Miss Winifred Faunce (Manor), 87—3—84.

Mrs. J. Marvin Hayes, Columbia, had the low gross score of the first round yesterday with 40—45—85. Only five others of the sixty or more contestants were under 90, as follows: Mrs. Perry B. Hoover, 38—49—87; Miss Faunce, 43—44—87; Mrs. John Neale Hodges (Army, Navy and Marine Corps), 41—46—87; Miss Hacker, 46—42—88, and Mrs. Betty Mackley (Beaver Dam), 45—43—88. In this group Mrs. Hoover had a fine opportunity to break 80, for she played the first nine in 38 strokes, but she had three 7's and one 6 on her homeward journey. Even then she was only two strokes behind Mrs. Haynes. The scores in the order of their net rating were as follows:

Mrs. Ora Emge (Beaver Dam), 93—15—78; Mrs. H. B. Shipley (Beaver Dam), 99—18—81; Miss Susan Hacker (Chevy Chase), 88—6—82; Mrs. Hume Wrong (Chevy Chase), 90—8—82; Mrs. Alma von Steirner (Beaver Dam), 90—7—83; Mrs. Perry B. Harry Wilson to Aid Grid Coach at Army

West Point, N. Y., May 12 (A.P.).—Second Lieut. Harry E. Wilson will report next fall to assist Maj. Ralph I. Sasse, head coach of the Army football team.

Wilson, who was a star half back at Penn State before he entered West Point and continued his brilliant football career, was graduated in 1928. He was assigned to the Army flying school in Texas and won his wings as a pilot. He has been a member of the crack pursuit group stationed at Selfridge Field.

Wilson, who won his letter four times in football at West Point, captained the 1927 team.

Britons Overwhelm Poles' Davis Cup Team

Torquay, England, May 12 (A.P.).—Overwhelming their opponents in the doubles today, Britain's Davis Cup tennis players made it three straight victories over Poland and clinched the series.

J. C. Gregory and I. G. Collins, Britain's formidable doubles pair, completely outclassed I. Tloczynski and P. Warminski, winning at 6—0, 6—0, 6—0.

Previously, the Britons had taken the opening singles matches, H. G. N Lee defeating M. Tloczynski on Saturday and Nigel Sharpe beating Max Stolarow, of Poland, 6—3, 6—4, 6—1, today.

The remaining two singles can not affect the result and Britain thus advanced to the third round of European zone competition, where its next opponent will be Australia or Ireland.

Central Hopes to Check Eastern High Nine Today

Can Get Back in Running for Title by Breaking Eastern's Winning Streak; Return of Brandt, Cumberland Bolsters Central.

AN attempt to stop the determined rush of the Eastern High School Baseball Team toward its third successive interhigh title, as well as to get back into the running for the 1930 championship itself, will be made by the Central High Nine when the two clash at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon in the Columbia Heights Stadium.

It will be the second series game for each, Eastern having beaten Tech, 23 to 4, and Central having lost to Business in a slugfest, 20 to 15.

It will be a revamped Central Team that opens fire against the Lincoln Parkers this afternoon, two 1929 veterans being due to make their first start of the season today, and a newcomer slated to hold down another berth.

Brandt, Cumberland Back in Game.

Capt. George Brandt, his eligibility regained after six weeks' idleness, and Frank Cumberland, boasting almost complete recovery from a dislocated shoulder, are both ready to go, while Leonard Megby, a cocky rookie, has been chosen for the first-base post left vacant by the "flunking" of Henry Broadbent.

With Brandt again available, Coach Rauber last night was undecided as to where he would play his field leader today. The Blue and White mentor was harboring serious intentions of starting his captain on the pitching mound, all of his other hurlers having been treated most roughly in the Business melee. If he does not start in the box, Brandt will hold down his old position on third, a post which will be taken care of by Harrison should Brandt climb the hill.

Jack Cooke or Lynch will get the pitching nod should Brandt start at third.

Kessler, Hurt, Will Shift To Second.

With the exception of Shortstop Danny Kessler, who is suffering from a badly bruised right hand, all of the Lincoln Parkers are rarin' to go in pursuit of another title and are looking forward to having the 1930 crown half-won by nightfall.

With an extremely sore fin, as the result of being hit by a pitched ball in the Tech game, Kessler will shift over to second allowing McAboy to take up the shortfielding duties.

Dick Lanahan, Eastern's big bet, is again ready to throw 'em past the batters, and if in form, should again be hard to beat. The husky southpaw has a good fast ball and a fast-breaking hook and appears to be the outstanding hurler of the series.

St. John's Netmen Win From St. Albans, 5-0

Generals' Net Team Trounces V. P. I., 9 to 0

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., May 12.—Sweeping through nine straight matches, Washington and Lee today downed Virginia Polytechnic here in tennis, 9-0. Today's match concluded the 1930 season for the Generals and ended intercollege competition for Capt. Gooch and Bob Clapp, Washington and Lee netmen.

Manager Bready, Shields, Cox and Pilley will return to Washington and Lee for tennis competition next year. In addition, Coach Clayton Epes Williams has a score of freshmen racquet swingers who bid fair to give the old men strong competition. Today's victory was one of the most sweeping ever gained on the Washington and Lee courts. In only three matches were deuce sets recorded.

SINGLES—Pilley (W. and L.) defeated Chapman, 6—1, 6—3; Shields (W. and L.) defeated Bobbitt, 6—2, 6—2; Gooch (W. and L.) defeated P. C. Bobbitt, 6—0, 8—6; Clapp (W. and L.) defeated Kelley, 6—1, 6—3; Cox (W. and L.) defeated Cervarich, 6—3, 6—2; Bready (W. and L.) defeated Wood, 6—2, 6—4.

DOUBLES—Gooch and Bready (W. and L.) defeated Bobbitt and Bobbitt, 6—4, 6—3; Shields and Pilley (W. and L.), defeated Wood and Chapman, 6—3, 7—5; Clapp and Cox (W. and L.) defeated Cervarich and Kelley, 6—3, 7—5.

CUMBERLAND WINS.

Cumberland, Md., May 12.—Cumberland came out of its batting slump to maul Jeannette in the getaway game of the series, 10 to 3. It was the first victory scored by the local Middle Atlantic League entry and was well earned. The Colts banged out thirteen hits behind the excellent pitching of the veteran "Chip" Helmick, former Fairmont star, who allowed but seven, two being home runs by Leis and McAllister.

STOCKS VARY LITTLE IN LISTLESS SESSION

Closing Assault of Bears Causes Several Issues to Decline.

RAILWAY INCOME DROPS

New York, May 12 (A.P.).—Professional stock traders, left entirely to their own devices, staged an indifferent sparring exhibition in today's market. It was a listless affair throughout, with the advantage shifting frequently but hardly decisively, although the bears, by virtue of a last-minute drive on U. S. Steel, slipped away with the decision as numerous prominent issues closed 1 to 4 points lower.

The market was one of the dullest in months, sales totaling only 3,026,000 shares against last Monday's volume of more than 8,000,000. Trading in the last half hour slightly exceeded 500,000, an unusually small turnover for that interval.

Public interest was at a low ebb. Commission houses have advised their clients to maintain a position of neutrality until the market has definitely shown that the readjustment from the recent shakeout has been completed, and there was little or nothing to indicate that this recommendation was not being followed. Brokerage houses generally admit that a period of dullness is apparently at hand, in the course of which sustained movements in either direction will probably be of short duration.

U. S. Steel Declines.

The selling of steel, which had been strong on Saturday, when the decrease in the backlog of orders was published, was pushed with particular vigor in the last quarter hour and the stock finished 1⅜ below the previous close. Other market leaders included in the attack were radio, Westinghouse Electric and General Electric, off moderately in reflection of an expected Government suit to test the legality of the new relationship among the three.

The news in the business world was mixed. A slight firming in copper prices carried the metal group higher, and there was increasing inclination to believe that the recent cuts by produces had been a little too severe. Purchases of copper were large at the new prices of 13.05 cents for export and 12¾ cents for domestic. Some sales of the latter were reported at 13 cents, or ½ cent above the low of last week.

In connection with the stronger tone to copper came the news that a leading brass producer was advancing prices on rolled and drawn products.

The March operating income of 172 class 1 railroads showed a decline of about $36,000,000 from the total for the same month last year. Figures on April operations will be appearing soon and will be watched with interest, although there is little doubt but that the downward trend will be maintained. An official estimate of Chicago & Northwestern's results for last month places the total between $800,000 and $900,000 below May, 1929, with car loadings off about 7 per cent.

Auburn Earnings Drop.

Several miscellaneous earnings statements appeared, among them that of Auburn Auto, which showed 55 cents a share for the first quarter, against $3.04 in the same 1929 period. The stock reached 10 points on the news, but finished only 3¼ lower. International Nickel earned at the rate of 30 cents a share in the quarter, compared with 36 cents a year ago, but the report had little effect on the share quotations.

Manhattan Electrical Supply dropped to within a fraction of its low, but recovered for a 4-point net advance on publication of a favorable financial statement. Celotex, against which a receivership petition has been filed, met with considerable selling, especially in the late dealings, and dropped 8 points, but nearly halved this loss.

Grain prices strengthened. Wheat closed five-eighths to 1½ cents higher and corn moved up five-eighths to 1⅜ cents. Cotton was steady. May sugar touched another new low and closed easy.

Foreign exchanges were dull and featureless.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, May 12 (A.P.).—Buoyancy developed in wheat values today as the result of a huge decrease of the domestic visible supply and because of possible frost damage West. A falling off of 6,548,000 bushels in the United States total stock of wheat in sight was announced, showing much faster rate of disappearance of supplies than was the case either a week or a year ago. Recent heavy absorption of wheat by Farm Board allies was ascribed as a contributing reason for tightening up of values to the highest point in some time.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm as nearly the day's top level, ⅝ to 1¾c above Saturday's finish. Corn closed ⅜ to 1⅝c up, oats ¼ to ⅝c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5c.

Much of the buying of wheat, especially toward the last, came from Eastern sources and appeared to mark an abandonment of bearish activities for at least the present on the part of numerous recent sellers. Aside from rapid curtailment of the United States visible supply total, reports of frost last night in southwestern Nebraska aroused anxiety about likelihood of further injury by additional frost predicted for tonight in northwest Kansas and in western Nebraska as well. Reports were likewise current that crop growth in Kansas is spotted with many fields looking poor and the wheat in some places heading out at a height of only 4 to 5 inches. Deterioration of wheat was noted, too, in eastern Missouri.

Contrasting with the late upward trend of wheat values here was comparative weakness of prices during the earlier part of the day. This weakness was associated with the fact that Liverpool quotations were unresponsive to Saturday's advance on this side of the Atlantic. There were also reports of excellent rains in Australia, and export business from North America over the week-end and today was of inconsequential volume. Besides, the amount of wheat on ocean passage showed some increase, and notwithstanding that world shipments were enlarged. The quantity of wheat exported last week from North America showed a falling off both as compared with the week previous and a year ago.

Corn and oats owed their gains chiefly to wheat strength.

Commission houses were mostly on the buying side of the provision market, notwithstanding downturns in the value of hogs.

BOND SALES DROP; PRICES ARE STEADY

FOREIGN GROUP IS FIRM

New York, May 12 (A.P.).—Bond sales shrunk today to the smallest volume for a full trading session since the dormant January period as traders' support was diverted by new issue. Prices were steady. Sales for the unusually quiet session totaled $8,122,000, par value.

The $50,000,000 5½ issue of Japanese governments was readily taken. In addition the New England Gas Association offered $20,000,000 in convertible 5½ per cent debentures at 91. The new Japanese bonds, which are expected to strengthen Yen Exchange, moved quickly to traders' shelves but only five were sold on the New York Stock Exchange; those at 90½, or ½ above the offering price. The large offering caused other Japanese issues to sag, but the foreign group held generally firm.

Some of the railroad issues, both prime and second grade, were moderately active, but the price range held to narrow limits. Several softened at the close after holding firm through the day. Galveston, Houston & Henderson 5s, Denver, Rio Grande 5s, Canadian National 4½s and Erie 5s were the best performers, advancing from ⅝ to more than a point. Pennsylvania 4½s, St. Paul 5s, St. Louis, San Francisco 4½s and Union Pacific 4s sagged.

The utility group was firm with thin sales. Most active were the Utah Power & Light 5s, Public Service 4½s, North American Edison 5s, Colorado Gas & Electric 5s, and American Telephone 5s. The fluctuations were narrow.

The General Theaters 6s of '44 was the sensational convertible issue, the day's movement netting a gain of 2⅞. American Telephone 4½s showed considerable activity, but eased at the close to lose 1½ points.

The demand for United States Governments continued only fair. Gains of from 1 to 6-32s resulted.

The foreign group was firm. South American bonds were unusually strong, various Brazil, Bolivia and Peru gaining 1 and 2 points.

BOND FLOTATIONS SHOW LARGE GAIN

Stock Financing Slumps 33 Per Cent in Comparison With That of 1929.

CHAIN STORE SALES RISE

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Actual new money put into industry and commerce in the first four months of the year increased 22 per cent over the total for the similar period of 1929, although total corporate financing is off sharply, according to Standard Statistics Co. of New York, which has summarized this financing according to certain selected classes.

Certain well defined changes in the trend of corporate financing which became apparent shortly after the stock market break last fall are even more pronounced as the records for 1930 become available. Total corporate financing is 33 per cent below the figure for the 1929 period, while the total for bonds is up 49 per cent. Offerings of both common and preferred stock are each off 72 per cent.

Wholesale Sales Improving.

Improvement over last month in both sales and collections of wholesale and manufacturing firms is reflected in a survey conducted by the Credit Monthly, publication of the National Association of Cridit Men. A majority of the firms contributing to the survey in 46 cities characterized their sales as "fair," while 28 cities reported sales as "slow." Thirty-nine cities reported collections "fair" and 34 reported them "slow."

Class I railroads on April 30 had 427,925 surplus freight cars in good repair and immediately available for service, the car service division of the American Railway Association announced yesterday. This was a decrease of 11,446 cars compared with April 23, at which time there were 439,371 cars.

Surplus coal cars on April 30 totaled 168,930, a decrease of 14,100 cars within approximately a week while surplus box cars totaled 203,-192, an increase of 2,689 for the same period. Reports also showed 28,077 surplus stock cars, a decrease of 721 under the number reported on April 23, while surplus refrigerator cars totaled 15,790, an increase of 1,047 for the same period.

Chain Store Sales $288,726,944.

Merrill, Lynch & Co. have compiled a table of 47 chain store companies reporting their results for April, showing aggregate sales for the month of $288,726,944, compared with $260,615,-826 for April, 1929, an increase of 10.78 per cent.

Aggregate sales of these companies for the first four months of 1930 totaled $1,066,161,071, against $1,003,-531,433 for the corresponding period of 1929, an increase of 6.24 per cent.

Vice President Laurence A. Slaughter, of Commercial National Bank, has returned to his desk after a week's visit at Atlantic City.

Washington is represented among executives of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, which holds its convention in Chicago this week, by H. H. Levi, vice president and general manager of the Hecht Co. He is vice president for the South of the national association.

Whitney to Head Stock Exchange

Youngest Man Elected for Office Will Succeed E. H. H. Simmons.

New York, May 12 (A.P.).—Richard Whitney, vice president of the New York Stock Exchange for the last two years and a member of the board of governors since 1919, today was elected president of the exchange to succeed E. H. H. Simmons, who is retiring after serving as head of the exchange six years.

Mr. Whitney is the head of the brokerage house of Richard Whitney & Co. He was elected to membership in the exchange January 18, 1912, and is a brother of George Whitney, of J. P. Morgan & Co. He is 41 years old and the youngest man ever to be elected president of the exchange.

Mr. Whitney was in charge of the exchange during the stock crash last autumn while Mr. Simmons was abroad and his election to the presidency was regarded as a recognition of his services at that time.

SEWAGE PLANS TOLD BY COUNTY ENGINEER

Glebewood Citizens Adopt Resolution Favoring Bond Issue.

PARKHURST RITES SET

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Opening a campaign which will carry him before every civic body within the county, County Engineer C. L. Kinnier, speaking at the monthly meeting of the Glebewood Citizens Association, held last night at the home of John Douglas, Pershing drive, declared that nothing is more needed in Arlington County than the installation of a county-wide trunk line sewage system.

Discussing the plans for the proposed bond issue, totaling $2,173,089, which will be used to install a sewage system, Kinnier said:

"A most careful survey has been conducted and provisions made to take care of the entire county. During the first year it is planned to expend $750,000, the second year, a like amount, and the third year the remainder, or $673,089."

He stated the present estimates show that the bond issue and sinking fund will not increase taxes more than 30 cents, if that much.

"The cost of laying the lateral lines," he stated, "will be at the rate of $1.50 a foot, regardless of the frontage."

At the conclusion of the address, the association unanimously indorsed a resolution favoring the bond issue as offered by Robert H. Forman.

The resolution reads:

"Recognizing the urgent need for a county-wide trunk line sewage system, the Glebewood Citizens Association goes on record as approving the plans for the system as explained by County Engineer C. L. Kinnier and pledges its united support to the project at the polls on election day, June 8."

Bodies of Dead Men Discovered in Woods

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., May 12.—Death by freezing in the extremely cold weather just before last Thanksgiving Day is believed to have been the fate of James Cadle, 50, and Martin Boggs, 35, farmers and lumbermen, of Holcomb, whose remains were found in a woods near Fenwick yesterday by a wandering fisherman. Nearby were three jugs of moonshine liquor.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of death from unknown causes. Both men were married and left families at Holcomb.

Martinsburg City Officials Elected

Chris H. Dailey, Republican, Defeats Appleby for Mayorship.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., May 12.—Councilman Chris H. Dailey, Republican, was elected mayor of Martinsburg in the biennial election here today by a vote of 2,938 to 2,341.

Three Republicans and two Democrats were named to city council as follows: Republicans—L. M. Light, Emery Kline (reelected), G. W. Becker. Democrats—J. S. Hutzler, J. W. Thomas (reelected). The total vote was considered a large one. The Republicans held four of the five seats in past city council. The mayor-elect was one of the members. The new officials take office in June and serve two years. Observers declared they saw little effect, judging by superficial evidence, of the clean-election campaign the past week launched on a nonpartisan basis.

Councilman-elect Becker was formerly a member of council. Mayor-elect Dailey defeated the present mayor, George W. Appleby, jr., in the primaries after a hot fight. Mayor Appleby was seeking a third term.

PICTURES OF SUICIDE ON WAY TO CAPITAL

Photos and Finger Prints Are Awaited as Lead in Baker Murder.

SUSPECT HERE GRILLED

Arrival of photographs and handprints of an Atlanta suicide was awaited early today by police, who will check the resemblance between the suicide and the man they believe to be the slayer of Mary Baker.

Pictures of the dead man will be shown to witnesses and the fingerprints will be sent to the National Bureau of Identification. Palm prints were also made by Atlanta detectives and are being forwarded to Washington.

These prints will be compared with the impressions taken from the murder car soon after its discovery. All that has been received at headquarters regarding the Atlanta suicide is the classification of the fingerprints, Inspector William S. Shelby, who is directing the investigation, was in communication with Atlanta authorities and gave them a detailed description of Miss Baker's assailant.

General Description Checks.

All that police have to connect the man, who removed all identification marks from his clothing before hanging himself, with the Baker murder is that he answers the general description of the slayer. Department of Justice agents in Atlanta told Capital police that the man had exercised the precaution of removing even laundry marks from his garments.

Robert J. Janney, 30 years old, latest suspect in the case, was again questioned yesterday afternoon by detectives. According to authorities the man is a narcotic addict, and had been trailed for two months by detectives. A notebook found in his home on New York avenue near Ninth street northwest contains numerous addresses with countersigns for the entry to the places, which operatives believe to be drug dens.

Detectives who questioned Janney yesterday said he was showing the effects of abstention from drugs. New York police have not notified local police regarding Janney's alibi that he was in that city on April 11.

Pawn Check Studied.

Police are checking his story that he remained in the Woodstock Hotel on April 11, and are striving to determine the authenticity of a pawn check dated April 11 which was found on his person.

Search is still in progress for an itinerant painter who disappeared from this city on May 3 and has not been seen at his usual haunts since that time. Lieut. Edward J. Kelly said that the man will have "a lot of explaining to do." The quest has spread to several cities but no encouraging reports have been received here.

Sale of a pistol to an automobile painter by a tramp painter two days after the murder was checked out yesterday by police, who found the purchaser and learned that the gun is of .38 caliber. Mary Baker was shot with a .32-caliber gun.

Helen Harding, who lives near Oak Crest, Va., yesterday failed to identify the scarf found with Mary Baker's clothing as the one which the suspected "tent dweller" is said to have offered to her a few weeks ago.

Methodist Church Unit Is Completed

$40,000 Culpeper Building Will Serve as New Sunday School.

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., May 12.—The formality of laying the corner stone today marked the completion and acceptance of the first $40,000 unit of the new Culpeper Methodist Church.

W. D. Reams, worshipful master of Fairfax Lodge, No. 43, A. F. and A. M., laid the stone with the assistance of other Masons, after which the building was accepted on behalf of the church by L. A. Rhoades, chairman of the building committee. Dr. Thomas Fitzgerald Carroll, presiding elder of the Charlottesville district, addressed the congregation of the church to the community.

The Rev. Starke Jett, pastor of the Culpeper Church for the past four years, explained tonight that this unit, which has been built alongside the old church, is just the beginning of construction, and that later the old building will be razed and a new auditorium built where it now stands. The building accepted today will be then used for Sunday school.

Fowler, James Otis Porter, Elijah Anthony and William S. Hepner.

RITCHIE POWERLESS IN BONDSMEN CASES

Governor States Law Limits Him to Referring Cases to County Heads.

PARRON ACTION AWAITED

Clarifying his own position regarding charges that certain constables and justices of the peace in Prince Georges County were in league with bondsmen and guilty of wrongdoing, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland issued a statement last night declaring that the matter was one for action solely by authorities of the county, according to Maryland law.

He simultaneously mdae public a communication of Attorney General Thomas H. Robinson, of the State, on which he based his own declaration.

"What is primarily called for is a serious and thorough investigation of the whole situation by authorities charged by law with the duty of investigating it," declared Gov. Ritchie. "The attorney general advises me that these are the county authorities and that the entire matter should be laid before the State's attorney for Prince Georges County."

"I already brought the charges formally to the attention of State's Attorney Parran and the county commissioners, with the request that they make such investigation and take such action as the facts warranted. I assume, of course, that the State's attorney will deal with the matter promptly along the lines suggested by the attorney general. I do not want to prejudge charges against any one, and I think that the reference of the whole situation to the State's attorney is all that is called for from me at the present time.

"Many people seem to think that whenever an officer of the law is charged with dereliction it is the responsibility of the governor to ascertain the facts and take whatever action they call for. This is by no means always the case. Under the system in this State law enforcement is not primarily a State function, but is a local or county function. The officers charged with this duty are county officers, elected by the people of the county or appointed by their duly elected representatives. They are not answerable to the governor for their official acts and are not removable by him. The one exception to this is the case of justices of the peace who are appointed by the governor, but the governor can not remove them."

Aviation Leaders Leave for Parley

(Associated Press.)

Nearly 200 leaders in American aviation started yesterday by train, boat and airplane on their annual pilgrimage to the Langley Memorial Aeronautical Laboratory at Langley Field, Va., where the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics will to host today to the fifth annual aircraft engineering research conference.

Experts will exchange ideas for development of aviation. In the morning the committee will display the scientific work in progress and in the afternoon sound out its future program.

Officers Elected By Citizens Group

Takoma Park Association Praises Col. Grant for Staying in Capital.

H. W. Rutledge was elected president of the Takoma Park Citizens Association last night at Takoma Branch Library, Fifth and Cedar streets. B. W. Andrews was chosen first vice president and Mrs. Alcena Lamond second vice president.

Other officers selected are Samuel Handelsman, treasurer; W. A. Greene, secretary, and John Walker, former president, and Mrs. Andrews, as delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations. Members of the association discussed the street program included in the 1932 budget and urged the early paving of Laurel, Walnut, Van Buren and Fifth streets.

A resolution of appreciation of Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, for declining a position in another city was adopted, and a movement to build a junior college in Washington was discussed. Appreciation was also expressed that the elimination of the Chestnut street grade crossing is included in the new District appropriations bill.

Federation Tables Action on Charter

County Council Plan Held Unfeasible Government Plan at Present.

The Montgomery County Civic Federation last night decided to postpone action on a resolution to investigate the feasibility of county council charter form of government. The federation felt that it was not an opportune time to change the form of government.

The council charter form of government would permit the county to issue regulations and expend money without the authority of the Maryland Legislature.

The federation passed a resolution asking the State road committee to widen three culverts along the Rockville pike just above Bethesda. It was stated that the culverts were so narrow that they interfered with traffic.

Emory Bagley, chairman of the good-will and dinner committee, announced that the affair will be held Friday, May 16. Gov. Albert C. Ritchie and officials of the District will attend.

It would cost you $1,920 for stamps if you sent letters to all Post readers that can be reached by Post Classified Ads any morning.

Miner Gets Life For Killing Man

Devilbiss Withdraws Plea for Another Trial in Martinsburg.

Special to The Washington Post.

Berkeley Springs, W. Va., May 12. Jacob Devilbiss, 28, of this county, convicted, with recommendation of mercy, of the murder of Theodore Wreckman here three weeks ago, withdrew his plea for a new trial when the motion was called today and was immediately sentenced by Judge D. H. Rodgers, in circuit court, to life imprisonment in the State Penitentiary.

Counsel for Devilbiss had promised to present affidavits that two of the jurors who sat in the case had expressed hostility toward the defendant before the case was called. Wreckman was killed late in February on a lonely road near Magnolia. His body was found by a passer-by a day later. Devilbiss admitted the killing, but said it was done in self-defense.

The two were fellow miners at Crucible, Pa., and had started for a visit with Devilbiss' relatives here when the slaying occurred. The State claimed Devilbiss slew to get possession of Wreckman's automobile.

Montgomery County Men File Pleas in Court at Rockville.

Two suits for absolute divorce were filed in Circuit Court at Rockville, Md., yesterday, the husbands being plaintiffs in both actions.

Bernard Joseph Mattingly, of Takoma Park, Md., asks an absolute divorce from Mrs. Mary May Mattingly, also of Takoma Park, charging infidelity and naming a corespondent. Through Attorney Milton Whitney, jr., of Takoma Park, the husband declares that the marriage took place February, 1928, and that repeated efforts at reconciliation have failed.

Laurence M. Ogden, of Montgomery County, asks absolute divorce from Mrs. Clara R. Ogden, whose last known address was Kirklyn, Pa., he states in a petition filed by Attorney Robert B. Peter, jr. Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA handed me a rake and a hoe.

"What are these for?" I asked, fearing the worst.

She smiled. "You'll find out. Follow me!"

And I followed, sheep that I am.

She produced a basket full of plants.

"Where'd you get all that stuff?"

"Aren't they beautiful?"

"Whered'ye get 'em?"

"A friend of mine——"

"It wasn't no friend o' mine," I murmured, sensing the number. There must-a been a thousand bulbs.

"There are just 47 varieties here," said Luella, "so you can get to work digging the holes——"

"Digging holes with a hoe?"

"If you can't dig 'em with a hoe," she said, "you can with a pick——"

"But we haven't got a pick——"

* * * *

THAT didn't make any difference. She borrowed one from a neighbor.

"Say," I pleaded, "why don't you send for a gardener? I've got some work to do——"

"There's nothing you can do quite so important as this," said Luella, pointing out the places she wanted to beautify.

At the nineteenth hole, one of the boys down the street came by with his golf clubs and asked me to go out on the links with him.

"You'll do nothing of the kind," flashed Luella, hearing the invitation. "You'll get more exercise here than you will on a golf course——"

"But, Luella——"

"When you get to the forty-seventh hole, let me know, and we'll start planting."

By that time, I was darn near dead from the exertion, but we planted the bulbs and then she got out the watering can.

"Why not the hose?" I asked, in desperation, running every few minutes to fill up the little can.

"Too severe on the young plants——"

* * * *

OVER across the way some one turned on a radio, a singer in New York warbling, "Thank God for a Garden"——

"Isn't that beautiful?" said Luella, in glee, "and so appropriate."

"That song—and the voice——"

It occurred to me that the singer had probably never seen a garden.

At quitting time, as I stretched on the sofa, Luella handed me a book. "Here," she said, "I want you to read a wonderful poem——"

And there it was, "The Man With the Hoe."

What a man! What, Ho!

The Boy Scout movement in this section is assuming more importance than ever before, and has the active support of several civic and patriotic organizations, including the American Legion. At the last court of honor, which was held in the American Legion Hall at Gadsby's Tavern, one scout received the star award, ten were awarded honors as second-class scouts, one as first class and seven were given merit badges.

Late reports on the Alexandria forward movement of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, which has just completed its drive for membership and to raise funds for its activities, indicate that the goal of $25,000 a year for three years has been reached, and the membership now stands at more than 900, as compared with approximately 200 at the beginning of the drive. The promoters of the movement have not stopped work yet, and memberships are still being recorded. It will probably be several days before the complete list of members will be compiled.

The first meeting of the board of directors of the reorganized chamber will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the chamber's headquarters in the George Mason Hotel. COLD AND DROUGHT HIT VIRGINIA CROPS

May 1 Prospects Are Less Bright Than Is Usual for This Time of Year.

FIELD WORK IS GOOD

Richmond, Va., May 12 (A.P.).—Cold and drought in April retarded Virginia crops so that on May 1 the outlook was less favorable than usual at this time of the year, says the monthly report of the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service, issued here today by John A. Hicks, agricultural statistician.

Although helpful for outdoor farm work, weather conditions in April are described in the report as "generally unfavorable."

"In some sections of the State," the report continues, "local showers occurred, but these were usually followed by cold dry winds and very little moisture remained in the soil. Heavy frosts occurred at intervals during the month, which did considerable damage to fruits and delayed vegetation. Pastures and meadows are considered to be ten days to two weeks late and farmers are reported to be feeding live stock much later than usual.

Field Work Progresses.

"In spite of the dry weather, field work made very satisfactory progress during April. Some difficulty was experienced in ordering the soil in some sections. However, in general storage moisture has been sufficient to permit the preparation of a good seed bed for spring crops. Correspondents state that the weather has been ideal for field work—plenty of sunshine and cool enough to permit the use of teams to the greatest advantage. Considerable corn acreage has been selected and cotton planting has commenced, but these crops are in need of warm rains to guarantee a proper germination of the seed."

Wheat, says the report, survived the winter in good condition but deteriorated slightly during April due to the lack of sufficient moisture. The condition May 1 was reported as 86 per cent of normal, compared with 87 per cent on April 1 and 89 per cent on May 1 last year. The total acreage remaining for harvest this year is 670,000 acres, compared with 700,000 acres harvested last year, and a production of 8,710,000 bushels is forecast this year as against 9,960,000 bushels last year.

Oats 81 Per Cent Normal.

The condition of Virginia oats was reported at 81 per cent of normal, compared with 87 per cent reported on May 1, 1929. "Oats sown this spring are late getting started, but with sufficient rains during May should produce a fair crop," says the report.

"The Virginia rye crop, like wheat, has made very slow progress this spring. The condition May 1 is reported at 86 per cent of normal, compared with 87 per cent on April 1 and 89 per cent on May 1, last year. The acreage remaining for harvest is estimated to be 56,000 acres. The production of rye is forecast to be 700,000 bushels, compared with 625,000 last year.

"Hay crops have made very slow progress this spring. The condition is reported to be 72 per cent of normal compared with the unusually high percentage of 89 reported May 1 last year. Pastures are very short and backward and have afforded only a small amount of grazing so far.

Early Potatoes Slow.

Early potatoes have been slow getting started and some frost damage to the early plants is reported. Some correspondents state that the lack of a good stand might be attributed to the use of bad seed or to seed which was chilled before planting. The early potato acreage in Virginia is estimated to be 83,200 acres, compared with 77,000 acres harvested last year.

Milk production, due to the lack of sufficient pastures, did not make the usual seasonal increase between April 1 and May 1. The average production per cow milked on May 1 was 18.4 pounds, compared with 16.4 pounds on April 1, while last year on May 1 the production per cow milked was 20 pounds, compared with 17.8 pounds a
